Re: Complaint Against Congressman Dan Frisa; Dan Frisa for Congress; and Patrick H. O'Sullivan, as Treasurer

Dear Mr. Noble:

This letter constitutes a complaint against Congressman Dan Frisa; Dan Frisa for Congress (the "Committee"); and Patrick H. O'Sullivan, as treasurer, alleging violations of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("FECA" or the "Act"), 2 U.S.C. §§ 431 et seq., and related regulations of the Federal Election Commission ("FEC" or the "Commission") 11 C.F.R. §§ 100.1 et seq.

The Committee Discloses No Disbursements For Staff or Overhead Despite an Active Campaign and Fundraising Effort

Throughout the 1996 election cycle, the Committee's reports have not disclosed any disbursements for salary, consulting fees, rent or any of the other overhead expenditures typical of an active campaign. During this same period, however, the Committee was raising significant funds from individuals and PACs. In 1995 alone, the Committee raised over $400,000 apparently with no staff, consultants, rent or overhead expenses.

In 1996, the Committee's pre-primary report shows three itemized disbursements for computer repair, postage and phone service. See Exhibit A. Thus, the total disbursements for the month and a half leading up to the primary were only $6,511.80. There were no payments for staff or rent. During this same period, the Committee reported total receipts of approximately $45,000 from individuals and political action committees demonstrating that Congressman Frisa was, in fact, running an active campaign.

Lawrence M. Noble, Esq.

Similarly, on the July Quarterly Report, the Committee reported operating expenditures of postage, printing and computer equipment. See Exhibit B. Again, the Committee listed no staff salaries or office rent. While there were fundraising expenses for room rentals, catering and postage, there were no payments to consultants or staff generally required to organize such events. Indeed, the Committee was clearly actively fundraising since total receipts were $101,960 during the quarter. Earlier reports are similar; the pattern extends back indefinitely. There are no overhead costs or staff expenses. The only significant disbursements for services were for legal fees.

In the most recent October Quarterly Report, the Committee raised close to $130,000¹ and again had no staff or overhead. See Exhibit C.

This raises the issue of whether the Committee is incurring costs or receiving in-kind contributions and services that it is not disclosing in violation of the Act. Federal law requires that the treasurer of a committee maintain an account of the name and address of every person to whom any disbursement is made, and the date, amount and purpose of the disbursement. 11 C.F.R. § 102.9(b)(1)-(2). All disbursements during a reporting period must be disclosed in accordance with 11 C.F.R. § 104.3(b). Moreover, the treasurer is responsible for the timely, complete and accurate filing of reports. 11 C.F.R. § 104.14(d).

It is highly unusual for an active campaign that is circulating petitions, raising funds and preparing and distributing mailings, as the Frisa campaign is, not to have a single staff person or office headquarters. The Commission should investigate whether the Committee is making disbursements and not disclosing them and whether the Committee is receiving in-kind contributions of office rent, staff time and other services and failing to report them in violation of the Act.

In-kind Services and Expenditures by Congressman Frisa's Chief of Staff

With regard to the question of illegal in-kind contributions, it also appears from the ¹This $130,000 figure may incorrectly include receipts back to July 1, 1996, not just activity since the cut-off date of primary Report of August 21, 1996.

public record that Congressman Frisa's Chief of Staff is serving as his campaign treasurer. The Committee's address is 23 Canyon Lane, Westbury, NY, and the phone number is listed as 516/338-4882. This address is the residence of Patrick O'Sullivan. This may, therefore, be the residence of Congressman Frisa's Congressional Chief of Staff, Patrick O'Sullivan. The phone number is answered by a home answering machine with the message, "Please leave a message for Karen or Patrick." This may be the same Karen O'Sullivan who serves as Congressman Frisa's district representative.

Thus, it appears that Mr. O'Sullivan is simultaneously working as Frisa's Chief of Staff, his campaign treasurer and his campaign manager. However, Mr. O'Sullivan is not listed on Respondent's report as a paid employee or consultant. While Mr. O'Sullivan may be serving the Committee in a volunteer capacity, even that arrangement raises the issue of whether he is performing the duties as campaign staff at the same time he is working in the congressional office. Moreover, it is highly unlikely that Mr. O'Sullivan has made no expenditures on the campaign's behalf, such as for phone bills or postage. Any such expenditures would be considered an in-kind contribution to the Committee and must be reported as such.

If a volunteer uses personal funds to pay campaign expenditures, that payment is considered a contribution, even if he is subsequently reimbursed by the campaign committee. 11 C.F.R. § 100.7(a)(1). This would include any payments for postage, office supplies, phone costs or any other campaign materials. These costs are not included under the volunteer exemption and are contributions to the campaign, counting against contribution limits.²

Moreover, federal criminal law specifically prohibits employees of Members of Congress from making contributions to their employing Member. 18 U.S.C. § 603. House employees may not pay any expenses for the campaign, even if the campaign reimburses the staff person. See 11 C.F.R. § 116.5(b). Thus, if Mr. O'Sullivan has made any expenditures on behalf of the campaign, with the exception of payment of personal travel expenses, he would be a violation of section 603 of Title 18. In addition, these expenditures would constitute in-kind contributions that must be reported in accordance with FEC regulations.

The only exception to this rule is for personal travel expenses reimbursed within the required time period.

Failure to Make "Best Efforts" to Disclose Occupation and Employer Information

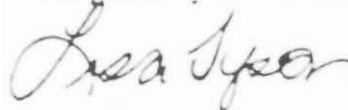

As more fully described in the attached article, Congressman Frisa's campaign also appears to fall far short of the requirements to include employer and occupation information on its reports. According to an article in The Hill, the House Member with the highest percentage of large donors who failed to disclose their employer was Representative Frisa. Based on a study conducted by the Center for Responsive Politics, the committee failed to identify employer and occupation of 80 percent of its contributors.

Under the FECA, committees and their treasurers must make best efforts to obtain information regarding contributors. If an individual who has contributed more than $200 during the calendar year fails to provide the required information, including name, mailing address, occupation and employer, the recipient committee is required to demonstrate that it made "best efforts" to obtain and report that information. Based on the committee's reports, it appears that the committee and the treasurer may not have satisfied the "best efforts" requirements. We request that the Commission review this issue to determine if the committee is complying with these disclosure requirements.

Conclusion

In light of these apparent violations, the Commission should conduct an immediate investigation. Based on the investigation, the undersigned requests the Commission impose the stiffest civil penalties authorized by law.

Respectfully submitted,

Lisa Tyson

HEADLINE: 'MYSTERY' DONORS SPENT $20M ON '94 CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES

BYLINE: Craig Karmin

BODY:

Federal Election Commission reports show House candidates received $11.5 million from persons who gave more than $200 but didn't list their employer or occupation. Meanwhile, Senate candidates received $10 million from such contributions. Together, these donations accounted for nine percent of all individual contributions to congressional campaigns.

If the FEC determines that a campaign willfully disregarded the disclosure requirement, it can seek fines up to the full value of the contributions in question. The commission, however, rarely penalizes campaigns for failing to disclose employer or occupation because the law requires only that campaigns make a "best effort."

FEC commissioners say they do all they can to uphold the law, which requires campaigns to make two formal attempts to acquire the employer information.

"Congress established a best efforts standard, not a letter-perfect standard," said Chairman Danny McDonald. "In the commission's protracted rule making, we went as far as we could, legally."

Ellen Miller, executive director at the Center for Responsive Politics, said last year's figures were a big improvement over previous elections, where the typical campaign failed to disclose 30 to 40 percent of its contributors employers and was not required to make a follow-up request.

But she added that the "best effort" standard, instituted in 1993, still doesn't go far enough. "Many campaigns felt that as long as they complied with the letter of the law it was sufficient, rather than the intent of the law, which is full disclosure," said Miller.

If campaigns return contributions from individuals who fail to disclose the necessary information, she said, the problem would be solved. But few in Congress hold this view, and none of the 17 campaign finance reform bills introduced in the 104th Congress has addressed the issue.

The House member with the highest percentage of large donors who failed to disclose their employer was freshman Rep. Daniel Frisa (R-N.Y.) at 80 percent. Next were Reps. Walter Tucker (D-Calif.) with 77 percent and Albert Wynn (D-Md.) at 70 percent. Rep. George Nethercutt (R-Wash.), with $270,000, received the most money through such contributions.

"In the rush of the campaign there were instances where we didn't get the information," explained Frisa's accountant Steven Leventhal. "But afterwards, we made an effort to reach every contributor. Our intentions have always been to provide maximum disclosure."

But Congressmen who had perfect contributor disclosure records were not impressed. "Disclosure is the hallmark of our campaign system," said Rep. Dave Camp (R-Md.), who says he works personally with his campaign to make sure all information is received.

"People who give money are not reluctant to tell you what they do," said Rep. John Linder (R-Ga.), who also had full employer disclosure. The campaigns that had huge holes, he added, "are lazy campaigns."

In the Senate, Daniel Akaka (D-Hawaii) topped the list with 40 percent but was the only Democrat in the top ten. He was followed by Spencer Abraham (Mich.) at 24 percent and John Ashcroft (Mo.) at 20 percent. Kay Bailey Hutchison (Texas), who ran in both special and regular elections, took in the most money from such contributions, $1.2 million.

At the other end, Sen. Jon Kyl's (R-Ariz.) campaign disclosed the employer for all but one of his 3,351 contributors. And 44 House members' disclosed employers for all large donors.

Most campaign spokespersons responded that they had taken the necessary steps to fulfill the law, though many still have not provided the FEC with the employer information sought.

Some maintained that the task was too daunting for first-time campaigns. "I would say it's impossible to get all the information in time," said Lowell Ruen, treasurer for the Nethercutt campaign. Ruen added that the campaign sent out

letters to all contributors who didn't list employers

He concedes, however, the campaign failed to request the information within the 30 days the contribution was received, as required by law. Ruen said the campaign was overwhelmed with contributions and lacked the manpower to process the information in time

Other campaigns offered an array of explanations. Crane's spokesman, Kirt Johnson, said the congressman's suburban Chicago district is populated by retirees who tend to disregard requests for an employer. Spokesmen for Rep. Sherrod Brown (D-Ohio) and Tucker blamed incompetent campaign treasurers, whom, they said, were fired mid-campaign

Mike Hudome, campaign manager for Sen. Abraham, insisted that the campaign did all it could to get the information, pointing out the practical benefits of having it: "To better fund-raise, you want the employer information for future solicitations."

While GOPAC has been roundly criticized for failing to disclose information about its contributors, its recently departed chairman, Speaker Newt Gingrich, has done better with his own campaign, where only five percent of his contributions failed to disclose employer. The total from these contributions was $54,000.

That wasn't as good, however, as Minority Leader Richard Gephardt (D-Mo.), whose campaign disclosed the occupations for all but two percent, or $12,800, of its contributors

Re: MUR 4542

Dear Ms. Sealander:

This is written on behalf of Patrick H. O'Sullivan, treasurer of Dan Frisa for Congress, in response to your letter dated November 1, 1996. A duly executed Designation of Counsel is enclosed.

For clarity and convenience, I will organize this response by headings that conform with the headings contained in the complaint of Lisa Tyson, dated October 18, 1996.

FIRST CLAIM

The Committee Discloses No Disbursements For Staff or Overhead Despite an Active Campaign and Fundraising Effort.

FIRST RESPONSE

All campaign expenditures for the respective periods were duly reported. The Committee did not incur expenses for staff or overhead during the periods covered by the campaign reports. The Committee relied exclusively on the services of volunteers for its fundraising activities. Most campaign activity was deferred until the last weeks prior to the election, and did not occur in the periods covered by the campaign reports referred to in the complaint. The activity for the balance of the election cycle will be reported as required by law, within 30 days following the election.

SECOND CLAIM

In-Kind Services and Expenditures by Congressman Frisa's Chief of Staff.

SECOND RESPONSE

Mr. O'Sullivan served the campaign in a volunteer capacity. He scrupulously avoided performing any campaign functions while working in the 93043854939

November 14, 1996
Page 2.

Congressional Office. Mr. O'Sullivan did not incur any expenditures for phone bills, postage, office supplies or campaign materials, or otherwise contribute to the campaign. He merely provided this Commission with his home address and home phone number for its convenience in contacting him, if necessary. The Committee maintained its own phone service for campaign purposes.

THIRD CLAIM

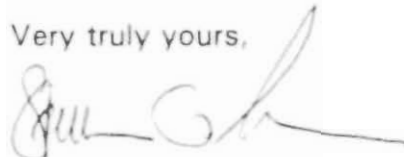

Failure to Make "Best Efforts" to Disclose Occupation and Employer Information.

THIRD RESPONSE

The article cited by the complainant was dated May 10, 1995, and refers to reports covered by prior MUR No. 4017, in which the Commission determined to exercise its prosecutorial discretion and to take no action against the Committee. Thereafter, the Committee used its best efforts to disclose all required occupation and employer information. Indeed, subsequent MUR No. 4219, which resulted in a conciliation agreement dated August 9, 1995, did not raise any issue related to occupation and employer information.

I hope that this letter has been fully responsive, and that no further action will be necessary. However, please feel free to contact the undersigned if you require any additional information. Thank you in advance for your courtesy and cooperation.

Very truly yours,

Steven G. Leventhal

GENERAL COUNSEL'S REPORT

I. INTRODUCTION.

The cases listed below have been identified as either stale or of low priority based upon evaluation under the Enforcement Priority System (EPS). This report is submitted to recommend that the Commission no longer pursue these cases.

This is the first Enforcement Priority Report that reflects the impact of the 1996 election cycle cases on the Commission's enforcement workload. We have identified cases that are stale which are recommended for dismissal at this time. This is the highest number of cases identified as stale in a single report, and the highest number of stale cases recommended for closure at one time, since the inception of EPS in 1993.

II. CASES RECOMMENDED FOR CLOSURE.

A. Cases Not Warranting Further Action Relative to Other Cases Pending Before the Commission

EPS was created to identify pending cases which, due to the lower priority of the issues raised in the matters relative to others presently pending before the Commission, do not warrant further expenditure of resources. Central Enforcement Docket (CED) evaluates each incoming matter using Commission-approved criteria, resulting in a numerical rating for each case.

Closing such cases permits the Commission to focus its limited resources on more important cases presently pending before it. Based upon this review, we have identified cases that do not warrant further action relative to other pending matters.³ Attachment I to this report contains summaries of each case, the EPS rating, and the factors leading to assignment of a low priority and recommendation not to further pursue the matter.

B. Stale Cases

Effective enforcement relies upon the timely pursuit of complaints and referrals to ensure compliance with the law. Investigations concerning activity more remote in time usually require a greater commitment of resources, primarily due to the fact that the evidence of such activity becomes more difficult to develop as it ages. Focusing investigative efforts on more recent and more significant activity also has a more positive effect on the electoral process and the regulated community. In recognition of this fact, EPS provides us with the means to identify those cases which, though earning a higher rating when received, remained unassigned for a significant period due to a lack of staff resources for effective investigation. The utility of commencing an investigation declines as these cases age, until they reach a point when activation of a case would not be an efficient use of the Commission's resources.

We have identified cases that have remained on the Central Enforcement Docket for a sufficient period of time to render them stale. We are recommending the closure of cases based on staleness.⁶

The Demio case involves fundraising related to former Congresswoman Mary Rose Oakar's 1992 congressional campaign. It was held as a courtesy to the Department of Justice pending resolution of a parallel criminal matter in the District Court for the District of Columbia. Mr. Demio recently entered into a plea agreement with the Department of Justice (on which we were not consulted) in which he agreed, among other things, to waive the statute of limitations regarding civil violations of the FECA. Considering the age of the case and activity, the fact that DOJ has not formally referred this matter to us, and the Commission's continuing resource constraints, dismissal is the appropriate disposition of this matter.

We recommend that the Commission exercise its prosecutorial discretion and direct closure of the cases listed below, effective November 17, 1997. Closing these cases as of this date will permit CED and the Legal Review Team the necessary time to prepare closing letters and case files for the public record.
