Dear Commissioners:

The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee ("DCCC") files this complaint charging violations of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("FECA"), 2 U.S.C. §§ 431 et seq., and related regulations of the Federal Election Commission ("FEC"), 11 C.F.R. §§ 100.1 et seq., by U.S. Term Limits.

Respondents have violated the FECA by making prohibited expenditures of corporate funds in connection with a federal election. 2 U.S.C. § 441b; 11 C.F.R. § 114.1. In the alternative, Respondent has failed to register as a political committee and report its receipts and disbursements.

DCCC asks that the FEC conduct an expedited review of this complaint. U.S. Term Limits has indicated that it intends to conduct similar activities across the country during the 1994 election cycle. Resolution of this matter after the 1994 general election would make a mockery of the FECA and its underlying principles.

The Facts

In connection with the special general election to be held in the 6th Congressional District of Oklahoma on May 10, 1994, U.S. Term Limits, a District of Columbia corporation, announced that it was conducting a mail and radio campaign which, by their own estimate, would cost "upwards of $30,000." (See U.S. Term Limits Press Release attached.)

The press release makes clear the purpose of the organization's campaign. It is entitled "Frank Lucas Signs Voters' Contract/Webber Refuses to Support Term Limits." It quotes Paul Jacob, the organization's Executive Director at length:

- "The voters of Oklahoma's sixth district have a clear choice. They can vote for Frank Lucas, a true term limit supporter, or vote for a former congressional staffer dedicated to a career in Congress and opposed to term limits."
- "It is imperative that the voters know who will act on this crucial issue when they reach Washington, and who will join the incumbent political club."
- "Our polling shows that 78 percent of the registered voters in the sixth district want a constitutional amendment for term limits. If they want term limits, then they need to know that only Frank Lucas has taken a pro-term limit stand."

The press release also indicates that the poll taken "showed a plurality of sixth district constituents less likely to re-elect an incumbent who opposes term limits."¹

The release attempts to cloud the true purpose of the campaign by describing its efforts as "voter education" and stating that U.S. Term Limits does not endorse Congressional candidates, a dubious claim, given the remaining text of the release and the materials used in the campaign.

The purpose of the radio advertisements is equally clear. See full text attached. In comparing the positions of the two candidates, the ad states: "Only one candidate for Congress in the Sixth District is for term limits for career politicians . . .". Again, although the advertisement attempts to avoid an election-influencing tone by urging listeners to "convince both candidates to support term limits," the remaining text makes it clear which candidate the voters should choose in the special election.

¹The FEC should also look into whether the polling data was provided to one of the candidates before it was made public. This, of course, would result in an additional violation of the FECA.

The Law

The FEC has reviewed the issues raised by the actions of U.S. Term Limits and has concluded that such corporate spending violates the FECA. In Advisory Opinion 1992-23, the FEC considered facts strikingly similar to those here and concluded that corporate funds could not be used to run ads that expressly advocated the election or defeat of a clearly identified candidate. The analysis of that Opinion, when applied to the facts here, has the same result: a violation of the corporate spending prohibition of the FECA.

In AO 1992-23, the FEC reviewed the advertisements in question with a view toward determining whether the ads contained "express advocacy." The Commission relied on a series of Supreme Court decisions defining this term and setting out the following standards:

- Express advocacy deals with "spending that is unambiguously related to the campaign of a particular federal candidate." Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S.C. 1, 80 (1976).
- In determining whether a communication contains express advocacy, you must look to the "essential nature" of the communication. Express advocacy should be found where the communication goes "beyond issue discussion to express electoral advocacy." Federal Election Commission v. Massachusetts Citizens for Life ("MCFL"), 479 U.S.C. 238, 249 (1986).
- Specific words are not required to find express advocacy where the communication "when read as a whole, and with limited reference to external events, [is] susceptible of no other reasonable interpretation but as an exhortation to vote for or against a specific candidate." Federal Election Commission v. Furgatch, 807 F.2d 857, 864 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 484 U.S. 850 (1987).

Applying these standards, the Commission determined that the advertisements contained express advocacy. The FEC acknowledged that the advertisements addressed public issues, but when taken together with the timing of the ads (right before an election) and the contents of the ads (specific reference to elections; disparaging one candidate and his positions on issues), the Commission concluded that the advertisements went beyond mere issue discussion, and, if paid with corporate funds, would result in a prohibited corporate expenditure.

The application of these standards to the activities of U.S. Term Limits yields the same result: The communications identify specific candidates. The communications were made immediately before an election and specifically mention that "the voters have a clear choice" in that election. The communications favor one candidate over the other.

Even though there are no "magic" express advocacy words ("vote for," "support," "elect"), there can be no other reasonable interpretation than that U.S. Term Limits intended the communications to be "an exhortation against a specific candidate." The press release states that if the voters favor term limits "only Frank Lucas has taken a pro-term limit stand.". There is nothing ambiguous about which candidate U.S. Term Limits would like the voters to choose. The spending by U.S. Term Limits violates the FECA.

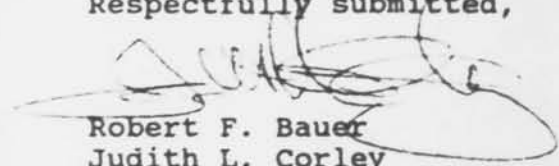

U.S. Term Limits cannot use the exception under MCFL for independent expenditures by a certain limited class of corporations. First, the expenditure could not have been independent under the Commission's regulations, since such expenditures must not be made with the cooperation of or coordination with any candidate. 11 C.F.R. § 109.1. By coordinating the signing of the "voters' contract" on term limits with the candidate, U.S. Term Limits' ability to make independent expenditures on behalf of that candidate is barred. There is the further question whether U.S. Term Limits could even meet the MCFL exemption, which requires that the organization have a clear policy of not accepting donations from incorporated business entities.

Conclusion

On the basis of the foregoing, the DCCC believes it has made a case for expedited review of this matter. The FEC should conduct a prompt and thorough investigation, take all appropriate steps to remedy the violations alleged in this complaint, and, most importantly, ensure that no further violations occur.

U.S. Term Limits Unveils Voter Education Program

Frank Lucas Signs Voters' Contract Webber Refuses to Support Term Limits

Washington, D.C. -- Today, U.S. Term Limits announced that State Representative Frank Lucas, running for Congress in the May 10th special election in Oklahoma's sixth district, has signed the Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress, while his opponent, Dan Webber, has not. The announcement came as part of U.S. Term Limits' voter education program, designed to convince Webber to sign the Voters' Contract. The program is expected to cost upwards of $30,000.

"The voters of Oklahoma's sixth district have a clear choice," said Paul Jacob, executive director of U.S. Term Limits in Washington, D.C. "They can vote for Frank Lucas, a true term limit supporter, or vote for a former congressional staffer dedicated to a career in Congress and opposed to term limits."

The Voters' Contract, being distributed to every congressional candidate nationwide, asks prospective members of Congress to support a constitutional amendment limiting members of the U.S. House of Representatives to six years in office, and limiting U.S. Senators to 12 years (consistent with the Oklahoma initiative sponsored by Citizens for Congressional and Legislative Reform). In addition, it asks that they sign, or file if necessary, a discharge petition on the legislation and vote for the amendment when it ultimately reaches the floor.

"It is imperative that the voters know who will act on this crucial issue when they reach Washington, and who will join the incumbent politician club," said Jacob, whose organization does not offer endorsements to congressional candidates. "The Voters' Contract helps determine who is truly committed to the ideal of public service and the enactment of term limits."

Jacob went on to outline an expensive national voter education program being spearheaded by U.S. Term Limits. In Oklahoma's sixth district, the program entails a 50,000 piece mailing to registered voters and includes radio advertisements outlining the two candidates' platforms on the issue of term limits. The program is paid for by the U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund.

"Our polling shows that 78 percent of the registered voters in the sixth district want a constitutional amendment for term limits," concluded Jacob. "If they want term limits, then they need to know that only Frank Lucas has taken a pro-term limit stand."

The poll, conducted by Lantz Research Companies in late February, showed a large plurality of sixth district constituents less likely to re-elect an incumbent who opposes term limits.

U.S. Term Limits is a national non-profit organization, dedicated to rallying Americans to limit congressional, state and local terms. For more information or to obtain a complete copy of the poll, please contact Chris Marks at 202-393-6440.

RE: MUR 3975

Dear Ms. Taksar:

The Lucas for Congress Committee is in receipt of a copy of the complaint filed against the U.S. Term Limits Organization. Since it was not named as a Respondent, the Committee was surprised to receive a copy of the complaint.

We acknowledge that we signed the pledge supporting term limits, but such activity does not constitute a contribution under the Act. It is typical for organizations to inquire with regards to a candidate's positions.

We have not received notice of any reportable contribution from U.S. Term Limits and therefore have reported none.

David Lightfoot

Dear Commissioners:

Last month the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee ("DCCC") filed a complaint against U.S. Term Limits. Copy attached. This letter is intended to supplement that initial complaint.

The U.S. Term Limits activities described in that complaint were not isolated, limited only to the Oklahoma special election, but rather the first in a pattern of continuing violations of the federal campaign laws. Moreover, evidence indicates that other organizations, including Americans for Tax Reform and the Christian Coalition, among others, are apparently engaging in similar tactics designed to influence federal elections without complying with the source restrictions, contribution limits and disclosure requirements of the Federal Election Campaign Act.

Kentucky Special Election: U.S. Term Limits

The activities of U.S. Term Limits in advocating the election of a particular candidate in an election continued in the Kentucky special election for the 2nd Congressional District. As the enclosed news stories show, the organization undertook a similar ad campaign against the Democratic nominee in this special election.

U.S. Term Limits has stated that it intends to continue its activities in future elections. The press release issued by the organization in connection with the Oklahoma special election described a "national" effort. As described below, their efforts are apparently part of a group of organizations that are apparently using the same techniques to influence federal elections.

Discussion

These organizations are conducting what amounts to a "shadow" campaign on behalf of one of the candidates in these elections. As the news stories set out, the spending by these groups is widely perceived to have had a profound impact on the outcome of the elections.

The activities undertaken -- advertising and mailings advocating one candidate over another -- are financed without regard to lawful sources, contribution limits or disclosure requirements of federal law. Yet, the other participants in the election, candidates, party committees, PACs, must comply fully with these laws or face enforcement action by the Commission.

This case does not fall into the "gray" areas of the law. In one of the very earliest cases to consider the "express advocacy" standard, Federal Election Commission v. Central Long Island Tax Reform Immediately Committee et al., 616 F.2d 397 (2d Cir. 1980), the court considered whether a voter guide produced by CLITRIM contained express advocacy. The standard applied by the court to find that it did not contain such advocacy shows a clear distinction between CLITRIM's activities and those of U.S. Term Limits and the other organizations:

The CLITRIM Bulletin of Fall, 1976, contains nothing which could rationally be termed express advocacy. The nearest it comes to expressly calling for action of any sort is its exhortation that '[i]f your Representative consistently votes for measures that increase taxes, let him know how you feel. And thank him when he votes for lower taxes.' Neither this nor the voting chart calls for anyone's election or defeat. Indeed, a reader of the pamphlet could not find any indication, express or implied, of how TRIM would have him or her vote, without knowing the positions of the incumbent's opponent. There is no reference anywhere in the Bulletin to the congressman's party, to whether he is running for re-election, to the existence of an election or the act of voting in any election' nor is there anything approaching an unambiguous statement in favor of or against the election of [the congressman].

The standards for express advocacy set out by the courts (including those described in the DCCC's first complaint) can only result in the determination that express advocacy is present, and, as a result, the organizations in question have made contribution and expenditures in violation of the campaign law.

Need for Injunctive Relief

The actions of U.S. Term Limits in Oklahoma and in Kentucky demonstrate the organization's commitment to a continuing course of unlawful conduct in support of its candidates. They have announced that they intend to practice this tactic in other Congressional districts this year.

Upon information and belief other organizations have practiced and will continue to practice the same evasions of the campaign laws in House and possibly other federal races this year. Organizations such as the Christian Coalition and Americans for Tax Reform were active in Kentucky with advertising, mailings and other GOTV activities conducted outside the requirements of the FECA. While DCCC does not have possession of all of the materials used for these efforts, it does appear from press accounts, and not withstanding the denials of the organizations, that they, too, are utilizing this newest generation of "soft" money gambits to avoid the requirements of the campaign laws.

For this reason, the Commission should act immediately to address both the activities that have occurred to date and those which by the profession of these organizations can be expected in other races this year. Should the Commission treat this as a "normal" enforcement matter, requiring only routine case processing, these organizations will receive a clear signal and encouragement to ignore federal campaign finance controls in the pursuit of electoral victory for the candidates they support.

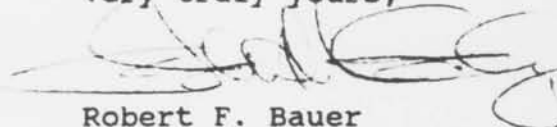

Conclusion

The Commission must act swiftly to prevent the continuing violations of law. The general election is only five months away -- primary elections are scheduled almost weekly until September. Any effort to resolve this complaint through the normal compliance procedures of the Commission will render the eventual decision made by the Commission moot. The Commission has the authority, under 2 U.S.C. § 437g, to expedite the review of a complaint and to seek injunctive relief or a restraining order to prevent just such continuing violations. The DCCC asks that the Commission take these steps to ensure meaningful enforcement of the law.

If the Commission cannot act in a timely manner, it should dismiss the complaint and allow the DCCC to seek a judicial remedy. The Commission can exercise its prosecutorial discretion to dismiss a case which, for want of four votes favoring the pursuit of injunctive relief, it acknowledges it cannot pursue in a timely fashion toward a meaningful remedy. This is the threshold question the Commission should decide: Does it wish to proceed on an equitable basis to seek injunctive relief against expected recurring violations? Should the Commission conclude that it cannot, it may nonetheless fulfill the intention of Congress that private party complainants may act where the Commission is unable to do so, and clear the way for a federal district court on appeal of the complainant to consider the violations in question and their suitability for the application of equitable remedies.

Very truly yours,

Robert F. Bauer

HEADLINE: LEWIS, OTHERS TAKE AIM AT PRATHER IN 2ND DISTRICT RACE CLINTON GOVERNMENT; ADMINISTRATION

BYLINE: AL CROSS

BODY:

Republican nominee Ron Lewis continued to play offense while Democrat Joe Prather remained on defense yesterday as next Tuesday's special election for Congress in the 2nd District heated up again.

While Lewis was unveiling a new TV campaign financed with more than $90,000 from national Republican sources, Prather was targeted by the national term-limits campaign -- and faced the potential of similar radio-commercial attacks from a national anti-tax group.

Prather yesterday signed two of the tax pledges demanded by Americans for Tax Reform, which Lewis had challenged him to sign at a forum Saturday in Owensboro, but the group said it probably would still make Prather the target of a radio campaign if he doesn't sign a similar pledge on health care today.

Prather, who is refusing out-of-state and party contributions but has put $50,000 of his own into the race, said he is now the financial underdog in the race to fill the vacancy created by the death of Democrat William Natcher of Bowling Green.

In an effort to respond, the once heavily favored Prather ordered a new TV commercial and scheduled a news conference in Louisville today. The district includes more than 50,000 people in southern and eastern Jefferson County.

In a telephone interview, Prather said his record on taxes and his stance toward President Clinton are being distorted by Lewis.

"Anyone who has ever known Joe Prather knows that he's a fiscal conservative," Prather said. "I've always insisted we get a dollar's worth of value for a dollar spent."

Lewis' ads say Prather voted to raise taxes and fees more than 40 times during 11 of his 19 years as a state legislator, and say he and Clinton are both professional politicians who cut state-government deals for friends.

As the ad makes that charge, it displays the word "Whitewater" over Clinton's face and "no-bid contracts" over Prather's.

State Republican Chairman Terry Carmack said the ad refers to the state's main depository banking contract, which Prather, as finance secretary, renewed with Farmers Bank and Capital Trust Co. of Frankfort in March 1992 at about the same time Gov. Brereton Jones was refinancing more than $5 million in personal loans at the bank, to which many of his campaign contributors were connected.

Prather said at the time that he and Jones never discussed the matter and that he was unaware of Jones' statement while running for governor that the contract would be rebid, not renewed as the contract allowed.

Lewis' second round of ads, which have not yet been televised, make little mention of Prather and focus on Clinton, who lost the district in 1992 while carrying the state. "If you want to send a message to Bill Clinton, send me to Congress," Lewis concludes in one of the new ads.

Carmack said the National Republican Congressional Committee is buying Lewis $58,600 worth of TV time for the new ads.

That is twice the normal legal maximum, but Lewis can double-dip because he is also on the May 24 primary ballot for the nomination for a full term. Bruce Bartley of Glasgow is also on the ballot, but has withdrawn, removing any obstacle to party contributions designated for the primary.

The GOP congressional committee also gave Lewis $5,000, the legal maximum for a direct contribution for a single election.

The party's national senatorial committee, taking an unusual interest in a House race, gave $10,000, the same as the state Republican Party.

Several congressional Republicans gave $1,000 each, individually or through their campaign committees. Senate Minority Leader Robert Dole's political action committee gave $2,500. (Only contributions of $1,000 or more must be reported at this stage of a campaign.)

All told, Lewis was benefiting from at least $91,100 in new Republican money. The contributions buttress Carmack's insistence that Clinton's unpopularity and recent GOP gains in the Democratic district make it winnable for Lewis in the expected light turnout.

Carmack noted that Bartley got almost 40 percent of the vote against Natcher in 1992 despite running a very limited campaign. "That tells me there's a pretty good base of people there who want to vote for a conservative," he said.

Prather picked up another conservative credential yesterday as he signed two pledges proffered by Americans for Tax Reform -- one to oppose a national sales or value-added tax, the other to oppose any effort to raise income taxes or to scale back deductions and credits without matching reductions in tax rates.

Carmack said Lewis' pressure prompted Prather to sign the pledges, but Prather's campaign manager, Mike Johnson, said Prather hadn't had time to study the pledges and discuss them with Grover Norquist, the group's president, until yesterday.

Norquist said the group probably would still run radio commercials if Prather doesn't sign its pledge to vote against any health-care legislation that "mandates costs . . . rations health care or establishes price controls; increases taxes under any name or guise; or restricts or limits choices," including insurance. Lewis has signed the pledge.

The Courier-Journal, May 17, 1994

Prather opposes limits on congressional terms, and that will make him the target of an advertising campaign by U.S. Term Limits, the group's executive director said yesterday. Paul Jacob said the group would spend up to $20,000.

The group ran a similar campaign against the Democrat running in this month's special congressional election in Oklahoma. The Democrat lost. The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee filed a complaint with the Federal Election Commission yesterday questioning the legality of the campaign.

Voters in the 2nd District will elect a congressman today amid intense efforts by Republican Ron Lewis, Democrat Joe Prather and others to get out the vote in the special election to fill the vacancy created by the death of Democrat William Natcher.

Both campaigns took issue with the role of outside groups: Prather questioned a 90,000-copy epistle from the Christian Coalition, and Lewis objected to The Kentucky Education Association's pro-Prather mailing to the district's 5,400 KEA members.

The Christian Coalition did not advocate the election of Lewis, a Baptist minister and Christian bookstore owner, in a flier that described in one or two words the candidates' positions on 10 issues ranging from term limits to school prayer.

The Prather campaign said the flier described his position on federal firearm registration incorrectly -- saying he "supports" it, when he wants to register only assault weapons. Coalition spokesman Mike Russell said the characterization was fair.

Prather's campaign manager, Mike Johnson, also questioned the flier's description as "unclear" of Prather's positions on income-tax increases and tax credits that could be used for private education, an idea that KEA opposes.

Prather's letter to the coalition said public schools should have priority for public funds, but "I would never rule out the possibility of providing targeted assistance for students who attend private schools, if our resources would allow it."

He also wrote, "I do not support any increase in income taxes or income-tax rates for Americans who already pay more than their fair share of the cost of running our country."

Russell said that Prather's replies were in fact unclear, and that his choice to answer with a letter instead of simple responses, as the group requested, "always makes it more difficult for us to ascertain a candidate's positions."

Russell declined to provide a copy of the questionnaire.

Prather's campaign manager also took issue with insertion of the flier in church bulletins. He said Lewis and the coalition were trying "to use the churches for political gain."

Lewis said he didn't have any specific knowledge of the flier in advance, but he assumed one would go out because the Christian Coalition does that in all races.

Actually, Russell said that decision depends on circumstances and the interest of coalition members in a state. He said about 75,000 copies of the flier were sent to churches and another 10,000 to 15,000 "to various databases of conservative voters."

More were distributed at bookstores and "family events," he said, and "there is some effort to get grass-roots activists out there to do neighborhood distributions."

The KEA mailing, Lewis said, undercut Prather's claim that he is not obligated to special interests because he isn't taking money from political action committees and non-Kentuckians.

"He's not standing on what he said he was going to do," Lewis said.

Officials of KEA and the Prather campaign said the campaign was unaware of the mailing until it was going out. "We said yahoo, but we haven't encouraged them to do it or asked them to do it," Johnson said. He said Prather, even if he wins by just a small margin, would be no more beholden to KEA than to other supporters who are trying to get out the vote for him.

"We'll take the help of any Kentucky teachers who want to send a letter for us," he said. "That's small potatoes, considering the special-interest money that's coming to the other campaign."

Lewis said he is not obligated to PACs that gave to his campaign because he did not solicit their money. A solicitation was made on his behalf by the National Republican Congressional Committee, which has underwritten much of his campaign.

On another point, Lewis said GOP leaders have assured him he will be on the Agriculture Committee if he wins the November general election for the next full term. That was confirmed by Kansas Rep. Pat Roberts, the panel's top Republican.

Lewis spent the day traveling to every corner of the district, ending with an evening rally in Leitchfield. Prather said going on the road "would have made a little more pizazz," but he chose to make phone calls to supporters in an effort to mobilize traditional Democratic turnout.

He told Owensboro Mayor David Adkisson, "We could have made a big splash, but I think it's more effective to stay in touch with our key people in the counties."

HEADLINE: CONSERVATIVE ADVOCACY GROUPS PROPELLED LEWIS

BYLINE: AL CROSS

BODY:

Republican U.S. Rep. Ron Lewis got massive help from conservative interest groups in winning last month's special election in the 2nd District, so much that it could have made the difference in his defeat of Democrat Joe Prather.

The Christian Coalition and the National Rifle Association inundated the district with literature and telephone calls, and there was last-minute advertising from Ross Perot's political organization and groups that favor term limits and oppose taxes.

The activity is part of a national trend, say nonpartisan observers and Democratic campaign specialists.

Mike Casey, a spokesman for the House Democratic campaign committee, also questioned whether the conservative advocacy groups are "skirting the law" that bars such groups from coordinating their activities with candidates or party organizations.

Whatever the groups did in the 2nd District, "those are some really pretty hefty outside players," said Ellen S. Miller, executive director of the Center for Responsive Politics, a Washington group that monitors campaign activity. "To have them all coalesce on one side of this race was bound to have a major impact."

Miller, a Louisville native, said the effect in the lightly voted race could have been as much as 10 percentage points, which was Lewis' margin of victory. Christian Coalition spokesman Mike Russell said he wouldn't disagree.

Of the district's 343,397 registered voters, only 72,838, or 21.2 percent, cast ballots in the election to fill the vacancy created by the death of Democrat William Natcher.

The number of voters was outstripped by the number of messages that descended on the district in the last 10 days of the race, when Prather's early advantage dissolved in unexpectedly heavy television advertising from the national Republican Party.

The candidates' pre-election reports indicated that Lewis and the Republicans outspent Prather by about $40,000. The outside groups, whose activity doesn't fall under contribution limits as long as it is independent of a campaign, said they spent less than $50,000 total.

Such outlays, however, can have more impact than spending by a candidate, since adherents to a group put more trust in its messages, people in both parties said. They cited the NRA as an example.

The NRA has 15,000 members in the 2nd District and told all of them by mail that Lewis opposed any form of gun control while Prather supported registration of assault weapons and the new waiting period to buy a handgun. Most members also got a call "to make sure they got out and voted for Ron Lewis," said Tanya Metaksa, director of the NRA's political unit.

She said the group did the same thing for 1st District Rep. Tom Barlow, D-Paducah, who easily won what was thought would be a close race with state Sen. Henry Lackey of Henderson. Lackey and Barlow didn't differ on gun issues, but interest groups usually favor incumbents in such cases.

Metaksa said that if NRA members see a clear difference between candidates, as in the 2nd, 60 percent to 70 percent go to the polls. Both campaigns in the 2nd said the NRA was probably the most influential outside group, though Prather's campaign manager, Mike Johnson, said the gun issue was distorted by the NRA and the Christian Coalition.

The coalition said in an issues flier placed in mailboxes and church bulletins that Prather supported "registration of firearms" -- incorrectly implying all firearms.

Bill Hancock, pastor of the conservative and politically interested Highview Baptist Church in southern Jefferson County, said he didn't distribute the flier -- because of past experience with such material. "There have been times when it has been inflammatory, and we would prefer more objectivity," he said.

The Christian Coalition, founded by broadcaster and 1988 presidential candidate Pat Robertson, has almost 20,000 members in Kentucky, spokesman Russell said. He said the group called about 3,000 members in the 2nd District to get out the vote but did not mention candidates in the calls. Still, such calls could have been important because polls have shown that people who say they are evangelicals or are "born again" are less likely to vote than the general population.

Also targeted in the final days were the 33,192 people in the district who voted for Perot for president in 1992. The Kentucky chapter of his group, United We Stand America, ran a quarter-page ad in The Courier-Journal the day before the election to say that Prather had refused to answer its questionnaire or attend its forums, while Lewis had, and that Lewis favored term limits and deficit reduction.

A United We Stand news release said the ad was aimed at members, but officials of the group said that it also targeted Perot voters and the general public.

Miller said a pro-Lewis message to the general public may have violated the group's tax-exempt status, but Perot spokeswoman Sharon Holman said United We Stand "can endorse candidates as long as it's not our primary activity."

Legal questions have been raised about the radio campaigns of US Term Limits, a corporation that targeted Prather and the Democrat who lost a special election in Oklahoma two weeks earlier. The ads gave candidates' positions on term limits and urged pressure on the Democrat to support the idea.

Before the Kentucky ads began, the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee filed a complaint with the Federal Election Commission alleging that the Oklahoma ads were illegal because corporate money was used in a federal election.

Other groups may have been involved. The Prather campaign said it got many reports of phone calls that claimed to be for Prather but raised a point to Prather's disadvantage -- that he supported the "don't ask, don't tell" policy on gays in the military. "We ran no phone bank highlighting that issue," Prather adviser Larry Hayes said.

On the other side, Republican State Chairman Terry Carmack said calls made for Prather portrayed Lewis as a minister more like Jimmy Swaggart than Billy Graham. Johnson, the Prather campaign manager, said he didn't recall Swaggart's name being used.

Such "dirty tricks" have long been played in campaigns, but independent activity by outside groups hasn't been so heavy since the early 1980s, said Miller and Casey, the House Democratic campaign spokesman.

"This is proof positive that we've got a trend going in the country, where what in effect are wholly owned subsidiaries of the Republican National Committee . . . on the far right are running shadow campaigns that mirror and support local Republican campaigns," Casey said.

Carmack replied, "Any organization has a right to be involved in the political process," within legal limits. "I find it surprising that the national Democratic Party would find that fewer people involved in the process is better."

U.S. TERM LIMITS SAYS IT IS SUBJECT OF DCCC 'WITCH-HUNT'; GROUP PLEDGES TO CONTINUE VOTER EDUCATION PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, May 16 /PRNewswire/ -- U.S. Term Limits issued the following:

Today, U.S. Term Limits angrily responded to a complaint filed with the Federal Election Commission by the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee (DCCC), charging that ille corporate donations were made in last week's Oklahoma special election. U.S. Term Limits expended close to $30,000 in an effort to inform the voters of Oklahoma's sixth congressional district where the two candidates stood on the issue of term limits. The expenditures were made through the U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund.

"Once again, it's the people on one side and a legion of lawyers on the other. While term limits continues to win at the ballot box, the establishment continues to respond with outlandish legal attacks," said Paul Jacob, executive director of U.S. Term Limits in Washington. "The DCCC should be trying to get their candidates on the right side of this issue, rather than expending their energy and resources attempting to thwart the will of the overwhelming majority of Americans."

In the special election to replace retiring Rep. Glenn Englis (D-Okla.), limit supporter and Republican candidate Frank Lucas narrowly defeated term limit opponent and Democratic candidate Dan Webber.

"Our campaign to educate the voters in Oklahoma was exactly what the courts have defined as permissible issue discussion," said Jacob. "I am surprised that the DCCC would attempt to impede on our First Amendment right to undertake such activities."

The expenditure came in the form of a mailing to 50,000 households within the district and radio advertisements which outlined the two candidates positions and asked voters to contact Webber and urge him to sign the U.S. Term Limits Voters' Contract for a Citizen Legislature.

"Candidates who are against term limits, Republicans and Democrats alike, are going to have to answer to the voters in 1994," said Jacob. "It is our mission to make sure the voters are informed and educated before they go to the ballot box."

Jacob went on to describe similar expenditures to be made in Kentucky's second congressional district later this week, where term limit supporter Ron Lewis is taking on term limit opponent and state Sen. Joe Prather, for the right to replace the recently deceased William Natcher.

"We will not let this witch-hunt by the DCCC distract us from our efforts," concluded Jacob. "I guarantee they won't be crying foul when one of their candidates finds him or herself on the right side of this crucial issue."

U.S. Term Limits is a national non-profit organization, dedicated to rying Americans to limit congressional, state and local terms.

Editorial

A PAC Is a PAC...

A PAC is not a PAC is not a PAC. Just ask Rep. Newt Gingrich (R-Ga.), whose controversial committee GOPAC is being sued by the Federal Election Commission for its refusal to accept fines and punishment for funds raised and spent in connection with a 1989 fundraising letter. Or the leaders of U.S. Term Limits, the national pro-term limits group that ran radio ads and sent direct mail touting Republican Frank Lucas before the recent Oklahoma special election. The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee is now complaining, saying the activity amounted to an illegal corporate contribution since U.S. Term Limits is not registered as a PAC and did not disclose how much it spent in Oklahoma or where the money came from.

The courts and the FEC will decide the merits of these cases. But they have one very important fact in common: They represent a murky area in federal campaign laws that Congress ought to clear up in the campaign finance reform bill its leaders still pledge to finish this year. The stakes are high. Ever since the post-Watergate reforms to the campaign finance system for presidential and Congressional elections, the guiding principle has been disclosure, disclosure, and more disclosure of political money. Individuals and groups can say whatever they want in the context of a campaign. What they can't do is spend money without disclosure "for the purpose of influencing a federal election," according to the Federal Election Campaign Act.

Yet GOPAC and U.S. Term Limits, which are among many non-profit groups that claim they do not engage in specific campaign activity, seemingly operate between the cracks in the campaign finance system. The GOPAC letter at issue contained blistering attacks on House Democrats and asserted that contributions to GOPAC would help "break the Democrats' stranglehold on power." The reply form specifically suggested contributions would go toward "building a new Republican majority in the House of Representatives." Eventually, the letter brought in $275,000 for GOPAC, but since none of it was actually contributed to GOP candidates, Gingrich is claiming the letter didn't really constitute federal election activity.

As for U.S. Term Limits, the group's executive director says that "we didn't tell anyone to vote for one candidate or the other." The DCCC insists that claim strains credibility: Anyone hearing the radio ad, airing in the week before the Oklahoma special, wouldn't have had a hard time figuring out which candidate U.S. Term Limits wanted them to vote for. "Some things are clear," said the group's ad. "Only one candidate for Congress in the 6th district is for term limits for career politicians. Frank Lucas sides with the majority of us."

Both GOPAC and U.S. Term Limits insist there's a difference between what they did and "expressive advocacy" — the line in the sand the courts have drawn to delineate where the FEC's jurisdiction starts and unrestricted, undisclosed spending stops. This is where Congress can step in, offering statutory clarification so that in the future, whether it's a national GOP fundraising campaign to retake control of the House or a last-ditch effort to bring another term-limits supporter to Congress, the public will know who's bringing them the message and how much it's costing.

somehow be offset with another from tax increases or spending. The assumption here is that taxpayer behavior never changes when taxes do. During the Republican years, this weird notion was used by Congress to defeat cuts in capital gains and other taxes by assuming they would always "cost" the government revenue, dollar for dollar.

The nuttiness of this idea is finally clear under the new GATT accord.

So here's where we are: A free-trader like Rosty risks undermining an historic trade agreement because he's got his computers programmed to order up $14 billion to "pay" for it. And rather than joining with its natural trade allies, the Republicans or Democratic trade moderates, to seek a GATT waiver of this budget strait-jacket, the Clinton Administration once again sides with Congressional liberals. Some policy. TO Judy

Democratic Losing Streak

Something odd may be happening on the way to November's off-year elections: Whenever voters go to the polls, Democrats keep losing races they should be winning. It's true all politics is local, but when the president's party loses almost every election of consequence, it should start worrying.

A real shocker came late last month in Delaware. Margaret Rose Henry became the first black woman ever elected to the state Senate. What was even more remarkable is that Ms. Henry won 54% in a minority Wilmington district by running on the Republican line.

There's more: The 49-year-old Ms. Henry defeated the two best-known African-American politicians in the state. State Rep. Herman Holloway Jr., the Democratic candidate, was the namesake-son of the senator who had held the seat for 30 years until his recent death. Sam Guy, who ran as an independent, was president of the state NAACP. What happened?

Ms. Henry disdains political labels, but her views clearly challenge the liberal orthodoxy. She told us she supports school prayer and vouchers for private and religious schools. She also would like to end court-ordered busing. She favors mild forms of affirmative action but rejects quotas: "They just don't work." She told the newspaper Human Events that state spending has to be reduced, and she would like to cut taxes so "companies can create more jobs."

Ms. Henry is a businesswoman and former chair of the Delaware State Arts Council. She only recently thought about running for office, saying conditions in the inner city now require people like her to step forward. Noting that juvenile crime has gone up 25% in Wilmington in the past year, she says, "We've got to strengthen the family unit at home before our kids all turn into sociopaths."

We now turn from Delaware to Oklahoma, site this week of another surprising election result. Republican Frank Lucas won 54% to capture a formerly Democratic U.S. House seat. While George Bush carried the district in 1992, Democrats made an all-out effort. Democrat Dan Webber, a former aide to Senator David Boren, ran to the right and took the anti-tax pledge issued by Americans for Tax Reform. In the final week, he even criticized Senator Boren for having supported the Brady bill.

New Democrat and all, it fizzled. His opponent Mr. Lucas reminded voters that Bill Clinton had also sounded like a moderate but has governed as a liberal.

Citizens' groups played a key role in educating the voters. Citizens for a Sound Economy publicized a district poll that found that 76% of Democrats wanted to "avoid getting the government more involved in health care." Democrat Webber ended up flatly opposing an employer health insurance mandate. U.S. Term Limits mailed 50,000 letters noting that Mr. Webber, who has spent his entire adult career as a Congressional staffer, wouldn't back term limits. Supporters of Ross Perot demanded to know if Mr. Webber would sign the A to Z Spending Cuts discharge petition. He said no.

The victories of Ms. Henry and Mr. Lucas are the latest in a string of GOP victories from Los Angeles to New York City and New Jersey that have some common threads. All featured GOP candidates who argued for real controls on crime, a halt to the expansion of government and more accountability from elected officials. Some of their Democratic opponents tried more or less to embrace the same arguments, but it didn't work for them. You know something's happening, but so far it's not clear that Democrats know what it is.

Asides

Don't let the title fool you. This is not a collection of side notes.

The U.S. is not alone in worrying about rights in China. Other Western countries have made their concern plain. But nowhere in the world is that concern felt more acutely than in Hong Kong. More than 15% of the population here took to the streets to express concern about the killings in Beijing in 1989. The question that concerns Hong Kong — perched on the edge of China — is not whether to promote human rights, but how that can best be done.

Hong Kong residents don't believe that withdrawing MFN is the way to help human rights in China. Its chief effect would be to hurt our economy. Hong Kong is the gateway through which the world does business with China. The dramatic reduction of trade that would result from MFN withdrawal would cut by more than half our economic growth and would more than double our unemployment rate.

Such a blow would come at the worst possible time for Hong Kong. We are now in the final three years of the transition from British to Chinese sovereignty. Implementation of the Sino-British Joint Declaration, which provides for Hong Kong to remain a highly autonomous entity within China and to continue functioning the way it does now in nearly all aspects of life, has been an enormously challenging task. That it has generally gone well so far has been in large part due to Hong Kong's robust economic performance, which in turn has been due in large part to the growth of Chinese trade. A body blow to that trade would be a body blow to confidence in Hong Kong at a crucial time. It would put at risk all that we are trying to do to secure Hong Kong's future.

U.S. policy, reaffirmed by President Clinton last month, has been supportive of the efforts of the British and Hong Kong governments to secure Hong Kong's future. Large U.S. interests are at stake. Nine hundred U.S. firms are established in Hong Kong, and we have the largest American Chamber of Commerce in the world. U.S. investment in Hong Kong is more than $8 billion; we buy more U.S. exports per capita than the European Union; and the growing U.S. investment and trade interests in the booming China market are to a large extent managed through Hong Kong.

But even if it were not so important for Hong Kong's own interests that China's MFN status be renewed, I would be extremely skeptical of the argument that its withdrawal would lead to improvements in human rights in China. Experience elsewhere suggests that economic progress improves the prospects for social and political progress. We are certainly not yet seeing the kind of human rights in China that we would all like to see, but it is undoubtedly the case that people living in the areas of greatest economic progress, such as Guangdong and Shanghai, are seeing the quality of their lives improve in more than the purely material sense. They have more control over their own lives than they did 10 years ago, and more than others now in the less developed areas of the country. They make more choices for themselves. From choice grows freedom.

There is every reason to expect that over the long term, the encouragement of prosperity in China will help create stability and social and political progress.

as in all the Western Democracies and Japan

Re: MUR 3975
Christian Coalition and its Executive Director

Dear Ms. Taksar:

Please find enclosed a facsimile copy of a Designation of Counsel in MUR 3975 signed by Ralph Reed, Jr., the Executive Director of the Christian Coalition. We have reviewed the complaint and amendment in MUR 3975 and have concluded that it is readily apparent that the complaint should be dismissed as to the Christian Coalition and its Executive Director.

Only the amendment to the complaint mentions the Christian Coalition and, then, only in passing. The amendment merely refers to "mailings and other GOTV activities conducted outside the requirements of the FECA." The amendment does not provide any specific information as to the contents of any mailings made by the Christian Coalition or as to the nature of the GOTV activities.

The amendment does, however, attach several newspaper articles and those articles contradict the complainant's allegation that the Christian Coalition engaged in express advocacy or partisan activity. The May 24, 1994 edition of "The Courier Journal" stated: "The Christian Coalition did not advocate the election of Lewis . . . in a flier that described in one or two words the candidates' positions on 10 issues . . ." (Emphasis added). The June 5, 1994 edition of "The Courier Journal" reported that a spokesman for the Christian Coalition stated that there had been about 3,000 calls to get out the vote but that there had been no mention of the candidates in the calls.

The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee's ("DCCC") complaint, as amended, merely alleges that there is a "perception" that the Christian Coalition's voter guides and GOTV activities had an effect on the special election in Kentucky. Yet, the newspaper articles on which the DCCC relies make it clear that the Christian Coalition and/or its affiliated chapter in Kentucky did not engage in any activities that would be subject to the Federal Election Campaign Act and the regulations thereunder. As the Commission is well aware from prior and pending MUR's involving the Christian Coalition, the Christian Coalition's voter guides and GOTV activities are entirely nonpartisan; the same holds true as to the activities in Kentucky.

WEBSTER. CHAMBERLAIN & BEAN

For all of the foregoing reasons, the Office of General Counsel should recommend to the Commission that the complaint (as amended) in MUR 3975 should be dismissed insofar as it pertains to the Christian Coalition and its Executive Director.

Respectfully submitted,

Frank M. Northam

ATR has had a problem obtaining legal counsel and I was calling to request an extension of time to respond. As you were out of the office for the week, I spoke with Retha Dixon who explained that ATR could have a 15 day extension just be asking for it.

This letter then, is to confirm that understanding. I will endeavor to have counsel in place not later than Wednesday, July 6. When counsel has been obtained, I will notify you immediately by submitting the "Statement of Designation of Counsel."

Re: MUR 3975
U.S. Term Limits and its Executive Director

Dear Ms. Taksar:

On behalf of U.S. Term Limits and its Executive Director ("USTL"), we are filing this response to the complaint filed by the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee ("DCCC") in MUR 3975.

USTL is a nonprofit organization recognized as tax-exempt under Section 501(c)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code. As its name implies, USTL was formed for the purpose of advocating the establishment of term limits for elected officials at all levels of government and educating the general public as to the need for term limits. As part of its activities, USTL has created a "Voters' Contract" which will be sent to every congressional candidate nationwide. The candidates are asked to sign the "Voters' Contract" and, thereby, to commit themselves to supporting legislation that would limit the terms of office of Congressmen and Senators. In conjunction with the "Voters' Contract" program, USTL also advises the general public of federal candidates' positions on term limits. This is accomplished through radio advertising and direct mail in which USTL informs the public that particular candidates have or have not signed the "Voters' Contract" and advises the public as to whether the candidates support or oppose term limits.

In the complaint and additional materials that the DCCC filed in MUR 3975, the DCCC contends that USTL's voter education activities constitute "express advocacy" and, therefore, are prohibited by 2 U.S.C. § 441b. The DCCC places primary reliance on the Commission's reasoning and conclusions in Advisory Opinion 1992-23. USTL's voter education materials, however, differ from the advertisements that were considered in that advisory opinion. USTL's materials constitute "issue advocacy" rather than "express advocacy" and are not subject to the strictures of the Federal Election Campaign Act ("FECA").

In the recent special elections in Oklahoma and Kentucky to fill vacant seats in the House of Representatives, USTL engaged in three types of activities. First, USTL sent copies of its "Voters' Contract" to the candidates and requested that the candidates demonstrate their commitment to support for term limits legislation by signing and returning the "Voters' Contract." Second, USTL prepared and distributed mailings to voters in the election districts. Those mailings advised the recipients as to the candidates' positions on term limits (including information as to whether the candidates had signed the "Voters' Contract") and urged the recipients to contact candidates who had not indicated support for term limits in an effort to convince those candidates to change their position on term limits. Third, USTL ran radio advertisements informing the listeners as to the candidates' positions on term limits and urging the listeners to contact the candidates and persuade them to support term limits. (A copy of the script used in Oklahoma is attached to the DCCC's complaint.)

USTL's communications with the candidates to obtain their signatures on the "Voters' Contract" do not violate any provision of the FECA. Those communications were solely for the purpose of obtaining the candidates' positions on the term limits issue and do not constitute any coordination with the candidates, as alleged by the DCCC.

The mailings and radio advertisements do not advocate the election or defeat of any of the candidates; rather, they urge the electorate to persuade all of the candidates to support term limits. This is readily apparent from the radio advertisement in Oklahoma. That advertisement sets forth the positions of both candidates on the term limits issue, stating that one candidate supports term limits and that the other opposes term limits. It concludes by stating: "Help convince both candidates to support term limits." There is nothing in the advertisement that urges the voters to vote for or against either of the candidates.

The same is true of the mailings. The mailings advise the recipients of the positions of the candidates; ask the recipients to contact the candidates opposed to term limits to persuade those candidates to change their position and sign the "Voters' Contract," and ask the recipients to contact the candidates supporting term limits and thank those candidates for signing the "Voters' Contract." Like the radio advertisements, the mailings do not urge the recipients to vote for or against any of the candidates.

The radio advertisements and mailings serve to inform the public as to the candidates' positions on issues and are precisely the kind of informational activities that the Supreme Court has recognized as being essential to the conduct of meaningful elections:

In a republic where the people are sovereign, the ability of the citizenry to make informed choices among candidates for office is essential Discussion of public issues and debate on the qualifications of candidates are integral to the operation of the system of government established by our Constitution.

Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S.1, 14-15 (1976). With this important concept in mind, the Buckley court adopted the express advocacy test to create a brightline between "express advocacy" (which is subject to FECA requirements) and "issue advocacy" (which is not subject to FECA requirements). While the Supreme Court and other courts have held that the catch phrases listed in Buckley (e.g., "vote for," "support," "reject," etc.) need not be present for there to be express advocacy, the message under analysis must unambiguously advocate the election or defeat of identified candidates. "[S]peech that is merely informative is not covered by the Act." Federal Election Commission v. Furgatch, 807 F.2d 857, 864 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 484 U.S. 850 (1987); see also, Federal Election Commission v. Colorado Republican Federal Campaign Committee, 839 F. Supp. 1448, 1455 (D. Colo. 1993).

There is no doubt in the public's mind as to where USTL stands on the issue of term limits. Contrary to the DCCC's assertion, the identity and announced position of a speaker is irrelevant to the "express advocacy" analysis. See, Federal Election Commission v. Survival Education Fund, Inc., CCH Fed. Election Campaign Fin. Guide ¶ 9343 (S.D.N.Y. 1994) (hostility to positions of candidates does not constitute express advocacy); FEC v. Colorado Republican Fed. Campaign, supra at 1456 (statement that was critical of Democratic candidate and that was issued by Republican Committee did not amount to express advocacy).

In determining whether a communication to the general public constitutes "express advocacy," the Commission and the courts must focus on the communication itself and determine whether the communication "unambiguously" urges its recipients to vote for or against a clearly identified candidate. USTL's communications do not qualify as "express advocacy" under that test. They merely inform the electorate as to the candidates' positions and urge the public to encourage the candidates to maintain or change their positions in regard to term limits.

Unlike the proposed advertisements in Advisory Opinion 1992-23, USTL's communications do not portray any candidate's past activities as being scandalous or improper. More importantly, USTL's communications concentrate on the issues of interest to USTL and urge the electorate to contact the candidates in an effort to effect the candidates' positions on those issues. The Commission's decision in Advisory Opinion 1992-23 placed significant reliance on the fact that the proposed advertisements did not address or stimulate discussion and debate on the issues raised: "These ads encourage no action in connection with the issues mentioned (such as urging the Congressman to vote for or against specific bills)." USTL's communications, on the other hand, encourage the candidates and the electorate to engage in meaningful discussion concerning the issue of term limits.

July 13, 1994

Were the Commission to embrace the arguments of the DCCC that USTL's communications amount to "express advocacy" (subject to regulation under the FECA), then no organization (be it profit or non-profit) would be able to announce to the public the positions of candidates on any issue, without having to comply with reporting and other requirements under the FECA. Would the Commission entertain a complaint against an organization that announced that one candidate was in favor of saving the spotted-owl in the Northwest and that the other candidate was opposed, or that one candidate opposed Most Favored Nation status for China and the other was in favor of granting MFN status to China? Surely not.

As the Supreme Court has noted, issues of public concern become inextricably combined with electoral campaigns and the public has a need to know where the candidates stand on those issues. For that reason, the Supreme Court expressly excluded "issue advocacy" and informational communications from the coverage of the FECA.

Despite the DCCC's protestations, USTL's communications do not qualify as "express advocacy" and the general counsel, therefore, should recommend that the DCCC's complaint be dismissed.

Respectfully submitted,

Frank M. Northam

Dear Mr. Noble:

This letter is the response of Americans for Tax Reform, Inc., ("ATR"), and its Executive Director, to the complaint filed by the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee ("DCCC") in MUR 3975. ATR urges the Federal Election Commission ("FEC") to dismiss the complaint against ATR as facially inadequate and improperly brought under FEC regulations. Alternatively, ATR urges the Commission to find no reason to believe ATR has violated the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("FECA" or "the Act"), 2 U.S.C. § 431 et seq. ATR's communications complained of in this matter represent precisely the type of issue advocacy that courts and the Commission recognize to not be electoral advocacy and, therefore, outside the jurisdiction of the Act.

PROCEDURAL ISSUES

1. DCCC'S complaint is deficient under FEC regulations and improperly brought against ATR.

By letter of May 19, 1994, the DCCC filed a complaint with the FEC against an organization called U.S. Term Limits. The complaint alleged that group had violated the FECA by its activity undertaken with respect to a special election for Congress in the 6th District of Oklahoma held on May 10, 1994.

The DCCC subsequently sent a letter to the FEC, dated June 10, 1994, purporting to be a "supplement" to its "initial complaint." This second letter again focused on U.S. Term Limits, this time for its activity with respect to the special election for Congress in the 2nd District of Kentucky held on May 24, 1994. The letter also included unspecific allegations about ATR's issue advocacy activity conducted during the same time period (and allegations regarding activity of another group not named in the original complaint). Your office has characterized this second DCCC letter as an "amendment" to the complaint in MUR 3975.

The Commission's regulations require that a complaint brought before the FEC "... contain a clear and concise recitation of the facts which describe a violation of a statute or regulation over which the Commission has jurisdiction ..." 11 CFR 111.4(d)(3). The "supplement" to the DCCC's complaint in MUR 3975, however, refers only tangentially, and in the most vague and general terms, to ATR issue advocacy activity. The DCCC's June letter fails to recite specific facts about ATR's actions, instead relying without explication upon brief mention of ATR in news clippings, and makes no effort to identify how ATR's activity constitutes specific violations of the FECA. The letter makes general characterizations about separate and distinct activity by different organizations and lumps them together into broad claims of a "pattern" of allegedly improper activity.

ATR strongly objects to the casualness and lack of specificity with which the DCCC has brought these allegations against ATR. As described below, the facts about ATR's issue advocacy activity during the time of the Kentucky election bear no resemblance to the offhand and obscure characterizations contained in the DCCC's June letter. The complaint is facially inadequate and entirely inaccurate. ATR urges the Commission to demand at least minimal respect for the requirements of its regulations regarding specificity of complaints and to dismiss the DCCC's supplementary allegations against ATR in this matter.

Moreover, the allegations against ATR are not properly brought as an amendment to the complaint in MUR 3975. The supplement to DCCC's complaint improperly mixes together separate and distinct activity by unconnected groups in two different election periods in two states. The complaint makes no assertion these groups' actions were coordinated. In fact, ATR has consistently engaged in issue advocacy activity independently and without any coordination with other organizations outside of the tax reform area.

The Commission should dismiss the complaint against ATR on the basis of its factual inadequacy or, based on the facts and substantive reasons set forth by ATR below, find there is no reason to believe ATR has violated the FECA. Should this case go forward, however, ATR requests the allegations against ATR be severed from the complaint in MUR 3975 and reviewed apart from allegations about any other groups engaged in separate and distinct activity in different election circumstances. Despite the DCCC's excited rhetoric about a "pattern" of activity or broad reference to "similar tactics," the only common link between the activity of ATR and U.S. Term Limits or other groups are constitutional issues of free speech -- and the complainant. ATR should not be forced to ride along in MUR 3975 at an enforcement pace set by other respondents with whom ATR has no legal connection and for whom it bears no responsibility. ATR should not be joined in this MUR.

2. ATR's Executive Director is improperly named as a respondent.

ATR objects to the identification of its Executive Director as a respondent in MUR 3975 in the letter from the Office of the General Counsel of June 22, 1994, notifying ATR of the complaint. The complainant does not allege individual liability by any person associated with ATR and, to the extent specific assertions of fact can be derived from the complaint, no facts are presented to suggest any personal responsibility apart from organizational activity.

Naming this individual a respondent is arbitrary and improper as a matter of administrative law. It is not supported by any provision of the FECA or the Commission's regulations. If naming this ATR staff person as a respondent is meant to be analogous to your policy of naming the treasurer of a political committee under the FECA, application of this analogy is inappropriate and without any legal foundation in this case. ATR requests your office send a letter correcting this mistake, and that you omit mention of this individual as a respondent in any further reports or communications regarding this matter.

FACTUAL SETTING

1. ATR is an issue advocacy organization of long standing.

Americans for Tax Reform was incorporated in July 1985 in the District of Columbia as a non-profit membership corporation, and is a tax exempt organization under Section 501(c)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code. ATR was established to promote lower marginal tax rates and, at its inception, to specifically support legislation leading to the Tax Reform Act of 1986.

Throughout its existence, ATR has strongly advocated limiting or reducing taxation levels and has opposed increased taxes arising from proposed legislation. Towards this purpose, ATR has engaged in programs to educate the public about tax issues and about the positions on tax issues of public officeholders and candidates for public office. ATR has sought to mobilize public support for its tax-related issue positions and encourage citizens to express their opinion on tax issues to officeholders and candidates. ATR has published studies of information about taxes and public policy, and communicates to the public through news releases and advertising.

ATR is not affiliated with, or controlled or funded by, any political or partisan organization. ATR does not coordinate its activities with any such group, but does cooperate with other issue advocacy organizations involved in tax reform issues, particularly groups at the state and local level. ATR always conducts its issue advocacy activity in a strictly non-partisan manner. ATR does not engage in advocacy of the election or defeat of any candidates for public office at either the state or federal level.

2. ATR engaged in issue advocacy during the Kentucky election.

Contrary to the assertion of the DCCC's June letter, ATR was not engaged in a "shadow campaign" on behalf of any candidates in Kentucky or anywhere else. ATR's mission is issue advocacy and is intentionally and routinely conducted in an open and public manner. Among other strategies for promoting its issue positions, ATR asks candidates across the nation to sign pledges indicating they oppose certain taxes or expensive government programs, or support tax-reducing measures, and informs the public through press releases and paid media about these issues and which candidates do or do not sign the pledges.

In advance of the Kentucky special election, ATR requested the candidates running for Congress to sign a Taxpayer Protection Pledge opposing increases in income taxes, and a pledge opposing enactment of a national value-added tax (VAT). (Attachment A: ATR's press release announcing the request.) ATR also requested the candidates sign a pledge to oppose certain elements of proposed health care legislation (Attachment B: health care pledge). Both the Republican and Democratic candidates eventually signed the first two pledges, and ATR announced this result through a press release, but the Democratic candidate declined to sign the health care pledge, which ATR also announced. (Attachment C: Democratic candidate Joe Prather's signed pledges; Attachment D: ATR's press release regarding the first two pledges and a letter to Prather from ATR; Attachment E: ATR's press release regarding the health care pledge).

Then, in the period preceding the election, ATR spent approximately $3000 to run radio messages drawing attention to candidate Prather's refusal to sign the health care pledge. (Attachment F: radio script). This expenditure is clearly the object of the DCCC's displeasure. A fair and careful reading of this radio script makes clear, however, that ATR was engaged in issue advocacy and not electoral advocacy. The advertisement does not expressly advocate the election or defeat of any candidate, or encourage any particular vote or election-related conduct. The message explicitly asks listeners to contact candidate Prather and urge him to adopt ATR's issue position and sign the health care pledge.

The original complaint in MUR 3975 focuses on activity by U.S. Term Limits in the Oklahoma special election. The supplement adds allegations against ATR for activity in Kentucky, but does not address ATR's prior issue advocacy during the time of the Oklahoma special election. It is useful to contrast the two circumstances, however, to demonstrate the pure issue advocacy purpose of ATR's strategy. In Oklahoma, both candidates ultimately signed all three pledges. ATR (in cooperation with the Oklahoma Taxpayer's Union) financed radio advertising congratulating both candidates for their signing of the health care pledge. Thus, ATR's purpose is not electoral advocacy, or even to punish those candidates who do not sign anti-tax pledges, but rather to focus attention and gain public support for ATR's issue positions.

By necessity, this particular strategy for issue advocacy takes place during an election period. This approach undeniably puts political pressure on candidates, which is ATR's purpose. It is not conducted as a means of influencing election outcomes, however, but to influence candidates to adopt ATR's point of view (or be prepared to explain their opposition). This strategy has proved historically, including in elections in 1994, to succeed in making candidates for public office declare themselves on these important tax issues. ATR's efforts to encourage support for its policy positions from candidates, and ATR's communications to the public on these issues, represent the essence of constitutionally protected issue advocacy speech. As discussed below, the courts and the FEC have recognized this type of speech must be permitted to be expressed during election as well as non-election periods, so long as it does not cross over into express advocacy of the election or defeat of candidates. ATR's communications do not cross that line and, thus, are not subject to FECA regulation or restriction.

SUBSTANTIVE ISSUES

1. Judicial precedent recognizes ATR's issue advocacy speech to be constitutionally protected and outside FECA jurisdiction.

To the extent specific allegations of violations of the FECA can be discerned from the DCCC's letters, it appears the gravamen of the charges is that ATR's expenditures in Kentucky for radio messages about candidates' positions on tax issues and calling upon citizens to express their opinion about these issues constituted impermissible corporate spending for election-influencing purposes under 2 U.S.C. § 441b. The full weight of judicial precedent regarding the reach of the FECA and the constitutional constraints upon any restrictions upon issue advocacy, however, demonstrates ATR's issue advocacy activity cannot be construed as electoral advocacy within the regulatory jurisdiction of the FECA.

The U.S. Supreme Court laid the foundation for constitutional analysis of the FECA in Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1 (1976). In reviewing a section of the Act that would have limited independent expenditures, the Court observed:

[T]he distinction between discussion of issues and candidates and advocacy of election or defeat of candidates may often dissolve in practical application. Candidates, especially incumbents, are intimately tied to public issues involving legislative proposals and governmental actions. Not only do candidates campaign on the basis of their positions on various issues, but campaigns themselves generate issues of public interest.

Id., 424 U.S. at 42. The Court then determined:

... [I]n order to preserve the provision against invalidation on vagueness grounds, [it] must be construed to apply only to expenditures for communications that in express terms advocate the election or defeat of a clearly identified candidate for federal office.

Id., 424 U.S. at 44.

Subsequently, the Court specifically held "an expenditure must constitute 'express advocacy' in order to be subject to the prohibition of § 441b." Massachusetts Citizens for Life, Inc. ("MCFL"), 479 U.S. 238, 249 (1986). The Court said of its prior decision: "Buckley adopted the 'express advocacy' requirement to distinguish discussion of issues and candidates from more pointed exhortations to vote for particular persons." Id.

The Commission has frequently cited with approval the analysis of FEC v. Furgatch, 807 F.2d 857 (9th Cir. 1987), in seeking to apply the express advocacy standard. The language of that case's essential holding is critical:

We conclude that speech need not include any of the words listed in Buckley to be express advocacy under the Act, but it must, when read as a whole, and with limited reference to external events, be susceptible of no other reasonable interpretation but as an exhortation to vote for or against a specific candidate. This standard can be broken into three main components. First, even if it is not presented in the clearest, most explicit language, speech is "express" for present purposes if its message is unmistakable and unambiguous, suggestive of only one plausible meaning. Second, speech may only be termed "advocacy" if it presents a clear plea for action, and thus speech that is merely informative is not covered by the Act. Finally, it must be clear what action is advocated. Speech cannot be "express advocacy of the election or defeat of a clearly identified candidate" when reasonable minds could differ as to whether it encourages a vote for or against a candidate or encourages the reader to take some other kind of action.

We emphasize that if any reasonable alternative reading of speech can be suggested, it cannot be express advocacy subject to the Act's disclosure requirements. This is necessary to prevent a chill on forms of speech other than the campaign advertising regulated by the Act.

807 F.2d at 864.

In making its brief substantive argument, the DCCC's June letter relies upon a quotation from FEC v. Central Long Island Tax Reform Immediately Committee et al. ("CLITRIM"), 616 F.2d 397 (2d Cir. 1980). Ironically, the first part of the quotation virtually anticipates, approvingly, the issue advocacy message used by ATR in Kentucky:

The CLITRIM Bulletin of Fall, 1976, contains nothing which could rationally be termed express advocacy. The nearest it comes to expressly calling for action of any sort is its exhortation that "[i]f your Representative consistently votes for measures that increase taxes, let him know how you feel. And thank him when he votes for lower taxes." Neither this nor the voting chart calls for anyone's election or defeat.

616 F.2d at 53. The second part of the quoted passage includes the court's description of those things the CLITRIM pamphlet did not do, including that it did not make reference to "the existence of an election or the act of voting in any election." Id. It is obvious, however, the court was simply describing how the CLITRIM pamphlet did not permit any interpretation that it contained even an impliedly electoral message. It represents an "even if" argument: even if the court had accepted the FEC's assertion that advocacy need not be express, but could be implied (a position the court identified as "totally meritless"), CLITRIM's pamphlet would not remotely cross the line into electoral advocacy. Id.

The passage quoted from CLITRIM, as well as the reasoning of the full opinion (including its reliance upon Buckley), does not support the implication the court's discussion created a list of items the mere mention of which, by themselves, convert issue advocacy to electoral advocacy. Subsequent judicial precedent and the FEC's own interpretation make clear a discussion of issues and candidate positions during the time of an election, otherwise lacking any words advocating the election or defeat of any candidates, does not become electoral advocacy simply by mentioning the existence of an election -- particularly, as here, where the issue advocacy message explicitly urges citizens to encourage particular candidates to adopt the group's issue position (but does not urge any particular voting behavior by citizens). See, e.g., MUR 2580 (1988) and MUR 3090 (1991), both involving general public advertising by the issue advocacy group Common Cause as a means of lobbying for campaign finance reform, which identified particular candidates as deserving public pressure on the issue and were (in MUR 3090) directed to their home districts. See also FEC v. National Organization for Women ("NOW"), 713 F.Supp 428 (D.D.C. 1989), in which the court held expenditures by an incorporated membership organization for public communications criticizing candidates for their views on issues of importance to the group did not come within the jurisdiction of the FECA.

2. ATR's issue advocacy communications would not constitute "express advocacy" under the Commission's proposed "MCFL" regulations governing corporate political speech

The Commission is engaged in an important rulemaking process that seeks to bring the Commission's regulations into conformity with judicial application of the "express advocacy" standard for determining when communications to the public by corporations and labor organizations are election-influencing and, therefore, subject to the prohibition of 2 U.S.C. § 441b. This revising of FEC regulations pertaining to Section 441b is commonly known as the "MCFL rulemaking" because of that decision's significant impact on the Commission's enforcement of Section 441b.

Your office prepared a Memorandum for the Commission dated February 8, 1994, providing a summary of public comments and draft final rules regarding the MCFL rulemaking (Agenda Document #94-11).

The Memorandum states that proposed changes in the regulations require "[r]evising the definition of express advocacy at 11 CFR 109.1 to provide further guidance on what types of communications constitute express advocacy, in accordance with [Buckley, MCFL and Furgatch]."

Section B in the Discussion part of the Memorandum addresses the "express advocacy" standard and alternatives to defining it in certain circumstances. Subsection (1) states (p. 9):

The alternative definitions took different approaches in describing communications containing "express advocacy," although they both included the list of expressions delineated in Buckley. Under Alternative A-1, express advocacy included suggestions to take actions to affect the result of an election, such as to contribute or to participate in campaign activity. In contrast, Alternative A-2 indicated that express advocacy constitutes an exhortation to support or oppose a clearly identified candidate, and that there must be no other reasonable interpretation of the exhortation other than encouraging the candidate's election or defeat, rather than another type of action on a specific issue ...

The definition of express advocacy included in the attached final rules is largely, but not entirely, based on Alternative A-2 because the Furgatch opinion emphasized the necessity for communications to be susceptible to no other reasonable interpretation but as an exhortation to vote for or against a specific candidate.

Sections (2) and (3) focus on two types of situations that present particular difficulty in recognizing express advocacy. Neither type of hypothetical circumstance applies to ATR's activity, since ATR was engaged in straightforward issue advocacy, but the Memorandum's discussion is instructive.

Section (2) discusses communications containing both issue advocacy and electoral advocacy. Although ATR's radio message in Kentucky (and in Oklahoma) did not contain electoral advocacy, this section is illustrative because it draws a specific distinction applicable to ATR's issue advocacy (p. 10):

Several comments [to the notice of proposed rulemaking] pointed out that the legislative process continues during election periods, and argued that if a legislative issue becomes a campaign issue, the imposition of unduly burdensome requirements on those groups seeking to continue their legislative efforts and communicate with their supporters is unconstitutional. These concerns are misplaced, however, because the new rules do not affect pure issue advocacy, such as attempts to create support for specific legislation or purely educational messages. For example, they would not preclude a message made in close proximity to a Presidential election that asked the audience to call the President and urge him to veto a particular bill that has just been passed. However, under these rules it would be express advocacy if the communication urged the audience to vote against the President if the President does not veto the bill in question.

Section (3) discusses communications lacking a call to action of any kind. ATR's radio message in Kentucky contained an explicit call to action for the purpose of furthering ATR's issue advocacy position. Nevertheless, this section of the Memorandum is also illustrative because it draws a distinct and explicit contrast to ATR's communications (p. 11):

The proposed rules also addressed communications that contain no specific call to take action on any issue or to vote for a candidate, but which do discuss a candidate's character, qualifications, or accomplishments, and which are made in close proximity to an election ...

Under Alternative A-2, these types of communications would constitute exhortations [to support or oppose a clearly identified candidate] if made within a specified number of days before an election, and if they do not encourage any type of action on any specific issue ...

This Office recommends revising section 109.1(b)(2)(i)(C) to clarify the types of communications covered by this provision. Thus, they include discussions and comments on a candidate's character, qualifications, or accomplishments, unless these factors are being used to urge action on legislative issues. The attached final rules would treat these communications as express advocacy if made within 90 days of the general election.

Though the Counsel's Memorandum and the Commission's current rulemaking considerations do not have independent legal authority, ATR urges the Commission to take this opportunity to make good on its commitment to draw clear lines pursuant to the express advocacy standard and to make meaningful distinctions. The regulations the Commission is in the midst of drafting are a departure from its past view of the scope of "in connection with" a federal election under Section 441b. Implementation of its new regulations will undoubtedly cause the Commission some uneasiness in specific circumstances. Once these rules are in place, however, the Commission cannot hedge and waver when the inevitable consequences of the new rules lead to conclusions in specific situations it would have preferred not to reach.

The facts about ATR's activity are sufficiently clear; further investigation is unnecessary. A decision by the Commission that ATR's specific issue advocacy activity was outside FEC jurisdiction would signal the Commission is prepared to conform to the direction given by recent court decisions. A failure to so decide would suggest application of the objective factors required by the courts and recommended in the Counsel's Memorandum has yet to be genuinely accepted.

CONCLUSION

As a procedural matter, the DCCC's complaint fails to fully or accurately describe facts about ATR's activity that constitute violations within FEC jurisdiction. It improperly seeks to join ATR in MUR 3975 with other unrelated groups involved in unrelated activity. The DCCC complaint against ATR should be dismissed on these grounds.

As a substantive matter, ATR's issue advocacy complained of in this matter is constitutionally protected speech. ATR did not make expenditures for electoral advocacy purposes. The Commission should find no reason to believe ATR violated the FECA.

The DCCC has requested the Commission provide expedited review of its allegations and injunctive relief, or else prompt dismissal to permit the DCCC to seek judicial remedy. ATR is confident any effort to obtain judicially approved prior restraint to prevent ATR from exercising its First Amendment rights would fail miserably. ATR would encourage the Commission to give the DCCC the dismissal they seek, however -- not because their complaint is so urgent, but because it is so inadequate procedurally and substantively.

Sincerely,

Robert Alan Dahl

National Taxpayer Advocacy Group Calls Upon Prather, Lewis and Rice To Stand Up for Taxpayers

Washington, D.C. -- Grover G. Norquist, president of Americans for Tax Reform (ATR), a national taxpayers advocacy organization, today asked Kentucky Second Congressional District candidates Joseph Prather, Ron Lewis and James Rice to stand up for the interests of the American taxpayers and sign the Taxpayer Protection Pledge

The Taxpayer Protection Pledge, offered to all Congressional candidates in every election since 1986, commits signatories to oppose any and all efforts to increase marginal income tax rates and to oppose efforts to reduce or eliminate deductions and credits without reducing tax rates.

A total of 123 members of the House of Representatives and 21 members of the United States Senate have made this pledge to the American people

"The last two Presidents have hiked taxes on the American people by record amounts. Each time they used the fig leaf of deficit reduction to convince people that these taxes would help make Washington's fiscal problems better. These tax hikes have made the problems worse. If we want to get our fiscal house in order, we have to close the door to more tax hikes. The Taxpayer Protection Pledge is an important part of that effort," Norquist said

Americans for Tax Reform also asked the candidates to announce their opposition to a national Value Added Tax and to back up that opposition by committing to join the bipartisan Congressional Anti-VAT Caucus if elected

"One particularly bad idea being floated in Washington is a Value Added Tax -- a hidden tax on goods and services as they move through the production stream, paid by consumers. Those who have the foresight to publicly oppose the VAT now are to be congratulated. They stand with the taxpayers and against the tax and spenders," Norquist added. In Europe, some countries have enacted a VAT at low rates and then, over time, increased the rates as high as 18 or 20%.

Americans for Tax Reform will release the names of candidates who have taken the Taxpayer Protection Pledge and committed against the VAT as they come in Americans for Tax Reform is a national taxpayers' advocacy organization that opposes any and all efforts to increase taxes.

I agree with you that the imposition of a Value Added Tax on the American economy would have disastrous consequences.

I share your opposition to the VAT and I want to express that opposition by becoming a member of the Congressional Anti-Value Added Tax Caucus.

I wish you the best of luck in your efforts to stop the VAT and I look forward to working together with you in the future to stop this ruinous tax before it can be enacted. Please feel free to share my commitment with members of your Anti-VAT coalition and members of the national press.

2nd District Candidate Joe Prather Refuses to Make Pledge to Support Pro-Market, Pro-Consumer Health Care Reform

Washington, D.C. -- Grover G. Norquist, president of Americans for Tax Reform, a national taxpayers advocacy organization, announced today that 2nd District Congressional candidate Joe Prather --running in the May 24th special election to fill the U.S. House seat left vacant by the death of Rep. Bill Natcher-- had declined to sign a pledge to oppose key elements of the various government-run health care schemes. The pledge commits signers to oppose and vote against any health care legislation that: 1) mandates costs onto businesses and/or individuals; 2) rations health care or establishes price controls; 3) increases taxes under any name or guise; and 4) restricts or limits choices that health care consumers now enjoy as the several proposals, including those offered by Bill Clinton, Jim Cooper and Pete Stark, now do.

The Pledge has already been signed by candidate Ron Lewis.

"I am concerned that Joe Prather will not commit in writing to oppose the efforts of Bill Clinton, Danny Rostenkowski and Ted Kennedy to raise taxes and expand government in the name of health care reform. ATR recognizes and supports the need for real free market solutions to the current health care problems. We strongly urge Joe Prather to reconsider his position and reject any reform that includes more government control, higher costs, higher taxes, fewer choices and less quality health care for Kentucky and the nation," Norquist said.

"While changes are needed in the present health care system --like helping those who cannot get insurance, protecting insurance if a job is lost, and keeping health care costs affordable-- we certainly don't need more government and higher taxes which will lead to lost jobs, fewer choices, rationing of medical services and loss of personal privacy - all of which will result if a plan similar to the Clinton proposal is passed," Norquist added.

Ron Lewis, Joe Prather and James Rice were all asked to take the health care pledge on May 12.

To arrange an interview with Mr. Norquist or other ATR staff, call Peter Roff at (202) 785-0266.

Kentucky Radio Ad
Air dates -- May 22, 23, 24

On Tuesday, May 24, Second District Kentuckians will choose who will be their voice in the critical debates on health care reform in Washington. Bill Clinton has put forward a plan that mandates costs on businesses, establishes price controls that will lead to rationing, limits choices that health care consumers now enjoy and, under many names and guises, raises taxes.

Ron Lewis has signed a pledge to vote against any such plan that adds up to more government. But... Joe Prather won't. So you need to call Joe Prather. You need to call him now at (502) 765-2600 and urge him to support a pro-market, pro-consumer health care reform. Urge him to say 'no' to higher taxes, mandates, price controls, and restricted health care choices. Urge him to sign the health care reform pledge. Because his vote could be critical, so is your phone call. (502) 765-2600.

I. GENERATION OF MATTER

This matter was generated by a complaint and amendment submitted by the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee ("DCCC" or "complainant") alleging violations of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("FECA" or "Act") by U.S. Term Limits ("USTL" and/or its "Fund"). It also contains allegations against the Christian Coalition, Americans for Tax Reform ("AFTR"), Lucas for Congress, and C.A. Wheeler, as treasurer.

II. FACTUAL AND LEGAL ANALYSIS

A. EVALUATION UNDER PRIORITY SYSTEM

In accordance with the Commission's instructions at the Executive Session of July 12, 1994, the Office of General Counsel has rated this matter using the priority system criteria.

As for the impact that this matter will have on enforcement staff, we conclude below that a substantial investigation will be required to address the substance of this MUR. Moreover, as explained below, absent the Commission deciding to seek extraordinary relief, it does not appear likely that this matter will be settled or that civil suit may be filed prior to election day on November 8, 1994.

B. SUMMARY OF COMPLAINT AND RESPONSES

9 6 0 4 3 6 1 8 1 1
Complainants assert that USTL is a corporation making expenditures in violation of Section 441b. The complaint alternatively alleges that USTL is a "political committee" which has failed to register with the Commission and file disclosure reports. The complaint notes that USTL appears to be coordinating with candidates through its "voters' contracts" program. Thus, the complaint alleges, even if USTL were exempt from the Section 441b prohibitions under the MCFL exemption with respect to corporate independent expenditures, it has still violated the prohibition by making corporate contributions to candidates. Complainants request expedited review of this matter. Although the specific facts in the complaint relate only to Oklahoma and Kentucky, complainant notes that USTL has asserted its intent to engage in a nationwide campaign through election day, November 8, 1994.

USTL identifies itself as a nonprofit tax exempt organization formed for the purpose of advocating the establishment of term limits for elected officials at all levels of government. Attachment 1 at page 1. USTL does not deny that it is a corporation.³ USTL's news release states that the activities which are the subject of this matter were paid for by USTL's Voter Education Fund ("Fund"). However, the Fund is not registered with the Commission and USTL does not provide any information about its Fund, or the source of the funds used to pay for the activities at issue in this matter.

In its response USTL provides a general explanation of its "Voter Education" program. It states that it has a "voters' contract" which it intends to send to "every congressional candidate nationwide." See Attachment 1 at 1; Attachment 2 at 2. Candidates are asked to sign the "voters' contract" and thereby commit themselves to legislation in support of term limits. In conjunction with the "voters' contract," USTL advises voters and the general public of the federal candidates' positions on term limits through radio advertisements and direct mail.

With respect to the two special elections which are the subject of the complaint, USTL indicates that it engaged in three types of activities. First, it sent its "voters' contracts" to the candidates and requested that they sign and return them. See Attachment 2 at 2. Second, it created and aired radio advertisements informing listeners of the candidates' positions on term limits. The script for its ad, entitled "Some Things are Clear," was attached to the complaint. The text reads:
Some things are clear.

Only one candidate for Congress in the sixth district is for term limits for career politicians...
Frank Lucas sides with the vast majority of us. Lucas supports term limits and a true citizen legislature.
The other candidate, Dan Webber sides with the career politicians and opposes term limits.
Lucas for term limits.
Webber opposed to term limits.
Help convince both candidates to support term limits.
Paid for by U.S. Term Limits.

See Attachment 3 at page 1. No documents related to the radio ads or their costs were provided by USTL.

The third activity USTL undertook was preparing and distributing mailings to voters in the particular election districts advising them as to whether the candidates signed the "voters' contract." USTL acknowledges that it requested that recipients contact the candidates opposed to term limits and urge them to change their position. On the other hand, USTL urged recipients to contact and thank the candidates who supported term limits. No copies of the mailings were provided by USTL.

Although USTL does not provide any information about the cost or breadth of distribution of the mailings, its news release, which was provided with the complaint, states that USTL's efforts include a 50,000 piece mailing to "registered voters" in Oklahoma, and that the program would cost upwards of $30,000. Attachment 3 at page 2. In a separate news story involving the Kentucky congressional election between Ron Lewis and Joe Prather which was held on May 24, 1994, Mr. Jacobs from USTL reported that it "would spend $20,000" making Joe Prather, a candidate who opposed limits on congressional terms, a target of an ad campaign. See Attachment 3 at pages 3 and 12.

Not included in USTL's description of its activities was the previously mentioned news release. The news release is dated May 4, 1994, and entitled "Frank Lucas Signs Voters' Contract/Webber Refuses to Support Term Limits." In that news release, Mr. Jacob of USTL is quoted:

The voters of Oklahoma's sixth district have a clear choice. They can vote for Frank Lucas, a true term limit supporter, or vote for a former congressional staffer dedicated to a career in Congress and opposed to term limits....It is imperative that the voters know who will act on this crucial issue when they reach Washington, and who will join the incumbent politician club....Our polling shows that 78 percent of the registered voters in the sixth district want a constitutional amendment for term limits....If they want term limits, then they need to know that only Frank Lucas has taken a pro-term limit stand.

C. APPLICABLE LAW

The FECA and Commission regulations prohibit a corporation from making contributions or expenditures in connection with federal elections. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a); 11 C.F.R. § 114.2(b). Corporate expenditures that are not made in coordination with a candidate or political organization are prohibited if they "expressly advocate" the election or defeat of a clearly identified candidate. See Federal Election Commission v. Massachusetts Citizens for Life ("MCFL"), 479 U.S. 238 (1986); see also Faucher v. Federal Commission, 928 F.2d 468, 470 (1st Cir.) cert. denied, 112 S.Ct. 79 (1991).⁴

In Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1 (1976) the Supreme Court provided some examples of speech that constitutes "express advocacy," i.e., "vote for" or "elect." Id. at 44, n. 52. The

4. The Court also exempted a narrow class of corporations from the prohibitions of Section 441b regarding independent expenditures. To qualify for the exemption, an incorporated entity must have three essential features: (1) it must be formed for the express purpose of promoting political ideas; (2) it must have no shareholders or persons affiliated so as to have a claim on assets or earnings; and (3) it must not be established by a business corporation or labor union and it must have a policy of not accepting contributions from such entities. Id. at 264.

9 6 0 4 3 7 6 1 8 1 5
Court, however, subsequently held that such magic words are not required for a finding of express advocacy. MCFL, 479 U.S. at 249-250. In MCFL, the Court found express advocacy in a newsletter that compared candidates' views on one particular issue, noting that the speech provided "in effect" an explicit directive and thus went "beyond issue advocacy to express electoral activity." Id. at 249. As the MCFL Court stated, "The fact that [the] message is marginally less direct than 'vote for Smith' does not change its essential nature." Id.

In FEC v. Furgatch, 807 F.2d 857, 862-864 (9th Cir.) cert. denied, 484 U.S. 850 (1987), the Ninth Circuit held that a negative ad about Jimmy Carter placed three days before the general election saying "Don't Let him do it," expressly advocated his defeat. In reaching its decision, the Furgatch court noted that limiting a finding of express advocacy to speech that contained the "magic words" of Buckley would preserve the First Amendment right of unfettered expression only at the expense of eviscerating the Act. Furgatch, 807 F.2d at 863. The court reasoned that the Act could be easily circumvented by those who would craft communications directed to elect or defeat a clearly identified candidate without the "magic words." Id.

Corporate expenditures that are made in coordination with a candidate constitute prohibited in-kind contributions regardless of whether they contain express advocacy. The Commission's regulations define "made with the cooperation or with the prior consent of, or in consultation with, or at the request or suggestion of, a candidate" to mean any "arrangement, coordination, or direction by the candidate or his or her agent prior to the publication, distribution, display, or broadcast of the communication." 11 C.F.R. § 109.1(b)(4)(i).⁵

Under the Act, a political committee is defined as any committee, club, association, or other group of persons, including a corporation, which receives contributions aggregating in excess of $1,000 or makes expenditures in excess of $1,000 during a calendar year. 2 U.S.C. § 431(4). Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 433(a) a political committee must file a statement of organization within ten days after becoming a political committee within the meaning of 2 U.S.C. § 431(4). The treasurer of each political committee must file disclosure reports in accordance with Section 434 of the Act. The Act requires that every person other than a political committee who makes independent expenditures in an aggregate amount or value in excess of $250 during a calendar year to file a statement containing specific information. See 2 U.S.C. § 434(c).

The term "contribution" is defined in the Act to include any gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money or anything of value made by any person for the purpose of influencing any election for Federal office. 2 U.S.C. § 431(8)(A)(i). Similarly,

5. The Commission's regulations provide that there is a presumption that expenditures are coordinated if they are:

(A) Based on information about the candidate's plans, projects, or needs provided to the expending person by the candidate, or by the candidate's agents, with a view toward having an expenditure made; or

(B) Made by or through any person who is, or has been, authorized to raise or expend funds, who is or has been, an officer of an authorized committee, or who is, or has been, receiving any form of compensation or reimbursement from the candidate, the candidate's committee or agent. 11 C.F.R. § 109.1(b)(4)(i)(A), (B).

the term "expenditure" includes any purchase, payment, distribution, loan, advance, deposit, or gift of money or anything of value made by any person for the purpose of influencing any election for Federal office. 2 U.S.C. § 431(9)(A)(i).

Communications that expressly advocate the election of clearly identified candidates must contain disclaimers as provided in Section 441d(a).

D. ANALYSIS OF ACTIVITIES

(i) Voters Contract

USTL acknowledges sending its "voters' contract" to each Congressional candidate nationwide. The "voters' contract" requests that the candidate sign, in the presence of a witness, a written contract agreeing to three specific measures supporting term limits. See Attachment 2 at page 2. Although a copy of the cover letter that USTL initially sends to each campaign has not been provided, this Office has reviewed a copy of the "voters' contract" and a follow-up letter apparently sent to candidates who did not sign and/or return the "voters' contract."⁶

In that follow-up letter, USTL informs the candidate that it is "preparing to notify" "voters" of your state and district that you "refuse to abide by the wishes of the people" by not signing and returning its "voters' contract." Attachment 2. The letter goes on to say that if the candidate signed the contract, USTL would inform the public that he stands with the "will of the people." Moreover, the letter encourages the candidate to call its "Congressional Director, Ron Nehring," at USTL's national offices if the candidate had any questions about the "voters' contract." Attachment 2 at 1. A toll free number, a D.C. number and a FAX number were all provided on USTL's letter to this candidate.

It appears that USTL may have attempted to coordinate with candidates and offered "something of value" to candidates in exchange for their agreeing to the terms of the "voters' contract." Although the extent of particular contacts between USTL and these candidates are unknown, this nationwide "voters' contract" program would appear to open the door for coordination. The follow-up letter, for example, encourages candidates to call and discuss the "voters' contract." In addition, it is not presently known what message USTL conveyed in its initial cover letters to candidates, specifically what, if anything, was offered by USTL in exchange for a candidate's signature agreeing to the "voters' contract." If, for instance, a candidate signed the "voters' contract" after being assured that USTL would then run a radio and/or direct mail campaign regarding his or her election, this would appear to constitute coordination. See 11 C.F.R. § 109.1(b)(4). In sum, this activity by USTL appears directly targeted toward influencing federal elections and raises questions of coordination with the candidates' campaigns.

(ii) Radio Ad

The opening sentence of USTL's radio advertisement entitled "Some Things Are Clear" identifies Frank Lucas and Dan Webber as "candidates" for "Congress in the Sixth District" of Oklahoma.

9 6 0 4 3 7 6 1 8 1 9

The essential theme of the ad is a comparison between the two opposing candidates. See Attachment 3 at 1. The comparison is not merely informative: it leaves no doubt that USTL favors Lucas and opposes Webber. The script of the ad pits one candidate against the other: "Lucas supports term limits and a true citizen legislature" while "the other candidate, Dan Webber, sides with career politicians and opposes them;" Lucas "for" term limits, Webber "opposed." Moreover, the script of the ad makes evident that the "thing" which USTL believes is "clear" is the choice between the two candidates. Indeed, in USTL's "news release" for this same election, its Executive Director Paul Jacob illuminated this point when he paraphrased the script of the ad: "The voters of Oklahoma's sixth district have a clear choice ... they can vote for Frank Lucas, a two term supporter, or vote for a former congressional staffer dedicated to a career in Congress and opposed to term limits." Attachment 3 at 2.

Moreover, this advertisement appears to have been aired just prior to the election. The vendor statement containing the script of the ad is dated April 27, 1994, while the news release announcing Lucas' signing of the "voters' contract" is dated May 4, 1994, just days before the election on May 10. Attachment 3 at 1-2. When heard or read in context and in its entirety, the message of the ad is unmistakable and unambiguous: elect Lucas and defeat Webber. Accordingly, it appears that USTL's radio ad expressly advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates.⁷

(iii) Mailings

USTL has not provided any copies of the mailers sent to voters in particular districts, but acknowledges that it distributed mailings advising them of the candidates' positions on term limits, and urging them to contact candidates and convince them to change their position. Attachment 1 at 1-2. Similarly, the mailers purportedly asked voters to contact candidates who signed its "voters' contract" to thank them. One mailer appears to have been sent to 50,000 "registered voters" in Oklahoma. Attachment 3 at 2. The number of mailings sent in connection with the election in Kentucky is not known, yet USTL indicated that it would spend a total of up to $20,000 in that state, and some portion of that amount was apparently spent on its mailers. Id. at 12.

The mailing was targeted for people who would vote in a specific election and appears to have advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates. Indeed, in AO 1987-7 the

7. This radio ad meets the three part test that the Furgatch court developed to determine whether speech constitutes express advocacy. First, the script, when read as a whole and with reference to external events, is susceptible of no other reasonable interpretation but a request to vote against Webber and for Lucas. Furgatch, 807 F.2d at 864. Second, the request to "convince" the candidates about the necessity of supporting term limits is a clear plea for action. Third, the message of the plea is clear: "convince" the candidates by voting for Lucas and against Webber. This interpretation of the plea is consistent with the facts, especially since the ad appears to have been released in the days just prior to the election, the ad conveyed to the public that Webber had "refused" to sign the "voters' contract," and the ad did not provide information about contacting either candidate. Like the plea "Don't Let him do it," this plea is "vague" but not ambiguous. Id. at 865.

Commission ruled that a proposed program that was strikingly similar to USTL's "voters' contract" would violate Section 441b. There, a corporation proposed sending letters urging recipients to contact candidates in their district before election day, invoking the threat of defeat if they did not change their position on certain issues. AO 1987-7; See also USDC v. FEC 861 F.2d 765 (2nd Cir. 1988) (court held that advisory opinions are not ripe for review). In sum, from the very limited information at hand regarding these mailings, they appear similar to those at issue in AO 1987-7. Accordingly, it appears that USTL's mailings expressly advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates.

(iv) News Release

The USTL "news release" announced the date of the Oklahoma special election, identified the two candidates, indicated that Lucas signed its "voters' contract" while Webber refused, and contained, among other things, the above-quoted language from Mr. Jacob: "The voters of Oklahoma's sixth district have a clear choice. They can vote for Frank Lucas, a true term limit supporter, or vote for a former congressional staffer dedicated to a career in Congress and opposed to term limits." Attachment 3 at 2. It is clear that the news release expressly advocates the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates.⁸

8. Moreover, there is nothing to suggest that the news release by USTL would qualify for the press exemption set forth at 2 U.S.C. § 431(9)(B)(i); 11 C.F.R. § 100.8(b)(2).

F. CONSEQUENCES OF USTL'S ACTIVITY UNDER FECA

First, as USTL appears to be incorporated and its radio ad, mailings and news release expressly advocate the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates, USTL and/or its Fund appear to have violated Section 441b by making prohibited expenditures. We note, however, that there is no information at hand about the Fund or the source of the moneys used. Moreover, USTL may claim that it and/or its Fund qualify for the MCFL exemption. MCFL, 479 U.S. 238, 264.

Second, the evidence at hand suggests that one of USTL's primary methods of achieving its goal of imposing Congressional term limits consists of direct intervention and involvement in influencing federal elections. Although the evidence at hand relates only to Oklahoma and Kentucky, USTL indicated in its response to the complaint and in its press release that its activities are to continue on a nationwide scale and in every Congressional election. These efforts appear to have already cost USTL/Fund approximately $50,000. Thus, it appears that USTL and its Fund are a political committee under Section 431(4)(A) which has failed to register and report in violation of 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a) and (b). In addition, given the nature of USTL's communications, they should have included appropriate Section 441d disclaimers.

On the other hand, if USTL and/or its Fund qualify for the MCFL exemption and it is not a "political committee," it would have still violated the Act by failing to disclose its independent expenditures in statements filed in accordance with Section 434(c) and to include disclaimers as required by Section 441d(a). Finally, our investigation would need to examine the facts surrounding USTL's "voters' contracts" to assess whether USTL coordinated with these candidates, giving rise to unreported and perhaps excessive contributions.

As the foregoing analysis shows, this matter is complex, both factually and legally. Although the evidence at hand is weighty, it is limited. USTL's response provides little information. Indeed, its response does not contain any information about the scope of the distribution or the costs of the communications for the two elections at issue, let alone for the rest of its nationwide efforts. USTL has also not provided any of the underlying documents, i.e., those related to the advertisements or mailings. Therefore, resolution of this matter will require investigation. In addition, it is anticipated that USTL may raise the MCFL exemption as a defense, which may broaden the scope of the investigation.

III. REQUEST FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF AND DISMISSAL

The complainant requests that the Commission seek injunctive relief under Section 437g to "address both the activities that have occurred to date and those that by the profession of this organization can be expected in other races this year." To date, the Commission has not sought injunctive relief at this stage of the enforcement process. In fact, there is serious question as to whether such a request would be appropriate under the Act. See General Counsel's Memorandum to the Commission dated December 11,

1992 ("Memorandum"). Moreover, for the reasons discussed below, MUR 3975 does not appear to be the type of matter in which the Commission should test the availability of injunctive relief at this juncture. Thus we recommend that the DCCC's request for injunctive relief and/or dismissal be denied.

Reference to the Commission's power to seek injunctive relief is set forth in two sections of the FECA: Sections 437g(a)(6) and 437d(a)(6). In Section 437g, the Commission is granted the power to seek injunctive relief upon completion of the detailed enforcement process, i.e., at the conclusion of post probable cause conciliation. 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(6). As noted in our Memorandum, the legislative history, statutory language, and the very structure of the enforcement scheme demonstrate Congress' intent to keep 437g enforcement matters out of court until the enforcement process is finished. Memorandum at 4.⁹

The power to seek injunctive relief also appears in Section 437d, which lists the Commission's organic powers. See 2 U.S.C. § 437d(a)(6). Although a colorable argument may be made that Section 437d(a)(6) offers an independent basis for the Commission to seek injunctive relief, in our 1992 Memorandum we outlined the limited support and risks of such an approach. See Memorandum at 4-6. As noted therein, where injunctions by agencies have been sought in aid of their enforcement process, the agency's enabling statute has generally set forth specific statutory authority within their enforcement process or the agency has additional statutory authority to do so. Memorandum at 5-6. We also concluded that another aid in seeking injunctive relief, the All Writs Act at 28 U.S.C. 1651, has been limited to emergency situations in which the jurisdiction of the court might be imperiled without immediate relief. Id. at 6-7. The situation here does not appear to be that type of emergency.

9. An exception is Section 437d(b)'s provision for judicial enforcement of subpoenas and orders.

9 6 0 4 3 7 6 1 8 5 4

More importantly, even putting aside whether the Commission has the authority to seek injunctive relief at this point under 437g or independently under 437d, this Office does not believe that MUR 3975 is the case that should be used to test that proposition. A preliminary injunction requires the moving party to show that: 1) it is likely to prevail on the merits; 2) without the injunction the moving party will be irreparably injured; 3) the injunction would not harm other parties; and 4) the injunction is consistent with the public interest. The Nation Magazine v. Department of State, 805 F. Supp. 68, 72 (D.D.C. 1992); citing Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission v. Holiday Tours, Inc. 559 F.2d 841, 843 (D.C. Cir. 1977). However, relief may be granted with either a high probability of success or some injury, or vice versa. Cuomo v. United States Nuclear Regulatory Commission, 772 F.2d 972, 978 (D.C. Cir. 1985).

Although this Office believes that USTL's activities may give rise to violations of the Act, obtaining injunctive relief at this time could prove to be difficult. Given the present record, the clearest violation would be USTL's failure to include appropriate Section 44ld disclaimers on its materials. Regarding the other legal issues, e.g. violations of Sections 441b and 433, it does not appear that there is sufficient information at hand to meet the requirements for obtaining injunctive relief.

Specifically, the source of the funds used to pay for these activities is not clear and USTL may claim it is entitled to the MCFL exemption. With regard to going forward so as to require USTL to register and report immediately as a political committee, the evidence presently available does not establish that USTL's "major purpose" is "to influence political campaigns". MCFL 479 U.S. at 261. Moreover, a court may find even the narrow disclaimer issue problematic as it involves First Amendment concerns. We do not possess any of the documents which USTL might use in future elections (other than the "voters' contract"); indeed, such communications may not even exist. Although there is evidence that USTL might engage in similar violations on a nationwide scale, a court might be hesitant to grant an injunction against future communications without reviewing the specific language and content of those communications, especially since they will be arguably subject to First Amendment protections. See e.g. Faucher v. Federal Election Commission, 743 F. Supp. 64, 70-72 (D. Me. 1990), aff'd 928 F.2d 468 (1st Cir. 1991), cert. denied, 112 S.Ct. 79 (1991).¹⁰

In the context of a request for a preliminary injunction,

10. Limiting the request for injunctive relief to exclude future USTL communications by focusing exclusively on USTL's activities in Oklahoma and Kansas would likely be unsuccessful as well. It would be difficult to establish "irreparable harm" since the elections in those two states are now over.

USTL's First Amendment arguments might be given serious consideration, especially since political speech is the type that the Supreme Court has held is at the "core of our electoral process and the greatest First Amendment freedoms." Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. at 39. Furthermore, a preliminary injunction would be viewed as prior restraint of speech, which is most disfavored. See Near v. Minnesota, 283 U.S. 713 (1931). As for the public interest, colorable arguments can be made on both sides: while the Supreme Court has found the Act's reporting requirements and the prohibition on corporate and labor union expenditures compelling, issue discussion is viewed in an equally compelling light. Buckley, 424 U.S. 1, 68.

In sum, this Office believes that these communications fall within the purview of the Act. Yet, for the foregoing reasons, we do not recommend that the Commission seek injunctive relief at this time. In regard to the DCCC's alternative request that the Commission dismiss the case without consideration in order to allow court review, dismissal of a case for the sole purpose of allowing a complainant to obtain immediate court review is improper. It would be inappropriate for the Commission to dismiss this case without consideration for the sole purpose of allowing the DCCC to bring a civil action in its own right. Therefore, this Office recommends that the Commission deny the DCCC's request to dismiss the case.

IV. CONCLUSION

Given all of the foregoing, it does not appear likely that this matter will be settled or ready for suit by election day, November 8, 1994, unless the Commission decides to seek preliminary injunctive relief.¹¹ For the foregoing reasons, this Office submits that such relief would not be appropriate in this case. Accordingly, this Office does not believe that other ongoing matters should be put aside to expedite MUR 3975. Therefore, we do not make any recommendations regarding findings of reason to believe at this time.

V. RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Deny the DCCC's request that the Commission seek injunctive relief or a restraining order.
2. Deny the DCCC's request to dismiss the case.
3. Approve the appropriate letter.

¹¹ At the Executive Session on July 12, 1994, this Office indicated that if no investigation was necessary, the civil suit could be filed, at the earliest, just before election day November 8, 1994. Given the foregoing analysis and the need for investigation, that timeline is no longer feasible. We also note that the underlying legal issues appear to test the boundaries of the statute. Indeed, some of these activities are remarkably similar to those proposed in AO 1987-7, an opinion issued to a corporation represented by the same counsel that represents USTL in this matter.

Dear Commissioners:

In May 1994, the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee filed a complaint against U.S. Term Limits. This complaint was supplemented in June 1994, adding several additional respondents. This letter contains further supplementary information about the illegal activities of U.S. Term Limits in connection with federal elections.

As the DCCC noted in its earlier complaints, U.S. Term Limits has stated clearly that it intends to be involved in influencing federal elections around the country during 1994. Evidence provided with this complaint shows that illegal activity has now begun in Idaho.

In a July 7, 1994 Wall Street Journal article (copy attached), two U.S. Term Limits employees are quoted as pledging the organization's support for the Republican party candidate, Helen Chenoweth, in the race for the House of Representatives in the 1st Congressional District of Idaho:

Another Chenoweth backer is Beau Parent, who heads Idahoans for Term Limits. While he is furious that GOP leaders here blocked a convention endorsement of his issue - a reflection of the party's electoral success - he nonetheless notes, "it will not diminish our support of Helen Chenoweth." She vows to serve no more than three terms, while Rep. LaRocco opposes term limits.

Ron Nehring, who came to the [Idaho Republican Party] convention from Washington on behalf of U.S. Term Limits, said Mrs. Chenoweth likely would benefit from the same tactics that helped elect House Republicans in recent special elections in Kentucky and Oklahoma. In each place, term-limits backers spent tens of thousands of dollars on radio and newspaper ads and mailings. "We're prepared to do all those things in Idaho," says Mr. Nehring.

Emphasis added. See also July 17, 1994 Idaho Statesman guest opinion (copy attached) written by Mr. Parent. ("By keeping pressure on Congress through grass roots campaigns like Idaho's and by electing individuals like Helen Chenoweth (who had signed the voter's contract calling for a congressional constitutional amendment establishing federal term limits, we will achieve congressional term limits in all 50 states.")

Any effort by the organizations to hide behind the independent expenditure provisions of the Act is unavailing given that U.S. Term Limits coordinated a press conference with the Chenoweth campaign. Mrs. Chenoweth even publicly thanked Beau Parent for coordinating with her campaign on the term limits initiative at a debate sponsored by the Perot group, United We Stand.

If it has ever not been clear, these statements confirm that the organization's intent is to influence the election of Republican candidates to federal office and its expenditures are designed to fulfill that intent.¹ To this end, U.S. Term Limits, by its own admission has already spent thousands of dollars, funds that have not been raised subject to the federal campaign laws source restrictions, contribution limits or reporting requirements.

DCCC has set out in its previous submissions the legal standard that must be applied to these activities. In the Furgatch case, the court required the Commission to look beyond the specific language within the four corners of a communication and to consider any communication "as a whole, with limited reference to external events." Federal Election Commission v. Furgatch, 807 F.2d 857, 864 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 108 S. Ct. 151 (1987). Bland communications (e.g., Candidate X is for term limits.) alone may well qualify as issue advocacy. Repeated public pronouncements of an intent to use these same communications to influence the election of Candidate X -- public pronouncements in the midst of an election campaign in which Candidate X is participating -- constitute "external events" that cannot be ignored.

Under these standards, the DCCC has made out the case that U.S. Term Limits has violated the Federal Election Campaign Act and the Federal Election Commission regulations implementing that Act. The organization has now admitted its intent to undertake the same illegal activities in the Idaho election (and, without doubt, in other states as well).

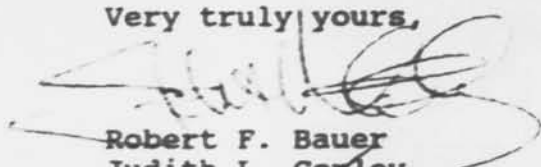

Commission refusal to stop these illegal activities promptly, before the very election on which such activities are intended to have a direct impact, would mock the enforcement provisions of the law. Thousands of dollars are being spent to benefit a candidate for federal office without any enforcement by the Commission at all. The FEC has made much recently of its efforts to streamline its enforcement procedures and to make those procedures more effective. Yet U.S. Term Limits is continuing its efforts to elect Republican candidates without making any effort to comply with the campaign laws.

The Commission cannot afford to resolve this matter two, three, four years from now, long after the impact of the illegal activities has made its mark. Larger and larger civil penalties imposed years after the violation are of little comfort to a losing candidate who played by the rules.

POLITICS & POLICY

Idaho Race Illustrates Type of GOP Conservative Seen as Potentially Vulnerable by Democrats

By JACKIE CALMES

Staff Reporter of THE WALL STREET JOURNAL
LEWISTON, Idaho — Amid the storm clouds Democrats face this election year, they point to ultraconservative GOP candidates like Helen Chenoweth as the silver lining.

Even Republicans privately say that the same stances that so endear Mrs. Chenoweth to far-right supporters — a gainst gays and abortion rights, for home schooling and private-school vouchers — will hurt her among moderate voters in this November's matchup with two-term Democratic Rep. Larry LaRocco. As Republicans met at this inland port for their recent state convention, Rep. LaRocco's radio ads already taunted, to the sound of a ticking timepiece, that Mrs. Chenoweth "wants to turn back the clock in Idaho."

But a look at the race suggests Democrats can't be complacent about such candidates. In the GOP primary, the 56-year-old Mrs. Chenoweth drew on support from an energized base of conservative activists and religious-right groups to swamp two favored rivals. In states as far-flung as Oregon, California, Texas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Indiana and Pennsylvania, conservatives this year also tapped the increasingly active far right to score victories over more moderate rivals in GOP primaries and caucuses.

The grassroots support that such Republicans employed to win their primaries will be evident in the fall, with a get-out-the vote potential that could offset disaffection among moderate voters. "If the 'right candidate' couldn't even win the primary, maybe they weren't the right candidate after all," argues Rep. Bill Paxton of New York, chairman of the House Republicans' campaign arm. Meanwhile, groups that don't share the whole conservative agenda latch on to any vehicle for change.

Yet the potential vulnerability of such Republicans is about the only encouraging word for Democrats in this midterm election year, when the president's party typically suffers net losses. "It is a godsend to us," says Democratic Rep. Vic Fazio, the head of House Democrats' campaign or organization, who cites his own victory in 1992 over a champion of California's religious right.

Prime Test

The LaRocco-Chenoweth race here is a prime test of whether these far-right candidates can swim in the mainstream. Even in conservative Idaho, the 46-year-old Rep. LaRocco couldn't be happier about Mrs. Chenoweth's upset win. "Her positions are so extreme, so far right, it gives me plenty of running room in the middle."

A pro-abortion rights moderate and scrappy campaigner, he wasted no time spotlighting his rival's more controversial stands. After the radio spot, a news release last week further set the tone. Its headline: "Chenoweth supports out of state extremist agenda."

"He's trying to demonize me," she says of Mr. LaRocco. "My challenge is not to be on the defensive."

And, as is clear in similar contests, Mrs. Chenoweth and the groups that back her are showing a pragmatic sophistication about winning elections. They are muffling debate on contentious issues they care about and stressing instead mainstream topics such as taxes and crime.

The hottest topic among Idaho's social issue conservatives, for example, is the push for an antigay rights initiative on the fall ballot. But at the GOP convention here, not a word about the matter went into this year's platform — and conservatives didn't object. "The honest truth? That initiative could do bad things to us," says Randy Smith, the state party chairman. "A lot of people in Idaho won't vote for that kind of crap." And if it is linked to the GOP, he adds, "they might not vote for our candidates either."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Chenoweth, a Boise natural resources consultant, stresses her pro-business stances on timber and mining issues, hoping to appeal both to company leaders and to the Democratic-leaning loggers and miners in this northern panhandle. "Natural resource issues are a wedge into the Western family values," she says. An engaging campaigner, she even left the convention one night to assail federal policies at a hearing in a nearby logging town.

She attacks Rep. LaRocco, who has sought to balance industry and environmental interests, as an accomplice in what Republicans generally are calling Mr. Clinton's "War on the West," a slap at proposals to raise fees for mining, ranching and logging on federal lands. At the same time, she plays down social issues, despite a background that includes helping to found the conservative Idaho Family Forum. She says she has given no thought to a federal antiabortion law, though she once backed a state version. And the antigay initiative, she says, "is not a big issue in my campaign."

Such comments don't trouble her committed backers. "We're so confident of the people we plan to elect and their firm stance on the issues we care about," says Jennifer Welch, who represented the Idaho Christian Coalition at the state convention. "At this point in the game, it's wiser to lay low and just elect them."

Electing Mrs. Chenoweth is likewise a top priority for Kelly Walton, an independent contractor who has bankrolled the drive for the antigay rights initiative as a way to mobilize the Idaho Citizens Alliance — an offshoot of the Oregon Citizens Alliance he also helped found. "We worked our tails off for her" in the primary, he says.

Blitz With Voter Guides

Again this fall, the Citizens Alliance, Christian Coalition and Idaho Family Forum will organize churches and pass out voter guides. About 200,000 voter guides went out in the state of 1.1 million in the two weeks before the May primary, organizers say several times that many will be distributed before November. Mr. Walton personally blitzed the state by car, attending as many as six meetings a day, and leaving voter guides at churches and taverns alike.

Another Chenoweth backer is Beau Parent, who heads Idahoans for Term Limits. While he is furious that GOP leaders here blocked a convention endorsement of his issue — a reflection of the party's electoral success — he nonetheless notes, "it will not diminish our support of Helen Chenoweth." She vows to serve no more than three terms, while Rep. LaRocco opposes term limits.

Ron Nehring, who came to the convention from Washington on behalf of U.S. Term Limits, said Mrs. Chenoweth likely would benefit from the same tactics that helped elect House Republicans in recent special elections in Kentucky and Oklahoma. In each place, term limit backers spent tens of thousands of dollars on radio and news paper ads and mailings. "We're prepared to do all those things" in Idaho, says Mr. Nehring.

Larry LaRocco

port Mrs. Chenoweth. Members "just want someone who goes [to Congress] and presses the 'no' button a lot," he says. "She hits the right note."

The question, GOP leaders concede, is whether Rep. LaRocco's attacks on Mrs. Chenoweth's more conservative views will offset her highly organized backing. In the primary, "she ran the best organized campaign I've seen in this state in years," says Mr. Smith, the state GOP chairman. Still, "if LaRocco defeats her, we're going to have some trouble."

unfair advantage

By Beau Perent

The 1994 Term Limit Initiative is the most dramatic piece of citizen legislation reforming government to come before the people of Idaho. The initiative puts Idahoans back in charge of their government.

The election process heavily favors the incumbent. Free use of radio and television studios, press conference rooms readily available, year-round fundraising events, and other financial and media perks have tilted the ballot box (43 out of 48 incumbents in Idaho won their primary bids in May).

Beau Perent

Term limits will level the playing field in running for political office. The initiative will establish ballot access restrictions limiting a multi-term incumbent's name from appearing on the ballot after a specified time period.

Idaho's attorney general and secretary of state agree that nothing in the initiative prohibits any individual from running for any office at any time. For example, if a state office holder desires to run for the same office after he or she has served eight of the previous 16 years, they could as a write-in candidate.

Term limits encourage greater participation in government, from school district trustees to U.S. Congress. As the hurdle of challenging an entrenched incumbent is lowered, more people will get involved and run for office.

With more people involved, the field and expertise from which we elect our representatives will broaden, thereby increasing the knowledge and expertise of our elected officials. I can't think of a better place to start getting more people involved than at the school district level, where the control to shape our children's future is second only to the home and church.

Term limits work in small towns where "the man with the snow plow gets elected mayor." If no one else wants the job, the incumbent can write his name on the ballot, re-electing himself term after term with just one vote.

More term limits to come

Term limits are the cornerstone of all political reform to come.

It is often said the only way to vote one's conscience is to have one foot out the door. Term limits will free elected officials from worrying how their votes will influence their campaign coffers and allow them to vote on the true merits of an issue.

Idaho's attorney general has proclaimed term limits at the state, county, municipal and school district level to be constitutional. Case law and history support his position and the constitutionality of state imposed congressional term limits. Article I, Section 4 of the U.S. Constitution provides power to states to control "The Times, Places and Manner of holding Elections."

National trend emerging

Idahoans are not alone as they stand in the gap for the reforms term limits will bring. More than 23 million people in 15 states established federal term limits, limiting 26 percent of Congress. At year end, nearly 45 percent of Congress will be term limited. By keeping pressure on Congress through grassroots state campaigns like Idaho's, and by electing individuals like Helen Chenoweth (who had signed the voter's contract calling for a congressional constitutional amendment establishing federal term limits), we will achieve congressional term limits in all 50 states.

President Truman said term limits "would go a long way toward curing senility and seniority — both the afflictions of Congress." Term limits break the current seniority and patronage system, a virus at all levels of government. With term limits, effort and ability will be rewarded.

The people of Idaho will make their voices

BOISE, ID.— Helen Chenoweth, Idaho first congressional district candidate held a news conference at the State House to pledge her support of the "Initiative Term Limits". In a prepared statement delivered beside the memorial to General George Washington she said, "It was George Washington who best understood the role of the 'citizen statesman'. As our first President, Washington heard the concerns of the citizenry who feared a 'presidential Monarchy'. By declining to run for the third term, George Washington invented term limits."

"Now we see the rise of a 'Congressional Monarchy' in our nation. America is ruled by a class of professional politicians whose motivations lie less in directing the nation than in administering a system of political self-preservation," Chenoweth said. "Understandable, our people yearn for change."

Chenoweth made this pledge. "I pledge today to work to return the power to the people. As a candidate, I pledge to serve a season in Congress and return to lead a life under the same laws that are imposed upon the people." The initiative calls for a member of the U.S. House of Representatives to be limited to serving six years.

U.S. Term Limits and Director

Dear Mr. Northam:

On May 26, 1994, your clients, U.S. Term Limits and Paul Jacob, as Executive Director, were notified that the Federal Election Commission received a complaint from the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee ("DCCC") alleging violations of certain sections of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended. At that time, your clients were given a copy of the complaint and informed that a response to the complaint should be submitted within 15 days of receipt of the notification.

On June 10, 1994, the Federal Election Commission received additional information from the complainant. At that time, your clients were given a copy of the additional information.

On August 19, 1994, the Commission received additional information from the complainant pertaining to the allegations in the complaint. Enclosed is a copy of this additional information. As this new information is considered an amendment to the original complaint, you are hereby afforded an additional 15 days in which to respond to the allegations.

COMPLAINT

Enclosed are a letter and a form 'contract' mailed to me by Paul Jacob.

The Organization "U.S. Term Limits" is not registered with the FEC.

Mr. Jacob's letter appears to be an attempt to intimidate or extort my agreement with his desire that I sign this 'contract' regarding term limits. I am a candidate for the United States Senate, but the document is directed towards candidates for Representative in Congress.

In essence, Mr. Jacob is going to advocate the election of those candidates that comply with his request, and oppose the candidates that do not. I believe that he should register with the FEC, and report the source and disposition of all funds that he uses for this purpose.

Additionally, the 'contract', if signed by a candidate who is ultimately elected, could prove to be extremely disruptive to the legislative process by subverting the elected candidate's vote on the issue of term limits. I.e., the elected candidate later may not wish to vote as indicated on the contract. I do not know the legal effect such a contract would have on the operation of the House of Representatives, but it would probably be chaotic.

The contract also mentions a constitutional amendment, the text of which is not available. The legal mechanism of constitutional change does not include 'contracts' with the electorate. Mr. Jacob's proposal might be regarded as a subversion of legitimate government, and an attempt to alter the government by less than legal means.

In general, Mr. Jacob appears to be attempting to disrupt the electoral process by advocating a mechanism for change on a single issue as he sees it. Mr. Jacob does not appear to be a candidate for office himself, but is preparing to interfere with campaigns of legitimate candidates who do not comply with his instructions. By failing to file financial disclosure reports with the FEC, he is operating out of public view, and may be supported by persons or entities that are not permitted to intercede in the electoral process, or he may be using his own resources in an amount that exceeds that permitted by law.

I swear that the foregoing is true and correct to the best of my knowledge, and the statements I have made are subject to the penalties for perjury and the provisions of 18 USC §1001.

Dear Mr. White:

Please accept my apologies if our letters have crossed in the mail, but I recently sent to you a copy of the Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress, giving you the opportunity to publicly declare your support for real term limits for the U.S. Congress.

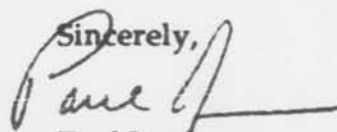

As of this morning, I have not yet received your Contract.

The Voters' Contract is your pledge to, if elected, seek true term limits legislation in Congress. U.S. Term Limits is preparing to notify the voters of your state of who has agreed to stand with the will of the people by signing the Contract; and, of those who refuse to abide by the wishes of the people by declining to sign.

So, as you can see, it is important that I receive your Contract right away.

I have enclosed another copy of the Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress. I hope you will choose to sign this contract with the voters of your district. If you have any questions regarding the Contract, please contact my Congressional Director, Ron Nehring, at our national offices.

The people want to see a return to a citizen Congress through term limits. I am looking forward to informing the voters of your district that you side with them on this important issue.

Sincerely,

Paul Jacob

Re: MUR 4002

Dear Ms. Taksar:

On behalf of U.S. Term Limits ("USTL"), we are filing this response to the complaint filed by William D. White in MUR 4002. (A Designation of Counsel form is enclosed).

USTL is a nonprofit organization recognized as tax-exempt under Section 501(c)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code. As its name implies, USTL was formed for the purpose of advocating the establishment of term limits for elected officials at all levels of government and educating the general public as to the need for term limits. As part of its activities, USTL has created a "Voters' Contract" which will be sent to every congressional candidate nationwide. The candidates are asked to sign the "Voters' Contract" and, thereby, to commit themselves to supporting legislation that would limit the terms of office of Congressmen and Senators. In conjunction with the "Voters' Contract" program, USTL also advises the general public of federal candidates' positions on term limits. This is accomplished through radio advertising and direct mail in which USTL informs the public that particular candidates have or have not signed the "Voters' Contract" and advises the public as to whether the candidates support or oppose term limits.

Mr. White, who states that he is a candidate for the United States Senate, received a copy of USTL's "Voters' Contract" and a copy of Mr. Jacob's cover letter urging him to sign and return the contract. Mr. White does not allege that USTL has done anything other than to send him the letter and the "Voters' Contract." While he speculates that "Mr. Jacob is going to advocate the election of those candidates that comply with his request, and oppose the candidates that do not," Mr. White presents the Commission with no evidence that USTL has engaged in any any such activity. The remainder of Mr. White's letter deals with alleged issues that are outside of the Commission's jurisdiction.

There is nothing in the Federal Election Campaign Act or the regulations thereunder which prohibits an organization from urging federal candidates to take a position on issues of interest to the general public. That is all that USTL has done in regard to Mr. White. Even if USTL were to publicize Mr. White's position on term limits, that would not violate any provisions of the Act. (See USTL's response to MUR 3875).

In the absence of any allegation that USTL has engaged in an activity that advocates the election or defeat of a federal candidate, there is no basis upon which the Commission can conclude that any possible violation of the Act may have occurred. For that reason, Mr. White's complaint in MUR 4002 should be dismissed.

Respectfully submitted,

Frank M. Northam

I. BACKGROUND

In MUR 3975, the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee ("DCCC") alleges that U.S. Term Limits ("USTL" and/or its "Fund") violated the statute through its "voters' contract" program.¹ In an amendment to its complaint, the DCCC made similar allegations against Americans For Tax Reform ("AFTR") and the Christian Coalition (Coalition). Two candidate committees were also notified of the complaint in MUR 3975. In MUR 4002, William White alleges violations of the statute by USTL, also with respect to its "voters' contract" program.

II. APPLICABLE LAW

The FECA and Commission regulations prohibit a corporation from using its general treasury funds to make contributions or expenditures in connection with federal elections. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a); 11 C.F.R. § 114.2(b). Corporate expenditures that are not made in coordination with a candidate or political organization are prohibited if they "expressly advocate" the election or defeat of a clearly identified candidate. See Federal Election Commission v. Massachusetts Citizens for Life ("MCFL"),

1. On July 26, 1994, the Commission denied the DCCC's request that it either seek injunctive relief to prevent USTL from carrying on its "voters' contract" efforts and related activities prior to the 1994 elections or dismiss this matter so that it could proceed to district court. In our First General Counsel's Report recommending that the Commission deny DCCC's requests, we did not make any recommendations regarding findings of reason to believe. See First General Counsel's Report, dated July 20, 1994 ("FGCR"). Therefore, although this report may not technically be the First General Counsel's Report in MUR 3975, it is the first report in which this Office makes reason-to-believe recommendations in either of these matters (MUR 3975 or MUR 4002).

9 6 0 4 3 7 6 1 8 0 1
In Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1 (1976) the Supreme Court provided some examples of speech that constitutes "express advocacy," i.e., "vote for" or "elect." Id. at 44, n. 52. In MCFL, the Court found express advocacy in a newsletter that compared candidates' views on one particular issue, noting that the speech provided "in effect" an explicit directive and thus went "beyond issue advocacy to express electoral activity." Id. at 249. The Court stated that: "The fact that [the] message is marginally less direct than 'vote for Smith' does not change its essential nature." Id. Thus "magic words" are not required for a finding of express advocacy. MCFL, 479 U.S. at 249-250.

In FEC v. Furgatch, 807 F.2d 857, 862-864 (9th Cir.) cert. denied, 484 U.S. 850 (1987), the Ninth Circuit held that a negative ad about Jimmy Carter placed three days before the general election saying "Don't Let him do it," expressly advocated his defeat. In reaching its decision, the Furgatch court noted that limiting a finding of express advocacy to speech that contained the "magic words" of Buckley would preserve the First Amendment right of unfettered expression only at the expense of eviscerating the Act. Furgatch, 807 F.2d at 863. The court

2. In MCFL, the Court also exempted a narrow class of corporations from the prohibitions of Section 441b regarding independent expenditures. To qualify for the exemption, an incorporated entity must have three essential features: (1) it must be formed for the express purpose of promoting political ideas; (2) it must have no shareholders or persons affiliated so as to have a claim on assets or earnings; and (3) it must not be established by a business corporation or labor union and it must have a policy of not accepting contributions from such entities. MCFL, 479 U.S. at 264.

reasoned that the Act could be easily circumvented by those who would craft communications directed to elect or defeat a clearly identified candidate without the "magic words." Id.

Corporate expenditures that are made in coordination with a candidate constitute prohibited in-kind contributions regardless of whether they contain "express advocacy." The Commission's regulations define "made with the cooperation or with the prior consent of, or in consultation with, or at the request or suggestion of, a candidate" to mean any "arrangement, coordination, or direction by the candidate or his or her agent prior to the publication, distribution, display, or broadcast of the communication." 11 C.F.R. § 109.1(b)(4)(i).³

In a prior enforcement matter, the Commission found reason to believe that a corporation violated Section 441b(a) by coordinating the timing and distribution of press conferences it had arranged with candidates who had signed its "voters' pledges." See Matter Under Review ("MUR") 2269.⁴ In Advisory Opinion ("AO")

3. The Commission's regulations provide that there is a presumption that expenditures are coordinated if they are: (A) Based on information about the candidate's plans, projects, or needs provided to the expending person by the candidate, or by the candidate's agents, with a view toward having an expenditure made; or (B) Made by or through any person who is, or has been, authorized to raise or expend funds, who is or has been, an officer of an authorized committee, or who is, or has been, receiving any form of compensation or reimbursement from the candidate, the candidate's committee or agent. 11 C.F.R. §§ 109.1(b)(4)(i)(A), (B).

4. The respondent in MUR 2269 was AFTR, which is also a respondent in MUR 3975. MUR 2269 dealt with AFTR's "voters' pledges" for the 1986 elections, and was settled through a conciliation agreement which contained an admission of the Section 441b(a) violation and a $1,000 civil penalty.

1987-7 the Commission ruled that a corporation would violate Section 441b(a) if it sent letters urging recipients to contact candidates in their district before election day, invoking the threat of defeat if they did not change their position on certain issues.

Under the Act, a political committee is defined as any committee, club, association, or other group of persons, including a corporation, which receives contributions aggregating in excess of $1,000 or makes expenditures in excess of $1,000 during a calendar year. 2 U.S.C. § 431(4). The Supreme Court has concluded that "[t]o fulfill the purposes of the Act [political committees] need only encompass organizations that are under the control of a candidate or the major purpose of which is the nomination or election of a candidate." Buckley, 424 U.S. at 79; MCFL, 479 U.S. at 252, n.6; see also AO 1994-25; Akins v. FEC, No. 92-1864 (D.D.C. March 30, 1994). Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 433(a) a political committee must file a statement of organization within ten days after becoming a political committee within the meaning of 2 U.S.C. § 431(4). The treasurer of each political committee must file disclosure reports in accordance with Section 434 of the Act. The Act requires that every person other than a political committee who makes independent expenditures in an aggregate amount or value in excess of $250 during a calendar year file a statement containing specific information, as set forth in 2 U.S.C. § 434(c).

The term "contribution" is defined in the Act to include any gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money or anything of value made by any person for the purpose of influencing any election for Federal office. 2 U.S.C. § 431(8)(A)(i). Similarly, the term "expenditure" includes any purchase, payment, distribution, loan, advance, deposit, or gift of money or anything of value made by any person for the purpose of influencing any election for Federal office. 2 U.S.C. § 431(9)(A)(i). Communications that expressly advocate the election of clearly identified candidates must contain disclaimers as provided in Section 441d(a).

III. FACTUAL AND LEGAL ANALYSIS

A. U.S. TERM LIMITS (USTL)

i. Summary of Complaint and Responses

Complainants assert that USTL is a corporation making expenditures in violation of Section 441b. The complaint alternatively alleges that USTL is a "political committee" which has failed to register with the Commission and file disclosure reports. The complaint notes that USTL appears to be coordinating with candidates through its "voters' contract" program. Thus, the complaint alleges, even if USTL were exempt from the Section 441b prohibition under the MCFL exemption with respect to corporate independent expenditures, it has still violated the Act by making corporate contributions to candidates. The complaint and amendments focus on elections held in Oklahoma, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Idaho.

USTL identifies itself as a nonprofit tax exempt organization formed for the purpose of advocating the establishment of term limits for elected officials at all levels of government. See FGCR, dated July 20, 1994, Attachment 1. USTL operates its voters' contract program on a nationwide basis. USTL does not deny that it is a corporation.⁵ USTL's news release indicates that its efforts were paid for by USTL's Voter Education Fund ("Fund"). However, the Fund is not registered with the Commission and USTL does not provide any information about its Fund, or the source of the funds used to pay for the activities at issue in this matter.

USTL provides a general explanation of its activities. First, it created "voters' contracts" which it acknowledged were distributed to "every congressional candidate nationwide." Second, it created and aired radio advertisements indicating whether clearly identified candidates had signed its "voters' contracts." Third, USTL created and distributed mailings to voters in specific Congressional districts and/or states advising them as to whether the particular candidates signed the "voters' contract," and urging voters to contact such candidates. Fourth, USTL issued press releases indicating whether clearly identified candidates signed its voters' contracts.⁶

USTL denies coordinating with candidates through its voters' contracts. It also contends that the mailings and radio advertisements which it distributed in conjunction with its voters' contract are constitutionally-protected issue discussion

5. This Office was informed by the corporate division of the District of Columbia that USTL is a registered corporation.

6. USTL also appears to have taken polls in particular Congressional voting districts regarding term limits. See Attachment 1 at 2.

and do not "expressly advocate" the election or defeat of candidates. Therefore, USTL requests that the Commission dismiss MUR 3975 and MUR 4002.

(ii) Analysis

(a) USTL's Voters' Contracts

USTL indicates that it sent its voters' contracts to candidates nationwide. It did not provide a copy of its initial letter to candidates or any of its voters' contracts. However, a copy of one voters' contract was provided by the complainant in MUR 4002. The contract, in essence, provides that if the candidate is elected, he or she will take three specific measures in support of enacting or advancing Congressional term limits. See Attachment 1 at 4.

The complainant in MUR 4002 also provided a copy of a follow-up letter he had received from USTL. Attachment 1 at 5. In that letter, USTL's Executive Director Paul Jacob states that signing the "voters' contract" would give the candidate the "opportunity to publicly declare" his support for term limits. Id. Moreover, Jacob states that the corporation is "preparing to notify" "voters" of your state and district that you "refuse to abide by the wishes of the people" by not signing and returning its "voters' contract." Id. The letter goes on to say that if the candidate signed the contract, USTL would inform the public that he stands with the "will of the people." The letter encourages the candidate to call its "Congressional Director, Ron Nehring," at USTL's national offices if the candidate had any questions about the "voters' contract." Id. A toll free number, a D.C.

number and a FAX number were all provided on USTL's letter to this candidate.

Certain aspects of USTL's voters' contract efforts appear permissible. USTL was permitted to contact these candidates to determine their position on the issue of Congressional term limits, and to release information disclosing its "findings." See generally AO 1993-18, citing 11 C.F.R. §§ 114.4(b), (c) and (d). In addition, as USTL's states in its response, there is nothing in the FECA "which prohibits an organization from urging federal candidates to take a position on issues of the general public." Attachment 3 at 2.

On the other hand, some aspects of USTL's voters' contracts raise questions. Although the extent of particular contacts between USTL and these candidates are unknown, this nationwide "voters' contract" program would appear to open the door for coordination. For example, in the follow-up letter provided, USTL encouraged a candidate to call its offices to discuss the voters' contract, and even provided a toll free number. It also warned this candidate that it would "notify" voters whether or not he signed its contract. Yet there is presently no information indicating whether USTL informed candidates about the specifics of its campaign, i.e., radio ads, mailings, media advisories. More importantly, there is no information relating to whether USTL may have agreed to run radio ads and/or direct mail campaigns on behalf of a candidate in exchange for a signature on its "voters' contracts." Such activity would appear to constitute the making and acceptance of an in-kind contribution regardless of whether the particular communications contained express advocacy. Similarly, it is unclear whether USTL may have arranged with candidates the timing or distribution of the release of its communications to voters. As noted, in MUR 2269 the Commission found that arranging the timing and distribution of press announcements constituted coordination. In sum, this activity by USTL appears directly targeted toward influencing federal elections and raises questions of coordination with the candidates' campaigns. Given the foregoing, it appears that more information should be obtained regarding the nature and content of USTL's contacts with candidates.

(b) USTL's Radio Ad

The script for one of USTL's radio ads, aired in Oklahoma, was attached to the complaint. The text provides:

Some things are clear.
Only one candidate for Congress in the sixth district is for term limits for career politicians...
Frank Lucas sides with the vast majority of us.
Lucas supports term limits and a true citizen legislature.
The other candidate, Dan Webber, sides with the career politicians and opposes term limits.
Lucas for term limits.
Webber opposed to term limits.
Help convince both candidates to support term limits.
Paid for by U.S. Term Limits.

The above-quoted ad clearly identifies Messrs. Lucas and Webber as candidates for a specific federal election. In addition, it appears to have been aired just prior to the election in Oklahoma's sixth district, an election which USTL references in the ad itself.⁷ The script of the ad pits one candidate against the other: "Lucas supports term limits and a true citizen legislature" while "the other candidate, Dan Webber, sides with career politicians and opposes them;" Lucas "for" term limits, Webber "opposed." The theme of this ad is the comparison between the candidates. The message of the ad is not merely informative; USTL clearly shows that it favors Lucas and opposes Webber.⁸ This speech "cannot be regarded as a mere discussion of public issues that by their nature raise the names of certain politicians." MCFL, 479 U.S. at 249. It may be "marginally less direct than" vote against Webber, but this "does not change its essential nature." Id. The ad "goes beyond issue discussion to express electoral advocacy." Id.⁹ In sum, when heard or read in context

7. The date when the radio ad was aired was not yet provided. However, the vendor statement containing the script of the ad is dated April 27, 1994, while the news release announcing Lucas' signing of the "voters' contract" is dated May 4, 1994, just days before the Special General election on May 10. Attachment 1 at 1-2.

8. It is evident that the "thing" which USTL believes is "clear" is the choice between the two candidates on election day. Indeed, in USTL's "news release" for this same election, its Executive Director Paul Jacob illuminated this point when he paraphrased the script of the ad: "The voters of Oklahoma's sixth district have a clear choice ... they can vote for Frank Lucas, a two term supporter, or vote for a former congressional staffer dedicated to a career in Congress and opposed to term limits." Attachment 1 at 2 (emphasis added).

9. This radio ad also meets the three part test that the Furgatch court developed to determine whether speech constitutes express advocacy. First, the script, when read as a whole and with reference to external events, is susceptible of no other reasonable interpretation but a request to vote against Webber and for Lucas. Furgatch, 807 F.2d at 864. Second, the request to "convince" the candidates about the necessity of supporting term limits is a clear plea for action. Third, the message of the plea is clear: "convince" the candidates by voting for Lucas and and in its entirety, the message of the ad is unmistakable and unambiguous: elect Lucas and defeat Webber. Accordingly, it appears that USTL's radio ad expressly advocated the election and defeat of "clearly identified candidates."¹⁰

(c) USTL's Mailings

USTL has not provided any copies of the mailings (or mailers) it sent to voters in particular districts. Yet it acknowledges that it distributed mailings advising recipients of the candidates' positions on term limits, and urging them to contact candidates and convince them to change their position if they had not signed its contract. The mailers also purportedly against Webber. This interpretation of the plea is consistent with the facts, especially since the ad appears to have been released in the days just prior to the election, the ad conveyed to the public that Webber had "refused" to sign the "voters' contract," and the ad did not provide information about contacting either candidate. Like the plea "Don't Let him do it," this plea is "vague" but not "ambiguous." Id. at 865.

We further note that USTL's ad in many ways resembles the newsletter at issue in MCFL, which the Supreme Court found constitutes express advocacy. That newsletter presented each clearly identified candidate's position on abortion, made clear that the group was "pro-life," and stated: "vote pro-life." MCFL, 479 U.S. at 249-250.

10. There is information suggesting that USTL created and aired similar advertisements in connection with other federal elections. For example, a press report indicates that USTL ran another advertisement in Oklahoma: stating: "Tuesday you'll be able to vote for term limits for career Congressman-state question 662. And in Tuesday's Democratic runoff for Congress between Virgil Cooper and Mike Synar, the difference on term limits is clear. Cooper supports the people's initiative for term limits and has signed the term limits voter protection pledge. Synar opposes the people's initiative and refuses to sign. Cooper supports term limits. Synar opposes the people's initiative for term limits. Paid for by the U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund." Attachment 5.

asked voters to contact candidates who signed its "voters' contract" to thank them.

Since neither the complainants nor USTL provided copies of this mailing, it is unclear what was stated therein. However, it appears that they were targeted for people who would vote in particular elections. It also appears that the mailings may be similar to those at issue in AO 1987-7. There, a corporation proposed sending letters urging recipients to contact candidates in their district before election day, invoking the threat of defeat if they did not change their position on certain issues. The Commission ruled that the proposed program in AO 1987-7 would violate Section 441b; See also USDC v. FEC 861 F.2d 765 (2d Cir. 1988) (court held that advisory opinions are not ripe for review). In sum, from the limited information at hand, it appears that USTL's mailings may have expressly advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates. As for the scope of the mailers, at this point it appears that such a mailing was sent to 50,000 "registered voters" in Oklahoma, and that a number of mailings were also apparently sent in connection with an election in Kentucky. See Attachment 1 at 3.

(d) USTL's News Release

USTL's news release, dated May 4, 1994, is entitled "Frank Lucas Signs Voters' Contract/Webber Refuses to Support Term Limits." In that news release, Mr. Jacob of USTL is quoted:

The voters of Oklahoma's sixth district have a clear choice.... They can vote for Frank Lucas, a true term limit supporter, or vote for a former congressional staffer dedicated to a career in Congress and opposed to term limits.... It is imperative that the voters know who will act on this crucial issue when they reach Washington, and who will join the incumbent politician club....Our polling shows that 78 percent of the registered voters in the sixth district want a constitutional amendment for term limits....If they want term limits, then they need to know that only Frank Lucas has taken a pro-term limit stand.

USTL's "news release" identified the two candidates and the district which they each hoped to represent. The opening sentence of the news release (not quoted above) even sets forth the date of the election (May 10, 1994). Attachment 1 at 2. Moreover, the news release explicitly states that the voters will have a choice between Lucas and Webber. In fact, much of the script is about voting, and is devoted to informing voters that Lucas, not Webber, is the right candidate. It thus appears that the news release expressly advocates the election and defeat of "clearly identified candidates."¹¹

(iii) Consequences of USTL's Activities

As noted at the outset of this Report, the complainant DCCC set forth alternative theories regarding USTL's activities. First, it alleged that USTL made prohibited corporate expenditures and/or contributions. Second, it alternatively alleged that USTL is an unregistered "political committee." We believe that the information presently available is sufficient to make initial findings in support of either of the DCCC's theories. As for the Section 441b violation, USTL is incorporated, and it has neither claimed nor shown that it is entitled to the MCFL exemption.

11. At this point, nothing is known about the circulation of this communication, or the costs involved.

USTL's radio ad, mailings and news release appear to expressly advocate the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates. Moreover, there is some question as to whether USTL may have coordinated with candidates through its voters' contract program.

The information at hand is also sufficient for the Commission to find reason to believe regarding the DCCC's alternative allegation that USTL is operating a "political committee." In particular, it appears that one of USTL's primary methods of achieving its goal of imposing Congressional term limits is through direct intervention and involvement in federal elections, i.e., through its voters' contracts, election advertisements, press releases and mailings. In fact, USTL states that it sent its voters' contracts to every federal candidate nationwide. These efforts cost USTL at least $50,000. Thus, there is evidence suggesting that a "major purpose" of USTL is to influence federal elections, making it a "political committee." If so, it was required to register and report pursuant to 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a) and (b).

In light of the above, this Office recommends that the Commission deny USTL's request that it dismiss this matter. Instead, we recommend that the Commission find reason to believe that USTL and/or its Fund violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a), or in the alternative, 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a) and (b). In addition, as USTL's communications expressly advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates, they should have included complete and appropriate Section 441d disclaimers. Yet the radio ad appears to have contained only one half of a disclaimer, while the media advisories did not contain any disclaimers at all. Accordingly, this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that USTL and/or its Fund violated 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a).¹²

B. AMERICANS FOR TAX REFORM (AFTR)

(i) Summary of Complaint and Response

In MUR 3975, DCCC alleges that AFTR is engaging in tactics "designed to influence federal elections without complying with source restrictions, contribution limits and disclosure requirements" of the statute. See Amendment to the complaint dated June 10, 1994, at page 1. DCCC enclosed newspaper articles referencing AFTR "voters' pledge" campaign in Kentucky.

AFTR identifies itself as a non-profit membership organization established to promote lower marginal tax rates. It indicates that it engages in a number of programs to educate the public about taxes. See AFTR's response to the complaint in MUR 3975, circulated to the Commission by request on August 1, 1994. In particular, the information at hand indicates that AFTR created and distributed two pledges in connection with the election in Kentucky's Second District on May 24, 1994. Attachment 2 at 2-3. One was a "Taxpayer Protection Pledge," and the other a 12. Discovery will help clarify which of DCCC's theories is most appropriate. We note, however, that even if USTL qualified for the MCFL exemption and it is not a "political committee," there would still appear to be violations here. Specifically, as it appears that these communications "expressly advocated" the election and defeat of candidates, USTL would have still violated the Act by failing to disclose its independent expenditures in statements filed in accordance with Section 434(c) and to include disclaimers as required by Section 441d(a).

"Health Care Protection Pledge." Id. 1994. AFTR indicates that it created and distributed such pledges with respect to other elections across the nation. Like USTL, AFTR informed potential voters of whether specific candidates signed their pledges through press releases and radio advertisements.

AFTR argues that it engages only in issue advocacy and does not advocate the election or defeat of clearly identified candidates. Thus, it requests that the Commission dismiss MUR 3975.¹³

(ii) Analysis

(a) AFTR's Voters' Pledge

AFTR's voters' pledge program resembles USTL's voters' contract program. See Attachment 2 at 2-3.¹⁴ In particular, they are similar in concept and design. In addition, the mechanics of AFTR's voters' pledge program appears quite similar to USTL's voters' contract efforts. Specifically, like USTL, AFTR contacted specific federal candidates and urged them to sign its pledges. Also like USTL, AFTR informed candidates that it would notify

13. AFTR also argues that the DCCC's complaint lacks the required specificity of the Commission's regulation at 11 C.F.R. § 111.4(d)(3). That argument lacks merit. The DCCC's amendment to the complaint alleges that AFTR is engaged in activities "designed to influence federal elections without complying with source restrictions, contribution limits and disclosure requirements." In addition, DCCC enclosed news articles in support of its contention that AFTR was involved in specific federal elections. Thus, the complaint contains a "clear and concise recitation of ... facts which describe a violation of" the statute. Id.

14. It appears that AFTR may have actually been the first of the two entities to create this concept, apparently having operated its voters' pledge campaign since the 1986 election cycle. See MUR 2269.

voters in their district whether or not they signed its voters' protection pledge.

AFTR also created and aired radio ads and media advisories in conjunction with its pledges. In its follow-up letter, AFTR's Grover Norquist informed candidate Joe Prather that he had returned his "call" and that AFTR had "sent out" an attached media advisory announcing Prather's decision to sign AFTR's Taxpayer Protection Pledge. Attachment 2 at 4. Mr. Norquist also told the candidate Prather that he needed to hear from him by "noon today," about the pledge on health care reform.

As we have previously stated, AFTR's voters' pledge efforts were the subject of MUR 2269, a matter which was settled through conciliation. See supra footnote 4. In that matter, the Commission found reason to believe that AFTR violated Section 441b(a) by coordinating with candidates the timing and distribution of press releases related to its voters' pledges. With respect to the contacts related to the voters' pledges at issue in this matter, they would appear to have opened the door for coordination. Given the limited information at hand it is presently unclear whether AFTR may have arranged with candidates the content, timing or distribution of its advertisements, media advisories and mailings. In light of the foregoing, including the existence of a similar prior enforcement action involving these same respondents, an investigation into AFTR's contacts with candidates appears warranted.

(b) AFTR's Radio Advertisement

AFTR has provided a copy of the script to a radio advertisement it apparently aired in connection with the Kentucky Congressional race between Messrs. Prather and Lewis. According to the document AFTR produced, the advertisement was to air May 22, 23, and 24. The radio ad stated:

On Tuesday, May 24, Second District Kentuckians will choose who will be their voice in the critical debates on health care reform in Washington. Bill Clinton has put forward a plan that mandates costs on businesses, establishes price controls that will lead to rationing, limits choices that health care consumers now enjoy and, under many names and guises, raises taxes.

Ron Lewis has signed a pledge to vote against any such plan that adds up to more government. But ... Joe Prather won't. So you need to call Joe Prather. You need to call him now at (502) 765-2600 and urge him to support a pro-market, pro-consumer health care reform..... Because his vote could be critical, so is your phone call (502) 765-2600. A message paid for by Americans for by Tax Reform.

Attachment 2 at 9.

The ad identifies the Congressional office sought by Messrs. Prather and Lewis, and it identifies them both as candidates for the same election. The ad also provides the date of the election. The communication focuses on the choice between the candidates on election day, specifically indicating that voters "will choose" who will be their voice on May 24, 1994. The ad discusses a specific health care plan, explains AFTR's opposition to that plan, and exhorts listeners to attempt to persuade Prather to sign its health care pledge, twice providing his campaign's phone number. The ad aired in the days just prior to the election, it cast Prather's refusal to sign AFTR's pledge in a negative light, and it focused on the choice that listeners were to make on election day. Given these factors, we believe that this ad is election-influencing and constitutes express advocacy.

c) AFTR's Media Advisories

AFTR released two media advisories in connection with the Kentucky election between Messrs. Prather and Lewis. Both advisories were related to whether the candidates had signed AFTR's voters' pledges. In its first media advisory, AFTR indicated that both Prather and Lewis had signed its "Taxpayer Protection Pledge."¹⁵ The advisory specifically states that: "Joe Prather has joined Ron Lewis and signed the Taxpayer Protection Pledge against income tax hikes and (sic) who have committed to join the Congressional Anti-VAT Caucus if elected on Tuesday, May 24." Attachment 2 at 5. This advisory does not favor one candidate over the other. It does not indicate that voters will have to choose between one of the two candidates. In fact, the advisory only references the election once, and that is in the context of whether the candidates would join a specific caucus if they were elected. In short, this media advisory does not appear to be federal election influencing, or to expressly advocate the election or defeat of either candidate. Instead, it appears to be permissible issue discussion.

15. The advisory itself is dated March 17, 1994, but this appears to be a typographical error. Attachment 2 at 5. It appears that it should have been dated "May" 17, 1994. We base this observation on the following information. AFTR states in another media advisory that it first asked the candidates to sign this pledge on May 12, 1994. In addition, in his letter to Prather dated May 17, 1994, Norquist had just enclosed this advisory. Finally, the congressman for whose seat these candidates ran, the late William Natcher, was still in office on March 17, 1994.

AFTR's second media advisory for this Kentucky race goes further, however. That advisory, dated May 18, 1994, is entitled "2d District Candidate Joe Prather Refuses to Makes (sic) Pledge to Support Pro-Market, Pro-Consumer Health Care Reform."

Attachment 2 at 8. The advisory opens by stating: "2d District Congressional candidate Joe Prather-running in the May 24th special election to fill the U.S. House seat... has declined to sign" AFTR's health care pledge, which the media advisory then describes. Id. In the following paragraph, which consists of a single sentence, AFTR states: "The pledge has already been signed by candidate Ron Lewis." Id. AFTR's Executive Director goes on to say: "I am concerned that Joe Prather will not commit in writing to oppose the efforts of Bill Clinton, Danny Rostenkowski and Ted Kennedy to raise taxes and expand government in the name of health care reform." Id.

This media advisory identifies Messrs. Prather and Lewis as candidates for a specific office and it sets forth the date of the election. It also makes clear that AFTR opposes the election of Prather because he has "refused" to sign AFTR's pledge. It further indicates that Lewis had already signed such a pledge, thus signaling support for him. Finally, it appears that the advisory was released less than one week prior to the election. Given the foregoing, we believe that AFTR's advisory is as an expression of support for Lewis and opposition to Prather. As such, this Office believes this advisory expressly advocates the election of Lewis and the defeat of Prather.

(iii) Consequences of AFTR's activities

9 6 0 4 3 7 6 1 9 1 0
The complainant DCCC set forth alternative allegations regarding AFTR's activities. The allegations suggested that AFTR either made prohibited corporate expenditures and/or contributions or was operating an unregistered political committee. AFTR is incorporated and the communications at hand appear to expressly advocate the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates. In any event, through its voters' pledges AFTR had contacts with federal candidates which raise questions of possible coordination. These questions are similar to those posed in MUR 2269, a prior matter involving these same respondents in which the Commission found a Section 441b violation. In addition, it appears that one of AFTR's primary methods of achieving its goals is through direct intervention in federal elections, and that the activities at issue cost at least $1,000. Thus, there is evidence suggesting that a "major purpose" of AFTR is to influence federal elections, making it a "political committee" under the Act. See 2 U.S.C. § 433(a).

In short, the information presently available is sufficient for the Commission to make alternative findings regarding AFTR's activities and communications. Given the foregoing, this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that AFTR violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a), or in the alternative 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a) and (b). In addition, given that some of the previously discussed communications by AFTR, such as the radio ad, expressly advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates but did not contain a complete disclaimer, or, in the case of the media advisories did not contain any disclaimers at all, this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that AFTR violated 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a).¹⁶

C. CHRISTIAN COALITION

DCCC charges that the Christian Coalition is engaging in tactics designed to influence federal elections without complying with source restrictions, contribution limits and disclosure requirements. News articles indicate that Christian Coalition distributed a flier describing the positions of the candidates in the Kentucky special election of May 24, 1994. One article states that the total cost of the Coalition's efforts in Kentucky, which included calls to evangelical voters, was estimated to be $10,000.

The Coalition asserts that the amendment to the complaint does not contain any specific information about its communications in Kentucky. See Response of the Coalition, circulated to the Commission by request on August 1, 1994. It further notes that the news articles make clear that its flier did not advocate the election of Lewis, the candidate which its voter guide was alleged to have favored. The Coalition also notes that the news article made clear that its get-out-the-vote phone calls did not mention any candidates. It therefore requests that the Commission dismiss

16. Respondents argue that there is no evidence AFTR's President Grover Norquist violated the FECA. At this point we make no recommendations regarding Mr. Norquist or USTL's Paul Jacob. After the investigation, if applicable, we will make any appropriation recommendations regarding those individuals.

the complaint in MUR 3975 as it pertains to it.

9 6 0 4 3 6 1 9 2
D. CANDIDATE COMMITTEES

The complaint in MUR 3975 indicates that candidates were in contact with USTL and AFTR. Two candidate committees were notified of the complaint and/or amendments in MUR 3975: Lucas for Congress (Kentucky) and Chenoweth for Congress (Idaho). Only Lucas for Congress responded to the complaint, asserting that it signed USTL's voters contract but that such activity does not constitute a contribution. See Attachment 4. Given that the information relating to the contacts between USTL, AFTR and these candidates is presently limited, this Office recommends that the Commission take no action against them at this time.

E. ADMINISTRATIVE MATTERS

As the above analysis shows, the allegations in these complaints relate to a number of different respondents. For purposes of administrative efficiency, we believe that these allegations as they relate to different respondents should be treated as separate matters. Accordingly, we recommend that the Commission sever the respondents USTL and AFTR from MUR 3975, and open two separate MURS with respect to them. In addition, we recommend merging MUR 4002, which involves USTL, with the new MUR which shall be opened with respect to that organization. Finally, the Christian Coalition shall remain as respondents in MUR 3975

IV. DISCOVERY PLAN

Our investigation will focus on learning about the electoral activities of USTL and AFTR. It will include obtaining information about the structure of these organizations, as well as their media efforts, mailings, contacts with candidates and sources of funding. Attached for the Commission's approval are subpoenas for documents and interrogatories. Past experience has proven that such cases can be resource intensive, especially where, as here, the activities appear to have been undertaken on a nationwide basis. Accordingly, throughout this investigation this Office will evaluate the use of its resources and apprise the Commission on a regular basis.

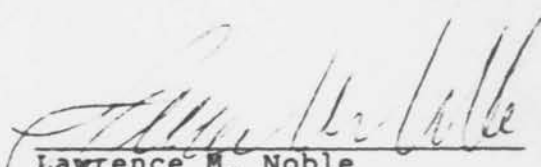

V. RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Deny the requests of U.S. Term Limits, Americans For Tax Reform and Christian Coalition to dismiss MUR 3975, and the request of U.S. Term Limits to dismiss MUR 4002.
2. Sever the allegations against U.S. Term Limits from MUR 3975, and open a separate MUR with respect to them.
3. Merge MUR 4002 into the new MUR which shall be opened with respect to U.S. Term Limits.

4. Find reason to believe that U.S. Term Limits and/or U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a), or, in the alternative, 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a) and (b).
5. Find reason to believe that U.S. Term Limits and/or U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund violated 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a).
6. Sever the allegations against Americans for Tax Reform from MUR 3975, and open a new MUR with respect to them.
7. Find reason to believe that Americans for Tax Reform violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a), or, in the alternative, 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a) and (b).
8. Find reason to believe that Americans for Tax Reform violated 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a).
9. Take no action at this time against Lucas for Congress and C. A. Wheeler, a treasurer, Chenoweth for Congress Committee and Wayne Crow, as treasurer.
10. Approve the attached factual and legal analysis, subpoenas and interrogatories, and the appropriate letters.

RE: MUR 4203 (f.k.a. MURs 3975 and 4002)
U.S. Term Limits
U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund

Dear Messrs. Dye and Northam:

By letters dated May 26, June 22, and September 8, 1994, the Federal Election Commission notified U.S. Term Limits ("your client") of MUR 3975 and its amendments alleging violations of certain sections of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("the Act"). By letter dated July 12, 1994, the Commission notified your client of the complaint in MUR 4002. Copies of those complaints and amendments were enclosed with such notifications.

Upon further review of the allegations contained in the complaint, and information supplied by your client, the Commission, on April 18, 1995, denied your client's request to dismiss MURs 3975 and 4002, and found that there is reason to believe that U.S. Term Limits and/or U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a), or, in the alternative, 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a) and (b), provisions of the Act. The Commission also found reason to believe that U.S. Term Limits and/or U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund violated 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a). The Factual and Legal Analysis, which formed a basis for the Commission's findings, is attached for your information. By same date, the Commission merged MUR 4002 into MUR 3975, and then renumbered this matter MUR 4203. Accordingly, from hereafter please refer to this matter exclusively as MUR 4203.

You may submit any factual or legal materials that you believe are relevant to the Commission's consideration of this matter. Statements should be submitted under oath. All responses to the enclosed Order and Subpoena to Produce Documents must be submitted to the General Counsel's Office within 30 days of your receipt of this letter. you wish to submit should accompany the response to the Order and Subpoena. In the absence of additional information, the Commission may find probable cause to believe that a violation has occurred and proceed with conciliation.

If your client is interested in pursuing pre-probable cause conciliation, you should so request in writing. See 11 C.F.R. § 111.18(d). Upon receipt of the request, the Office of the General Counsel will make recommendations to the Commission either proposing an agreement in settlement of the matter or recommending declining that pre-probable cause conciliation be pursued. The Office of the General Counsel may recommend that pre-probable cause conciliation not be entered into at this time so that it may complete its investigation of the matter. Further, the Commission will not entertain requests for pre-probable cause conciliation after briefs on probable cause have been mailed to the respondent.

Requests for extensions of time will not be routinely granted. Requests must be made in writing at least five days prior to the due date of the response and specific good cause must be demonstrated. In addition, the Office of the General Counsel ordinarily will not give extensions beyond 20 days.

This matter will remain confidential in accordance with 2 U.S.C. §§ 437g(a)(4)(B) and 437g(a)(12)(A), unless you notify the Commission in writing that you wish the investigation to be made public.

If you have any questions, please contact Xavier K. McDonnell, the attorney assigned to this matter, at (202) 219-3400.

Sincerely,

Danny L. McDonald

MUR 4203

RESPONDENTS: U.S. Term Limits
U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund

I. GENERATION OF MATTER

This matter was generated by complaints filed by the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee ("DCCC") and William White against U.S. Term Limits ("USTL") and U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund ("Fund") and by information ascertained by the Commission in the normal course of carrying out its supervisory responsibilities.

II. APPLICABLE LAW

The Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("FECA" or "Act"), and Commission regulations prohibit a corporation from using its general treasury funds to make contributions or expenditures in connection with federal elections. 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a); 11 C.F.R. § 114.2(b). Corporate expenditures that are not made in coordination with a candidate or political organization are prohibited if they "expressly advocate" the election or defeat of a clearly identified candidate. See Federal Election Commission v. Massachusetts Citizens for Life ("MCFL"), 479 U.S. 238 (1986).¹

1. In MCFL, the Court also exempted a narrow class of corporations from the prohibitions of Section 441b regarding independent expenditures. To qualify for the exemption, an incorporated entity must have three essential features: (1) it must be formed for the express purpose of promoting political ideas; (2) it must have no shareholders or persons affiliated so

In Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1 (1976) the Supreme Court provided some examples of speech that constitute "express advocacy," i.e., "vote for" or "elect." Id. at 44, n. 52. In MCFL, the Court found express advocacy in a newsletter that compared candidates' views on one particular issue, noting that the speech provided "in effect" an explicit directive and thus went "beyond issue advocacy to express electoral activity." Id. at 249. The Court stated that: "The fact that [the] message is marginally less direct than 'vote for Smith' does not change its essential nature." Id. Thus, magic words are not required for a finding of express advocacy.

In FEC v. Furgatch, 807 F.2d 857, 862-864 (9th Cir.) cert. denied, 484 U.S. 850 (1987), the Ninth Circuit held that a negative ad about Jimmy Carter placed three days before the general election saying "Don't Let him do it," expressly advocated his defeat. In reaching its decision, the Furgatch court noted that limiting a finding of express advocacy to speech that contained the "magic words" of Buckley would preserve the First Amendment right of unfettered expression only at the expense of eviscerating the Act. Furgatch, 807 F.2d at 863. The court reasoned that the Act could be easily circumvented by those who would craft communications directed to elect or defeat a clearly identified candidate without the "magic words." Id. Instead, the as to have a claim on assets or earnings; and (3) it must not be established by a business corporation or labor union and it must have a policy of not accepting contributions from such entities. MCFL, 479 U.S. at 264.

Ninth Circuit adopted a three-prong standard: the speech, when read as a whole and with limited reference to external events, must be susceptible of no other reasonable interpretation but as an exhortation to vote for or against a specific candidate; that it contain a clear plea for action; and that it be clear what action is advocated. Id. at 864.

Corporate expenditures that are made in coordination with a candidate constitute prohibited in-kind contributions regardless of whether they contain "express advocacy." The Commission's regulations define "made with the cooperation or with the prior consent of, or in consultation with, or at the request or suggestion of, a candidate" to mean any "arrangement, coordination, or direction by the candidate or his or her agent prior to the publication, distribution, display, or broadcast of the communication." 11 C.F.R. § 109.1(b)(4)(i).²

In a prior enforcement matter, the Commission found that a corporation violated Section 441b(a) by coordinating the timing and distribution of press conferences it had arranged with candidates who had signed its "voters' pledges." See Matter Under Review ("MUR") 2269. In Advisory Opinion ("AO") 1987-7 the

2. The Commission's regulations provide that there is a presumption that expenditures are coordinated if they are: (A) Based on information about the candidate's plans, projects, or needs provided to the expending person by the candidate, or by the candidate's agents, with a view toward having an expenditure made; or (B) Made by or through any person who is, or has been, authorized to raise or expend funds, who is or has been, an officer of an authorized committee, or who is, or has been, receiving any form of compensation or reimbursement from the candidate, the candidate's committee or agent. 11 C.F.R. §§ 109.1(b)(4)(i)(A), (B).

Commission ruled that a corporation would violate Section 441b(a) if it sent letters urging recipients to contact candidates in their district before election day, invoking the threat of defeat if they did not change their position on certain issues.

Under the Act, a political committee is defined as any committee, club, association, or other group of persons, including a corporation, which receives contributions aggregating in excess of $1,000 or makes expenditures in excess of $1,000 during a calendar year. 2 U.S.C. § 431(4). The Supreme Court has concluded that "[t]o fulfill the purposes of the Act [political committees] need only encompass organizations that are under the control of a candidate or the major purpose of which is the nomination or election of a candidate." Buckley, 424 U.S. at 79; MCFL, 479 U.S. at 252, n.6; see also AO 1994-25; Akins v. FEC, No. 92-1864 (D.D.C. March 30, 1994). Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 433(a) a political committee must file a statement of organization within ten days after becoming a political committee within the meaning of 2 U.S.C. § 431(4). The treasurer of each political committee must file disclosure reports in accordance with Section 434 of the Act. The Act requires that every person other than a political committee who makes independent expenditures in an aggregate amount or value in excess of $250 during a calendar year file a statement containing specific information, as set forth in 2 U.S.C. § 434(c).

The term "contribution" is defined in the Act to include any gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money or anything of value made by any person for the purpose of influencing any election for Federal office. 2 U.S.C. § 431(8)(A)(i). Similarly, the term "expenditure" includes any purchase, payment, distribution, loan, advance, deposit, or gift of money or anything of value made by any person for the purpose of influencing any election for Federal office. 2 U.S.C. § 431(9)(A)(i).

Communications that expressly advocate the election of clearly identified candidates must contain disclaimers as provided in Section 441d(a).

III. FACTUAL AND LEGAL ANALYSIS

A. Summary of Complaint and Responses

Complainants assert that USTL is a corporation making expenditures in violation of Section 441b. The complaint alternatively alleges that USTL is a "political committee" which has failed to register with the Commission and file disclosure reports. The complaint notes that USTL appears to be coordinating with candidates through its "voters' contract" program. Thus, the complaint alleges, even if USTL were exempt from the Section 441b prohibition under the MCFL exemption with respect to corporate independent expenditures, it has still violated the Act by making corporate contributions to candidates. The complaint and amendments focus on elections held in Oklahoma, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Idaho.

USTL identifies itself as a nonprofit tax exempt organization formed for the purpose of advocating the establishment of term limits for elected officials at all levels of government. USTL operates its voters' contract program on a nationwide basis. USTL does not deny that it is a corporation.

USTL's news release indicates that its efforts were paid for by USTL's Voter Education Fund. However, the Fund is not registered with the Commission and USTL does not provide any information about its Fund, or the source of the funds used to pay for the activities at issue in this matter.

USTL provides a general explanation of its activities. First, it created "voters' contracts" which it acknowledged were distributed to "every congressional candidate nationwide." Second, it created and aired radio advertisements indicating whether clearly identified candidates had signed its "voters' contracts." Third, USTL created and distributed mailings to voters in specific Congressional districts and/or states advising them as to whether the particular candidates signed the "voters' contract," and urging voters to contact such candidates. Fourth, USTL issued press releases indicating whether clearly identified candidates signed its voters' contracts.

USTL denies coordinating with candidates through its voters' contracts. It also contends that the mailings and radio advertisements which it distributed in conjunction with its voters' contract are constitutionally-protected issue discussion and do not "expressly advocate" the election or defeat of candidates. Therefore, USTL requests that the Commission dismiss this matter.

B. Analysis

(i) USTL's Voters' Contracts

USTL did not provide a copy of its initial letter to candidates or any of its voters' contracts. However, a copy of one voters' contract was provided by the complainant William White. The contract, in essence, provides that if the candidate is elected, he or she will take three specific measures in support of enacting or advancing Congressional term limits.

The complainant William White also provided a copy of a follow-up letter he had received from USTL. In that letter, USTL's Executive Director Paul Jacob states that signing the "voters' contract" would give the candidate the "opportunity to publicly declare" his support for term limits. Moreover, Mr. Jacob states that the corporation is "preparing to notify" "voters" of Mr. White's state and district that you "refuse to abide by the wishes of the people" by not signing and returning its "voters' contract." The letter goes on to say that if the candidate signed the contract, USTL would inform the public that he stands with the "will of the people." The letter encourages the candidate to call its "Congressional Director, Ron Nehring," at USTL's national offices if the candidate had any questions about the "voters' contract." A toll free number, a D.C. number and a FAX number were all provided on USTL's letter to this candidate.

Certain aspects of USTL's voters' contract efforts appear permissible. USTL was permitted to contact these candidates to determine their position on the issue of Congressional term limits, and to release information disclosing its "findings." See generally AO 1993-18, citing 11 C.F.R. §§ 114.4(b), (c) and (d). In addition, as USTL's states in its response, there is nothing in the FECA "which prohibits an organization from urging federal candidates to take a position on issues of the general public."

On the other hand, some aspects of USTL's voters' contracts raise questions. Although the extent of particular contacts between USTL and these candidates are unknown, this nationwide "voters' contract" program would appear to open the door for coordination. For example, in the follow-up letter provided, USTL encouraged a candidate to call its offices to discuss the voters' contract, and even provided a toll free number. It also warned this candidate that it would "notify" voters whether or not he signed its contract. Yet what is currently unclear is whether USTL informed candidates about the specifics of its campaign, i.e., radio ads, media advisories and direct mail. More importantly, it is unclear whether USTL may have agreed to run radio ads and/or direct mail campaigns on behalf of a candidate in exchange for a signature on its "voters' contracts." Any such activity would appear to constitute the making and acceptance of in-kind contributions regardless of whether the particular communications contained express advocacy. Similarly, it is unclear whether USTL may have arranged with candidates the timing or distribution of the release of its communications to voters. As noted, in MUR 2269 the Commission found that arranging the timing and distribution of press announcements constituted coordination. In sum, this activity by USTL appears directly targeted toward influencing federal elections and raises questions of coordination with the candidates' campaigns.

(ii) USTL's Radio Ads

The script for one of USTL's radio ads, aired in Oklahoma,

96043761944

Some things are clear.

Frank Lucas sides with the vast majority of us.

The other candidate, Dan Webber, sides with the career politicians and opposes term limits.

Lucas for term limits.

Webber opposed to term limits.

Help convince both candidates to support term limits.

Paid for by U.S. Term Limits.

A press report indicates that USTL ran a radio advertisement in Oklahoma in connection with a different election. That ad stated:

3. The Commission also considered whether this advertisement constitutes express advocacy but was unable to reach a conclusion by the required affirmative vote of four Commission members. See 2 U.S.C. § 437c(c).

for career Congressman-state question 662. And in Tuesday's Democratic runoff for Congress between Virgil Cooper and Mike Synar, the difference on term limits is clear. Cooper supports the people's initiative for term limits and has signed the term limits voter protection pledge. Synar opposes the people's initiative and refuses to sign. Cooper supports term limits. Synar opposes the people's initiative for term limits. Paid for by the U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund.

This ad references the specific election by day, it clearly identifies and compares the two opposing candidates and appears to have been aired in the days just prior to the election. Moreover, the ad suggests that listeners will be "able to vote for term limits," by voting for question 662 and then explicitly suggests that a vote for Mr. Cooper is also a vote for term limits. USTL's ad further states that a vote for Mr. Synar is a vote against term limits. When read as a whole, the ad is susceptible of no other reasonable interpretation but as an exhortation to vote for Cooper and against Synar. Furgatch, 807 F.2d at 864. It also contains a clear plea for action and it is clear what action is advocated: the ad exhorts voters to support term limits by voting for Mr. Cooper as well as question 662. Accordingly, it appears that this radio ad expressly advocated the election of Cooper and the defeat of Synar.

(iii) USTL's Mailings

USTL has not provided any copies of the mailings (or mailers) it sent to voters in particular districts. Yet it acknowledges that it distributed mailings advising recipients of the candidates' positions on term limits, and urging them to contact candidates and convince them to change their position if they had not signed its contract. The mailers also purportedly asked voters to contact candidates who signed its "voters' contract" to thank them.

It is unclear what USTL stated in these mailings, although it appears that they were targeted for people who would vote in particular elections. However, it appears that the mailings may be similar to those at issue in AO 1987-7. There, a corporation proposed sending letters urging recipients to contact candidates in their district before election day, invoking the threat of defeat if they did not change their position on certain issues. The Commission ruled that the proposed program in AO 1987-7 would violate Section 441b; See also USDC v. FEC 861 F.2d 765 (2d Cir. 1988) (court held that advisory opinions are not ripe for review). In sum, from the limited information at hand, it appears that USTL's mailings may have expressly advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates.

(iv) USTL's News Release

USTL's news release, dated May 4, 1994, is entitled "Frank Lucas Signs Voters' Contract/Webber Refuses to Support Term Limits." In that news release, Mr. Jacob of USTL is quoted as saying:

The voters of Oklahoma's sixth district have a clear choice.... They can vote for Frank Lucas, a true term limit supporter, or vote for a former congressional staffer dedicated to a career in Congress and opposed to term limits.... It is imperative that the voters know who will act on this crucial issue when they reach Washington, and who will join the incumbent politician club....Our polling shows that 78 percent of the registered voters in the sixth district want a constitutional amendment for term limits....If they want term limits, then they need to know that only Frank Lucas has taken a pro-term limit stand.

USTL's "news release" identified the two candidates and the district which they each hoped to represent. The opening sentence of the news release (not quoted above) even sets forth the date of the election (May 10, 1994). Moreover, the news release explicitly states that the voters will have a choice between Lucas and Webber. When read as a whole, the ad is susceptible of no other reasonable interpretation but as an exhortation to vote for Lucas and against Webber. Furgatch, 807 F.2d at 864. It also contains a clear plea for action and it is clear what action is advocated. Indeed, much of the script is about voting, and is devoted to informing voters that Lucas, not Webber, is the right candidate. It thus appears that the news release expressly advocates the election and defeat of "clearly identified candidates."

C. Consequences of USTL's Activities

As noted at the outset, the complainant DCCC set forth alternative theories regarding USTL's activities. First, it alleged that USTL made prohibited corporate expenditures and/or contributions. USTL is incorporated, and it has neither claimed nor shown that it is entitled to the MCFL exemption. Some of USTL's communications appear to expressly advocate the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates while others are federal election influencing. Moreover, there is some question as to whether USTL may have coordinated with candidates through its voters' contract program.

The information at hand also supports the DCCC's alternative allegation that USTL is operating a "political committee." In particular, it appears that one of USTL's primary methods of achieving its goal of imposing Congressional term limits is through direct intervention and involvement in federal elections, i.e., through its voters' contracts, election advertisements, press releases and mailings. In fact, USTL states that it sent its voters' contracts to every federal candidate nationwide. These efforts cost USTL at least $50,000. Thus, there is evidence suggesting that a "major purpose" of USTL is to influence federal elections, making it a "political committee." If so, it was required to register and report pursuant to 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a) and (b).

In light of the above, there is reason to believe that USTL and/or its Fund violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a), or in the alternative, 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a) and (b). In addition, as some of USTL's communications expressly advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates, but did not include appropriate Section 441d disclaimers, there is reason to believe that USTL and/or its Fund violated 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a).

U.S. Term Limits adopted a policy on January 1, 1994 of not accepting donations from corporations or labor organizations/labor unions.

7. Identify USTL's Voters' Education Fund ("USTLVEF"). Briefly describe the relationship, if any, between USTLVEF and USTL. If USTLVEF is a separate legal entity or organization, answer separately questions 1-6 above with respect to it.

Coburn (OK-2), Thom Holmes (OK-6), Frank Lucas (OK-6) and Ron Lewis (KY-2). See attachment 4.

6. Of the 1994 federal candidates who were provided with voters contracts, identify those with respect to whom USTL/USTLVEF expended funds on:

This question misunderstands the nature of our efforts. The question implies that funds were spent on or for an individual. This is incorrect. Funds were expended on the education of the general public regarding the term limits issue.

- a) the creation and airing of any radio/television advertisements containing the name and/or photograph of such candidate;

We created and aired radio advertisements in the Kentucky's 2nd district and in Oklahoma's 2nd district.

- b) the creation and release of any news releases containing the name and/or photograph of such candidate;

To the best of our recollection, we created and released news releases containing the names of all candidates in each of these three districts.

- c) the creation and distribution of any direct mail containing the name and/or photograph of such candidate.

We distributed direct mail in Oklahoma's 6th district.

7. With respect to each 1994 federal candidate, provide costs incurred by USTL/USTLVEF for:

- a) the creation and distribution of each voters' contract;

The cost of creating and distributing each Voter's Contract was be approximately $3.00 per Contract.

- b) the creation and distribution of all radio/television advertisements which contained the name or photograph of such candidate;

U.S. Term Limits did no television advertising in the three districts in question. The total cost of radio advertising in Oklahoma's 2nd district was $16,855.71; in Oklahoma's 6th district it was $7,228.10; and in Kentucky's 2nd district it was $10,678.44. See attachment 5.

- c) the creation and distribution of all news releases which contained the name or photograph of such candidate;

We cannot determine an exact cost, but it was not significant. Our best estimation, is that we spent no more than $50 in each of the three districts in question.

- d) the creation and distribution of all direct mail which contained the name or photograph of such candidate.

The cost for direct mail in Oklahoma's 6th district was $28,316.83.

8. Describe the criteria used by USTL/USTLVEF when determining when it would make communications which contained the name or photograph of any 1994 federal candidate.

Where there was a difference between individuals in their response to the Voters' Contract and resources were available

9. State the total amount of money expended by USTL/USTLVEF in 1994 on the voters contract program, including all advertisements, new releases and direct mail which contained the name or photograph of any 1994 federal candidate.

For the three congressional districts in question, the total amount of money expended did not exceed $63,247.08.

10. Identify each 1994 federal election in which USTL/USTLVEF conducted polls of voters. Provide the costs incurred with respect to each.

None.

Section C.

1. Identify all USTL/USTLVEF personnel, including officers, directors or agents, who communicated with federal candidates and/or their authorized committees, regarding the voters' contracts and/or any radio/television advertisements, news releases or direct mail which contained the name or photograph of any 1994 federal candidate.

Chris Downing, Paul Jacob, Charles Kalina, Matt Kaufman and Ron Nebring.

2. State the methods by which USTL/USTLVEF communicated with federal candidates and/or their authorized committees, regarding the voters' contracts and/or any radio/television advertisements, new releases or direct mail which contained the name or photograph of any 1994 federal candidate.

Telephone and mail.

3. State the methods by which USTL/USTLVEF ever communicated with federal candidates and/or their authorized committees regarding the content, timing or distribution of any radio/television advertisements, news releases, or direct mail which contained the name or photograph of any 1994 federal candidate.

USTL/USTLVEF did not communicate in this way.

If so:

- a) Identify each candidate or authorized committee with whom such communications occurred;
- b) Describe the substance of such communications;
- c) State whether any such communications occurred prior to the time of the airing, release or distribution of the particular advertisements, news releases or direct mail.
4. State whether USTL/USTLVEF provided any federal candidates and/or their authorized committees, with information or documents related to the content, timing or distribution of any advertisements, news release or direct mail which contained the name or photograph of any 1994 federal candidate.

USTL/USTLVEF provided no such information.

If so:

- a) State whether such information or documents were ever provided prior to the time such communications were aired, released or distributed;

b) Identify each candidate or candidate's committee to whom you provided such information/documents.

5. State whether USTL/USTLVEF has any policy regarding its contacts with federal candidates. If so, indicate specifically whether such policy limits or restricts the scope, extent, or substance of communications with such federal candidates and/or their authorized committees.

All communications with federal candidates were restricted to inquiry into the final decision on the part of the individual as to the Voters' Contract, and offers of factual information regarding the issue of term limits which could be of assistance in making a final decision.

U.S. Term Limits was well aware that career politicians repealed First Amendment protections of some political speech with the FECA amendments of 1974. We were also aware that although the pretext for that legislation to prevent "corruption or the appearance of corruption," its impact and likely intent has been to restrict the ability of challengers to run viable campaigns against incumbents. Because our activities are very upsetting to incumbents and the FECA was passed by and for incumbents, USTL has expected our political activities to be scrutinized. Accordingly, we have a policy of complying with the federal election laws, and have strictly avoided any contributions to federal candidates, and any coordination of our activities with any federal campaigns.

6. Provide a brief description of activities undertaken by USTL/USTLVEF other than its 1994 voters contracts with federal candidates and any advertisements, news releases and direct mail it created, aired or distributed which contained the name or photograph of any 1994 federal candidate.

Activities and expenditures outside of the Voters' Contract program do not fall under the scope of MUR 4203.

7. State the total amount of money expended by USTL/USTLVEF on the activities referred to in question (6) just above.

Activities and expenditures outside of the Voters' Contract program do not fall under the scope of MUR 4203.

8. Indicate whether USTL/USTLVEF has ever:

The registered agent shall be an individual resident of the District of Columbia or a corporation, whether for profit or not for profit, authorized to transact business in the District of Columbia. The address of the registered office may be changed from time to time.

Section 3. Other Offices. The Corporation may have such other office or offices, at such suitable place or places within or without the District of Columbia as the Board of Directors may from time to time determine or as the affairs of the Corporation may require from time to time.

PURPOSES

The Corporation is organized and shall be operated exclusively to accomplish the following charitable, educational and social welfare purposes, within the meaning of Section 501(c)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code:

1. To promote effective and efficient constitutional government through changes in the Congress of the United States;
2. To assist other similar organizations in the conduct of similar activities; and
3. To engage in any and all lawful activities incidental to the foregoing purposes except as restricted herein.

No part of the net earnings of the Corporation shall inure to the benefit of, or be distributable to, its directors, officers, other private individuals, or organizations organized and operating for profit (except that the Corporation shall be authorized and empowered to pay reasonable compensation for services rendered and to make payments and distributions in furtherance of the purposes as hereinabove stated). The Corporation shall not participate in or intervene in (including the publishing or distribution of statements) any political campaign on behalf of or in opposition to any candidate for public office, other than as may be permitted by an organization that is exempt from federal income taxation under section 501(a) of the Code by reason of being described in section 501(c)(4) of such Code.

To further the Corporation's objects and purposes, the Corporation shall have and shall exercise all the powers conferred by the provisions of Chapter 5 of Title 29 of the Code of the District of Columbia not without the scope of these Articles of Incorporation of the Corporation.

ARTICLE III

MEMBERSHIP

The Corporation shall have no members.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Section 1. Powers. There shall be a Board of Directors of the Corporation, which shall manage, supervise and control the business, property and affairs of the Corporation, except as otherwise expressly provided by law, the Articles of Incorporation of the Corporation, or these Bylaws. The Board of Directors shall be vested with the powers possessed by the Corporation itself, including the powers to determine the policies of the Corporation and prosecute its purposes, to appoint and remunerate agents and employees (including the power to delegate some or all of this authority), to establish the budget of the Corporation, to disburse the funds of the Corporation, and to adopt such rules and regulations for the conduct of its business as shall be deemed advisable. The Board of Directors shall elect one of its members, who may be an officer of the Corporation, to serve as Chairperson of the Board of Directors, for such term as the Board may determine.

Section 2. Number and Qualifications. The members of the initial Board of Directors of the Corporation shall be those individuals named in the Articles of Incorporation of the Corporation, and shall serve until their successors are elected and qualified. Thereafter, the Board of Directors shall be composed of at least three individuals, but may be increased beyond that number as the Board of Directors may determine.

Section 3. Election and Term of Office. The members of the Board of Directors shall be elected by the directors at the annual meeting of the Board of Directors. Each member of the Board of Directors of the Corporation shall serve for a term of one year or until their successors are elected. Directors may succeed themselves in office.

Section 4. Resignation. Any director may resign at any time by giving written notice to the President of the Corporation. Such resignation shall take effect at the time specified therein, or, if no time is specified, at the time of acceptance thereof as determined by the President of the Corporation.

Section 5. Removal. Any director may be removed from such office by a two-thirds vote of the directors at any regular or special meeting of the Board of Directors at which a quorum is present, for (1) violation of these Bylaws or (2) engaging in any other conduct prejudicial to the best interests of the Corporation. Such removal may occur only if the director involved is first provided (1) with adequate notice of the charges against him or her in the form of a statement of such charges and of the time and place of the meeting of the Board of Directors scheduled for the purpose of hearing or considering such action, sent by certified or registered mail to the last known address of such director, (2) an opportunity to appear before the Board of Directors or forward a written statement thereto in presentation of any defense of such charges, no sooner than thirty days after the sending of such notice, and (3) a written explanation as to (if such is the case) why such director is being removed from office. In these regards, the Board shall act on the basis of reasonable and consistent criteria, always with the objective of advancing the best interests of the Corporation.

Section 6. Vacancies. Vacancies shall be filled by majority vote of the remaining members of the Board of Directors for the unexpired term.

Section 7. Regular Meetings. A regular annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Corporation shall be held each year, at such time, day and place as shall be designated by the Board of Directors, for the purpose of transacting such business as may come before the meeting. The Board of Directors may, by resolution, provide for the holding of additional regular meetings.

Section 8. Special Meetings. Special meetings of the Board of Directors may be called at the direction of the President of the Corporation or by a majority of the voting directors then in office, to be held at such time, day and place as shall be designated in the notice of the meeting.

Section 9. Notice. Notice of the time, day and place of any meeting of the Board of Directors shall be given not less than ten nor more than sixty days previous thereto by notice sent by mail, messenger, telegram or telephone to each director at his or her address as shown by the records of the Corporation. The purpose or purposes for which a special meeting is called shall be stated in the notice thereof. Any director may waive notice of any meeting by a written statement executed either before or after the meeting. Attendance at a meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice thereof, except where attendance is for the express purpose of objecting to the call or convening of the meeting.

Section 10. Quorum. A majority of the directors shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at any meeting of the Board of Directors, except if less than a quorum of directors is present at such meeting, one-third of the directors present may adjourn the meeting from time to time without further notice.

Section 11. Manner of Acting. Except as otherwise expressly required by law, the Articles of Incorporation of the Corporation, or these Bylaws, the affirmative vote of a majority of the directors present at any meeting of the Board of Directors at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the Board of Directors. Each director shall have one vote. Voting by proxy shall not be permitted.

Section 12. Written Consent. Action taken by the Board of Directors without a meeting is nevertheless Board action if written consent to the action in question is signed by all of the directors and filed with the minutes of the proceedings of the Board, whether done before or after the action so taken.

Section 13. Telephone Meeting. Any one or more directors may participate in a meeting of the Board of Directors by means of a conference telephone or similar telecommunications device, which allows all persons participating in the meeting to hear each other and such participation in a meeting shall be deemed presence in person at such meeting.

Section 14. Compensation. No director shall receive any compensation for services rendered in such capacity, except that the Board may by resolution provide for the reimbursement of actual travel and lodging expenses incurred in the performance of the duties of the director to the extent provided by such resolution; however, nothing herein shall be construed to preclude any Director from serving the Corporation in any other capacity and receiving reasonable compensation therefor.

ARTICLE V

OFFICERS

Section 1. Officers. The officers of the Corporation shall consist of a President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer. The Corporation may have such other officers and assistant officers as the Board of Directors may from time to time deem necessary, such officers to have the authority and to perform the duties prescribed from time to time by the Board of Directors. One person may hold more than one office, other than the offices of President and Secretary.

Section 2. Election of Officers. The officers of the Corporation shall be elected by the members of the Board of Directors at the annual meeting of the Board of Directors.

Section 3. Term of Office. The officers of the Corporation shall be installed at the annual meeting at which they are elected and shall hold office for one year until the next appropriate annual meeting or until their respective successors shall have been duly elected and qualified.

Section 5. Removal. Any officer may be removed by the Board of Directors at any regular or special meeting of the Board at which a quorum is present, whenever in its judgment the best interests of the Corporation would be served thereby, but, such removal will be without prejudice to the contract rights, if any, of the officer so removed.

Section 6. Vacancies. A vacancy in any office because of death, resignation, removal, disqualification, or otherwise, shall be filled by the Board of Directors for the unexpired term.

Section 7. President. The President shall be the chief executive officer of the Corporation and, subject to the overall guidance and supervision of the Board of Directors, give active direction and control of the business and affairs of the Corporation. He or she may sign, with the Secretary or any other proper officer of the Corporation authorized by the Board of Directors, any deeds, mortgages, bonds, contracts, or other instruments which the Board of Directors has authorized to be executed, except in cases where the signing and execution thereof shall be expressly delegated by the Board of Directors or by these Bylaws or by statute to some other officer or agent of the Corporation; and in general, he or she shall perform all duties incident to the office of President and such other duties as may be prescribed by the Board of Directors from time to time.

Section 8. Secretary. The Secretary shall keep the minutes of the meetings of the Board of Directors in one or more books provided for that purpose; see that all notices are duly given in accordance with the provisions of these Bylaws or as required by law; be custodian of the corporate records and of the seal, if any, of the Corporation and see that the seal, if any, of the Corporation is affixed to all documents, the execution of which on behalf of the Corporation under its seal, if any, is duly authorized in accordance with the provisions of these Bylaws; and in general perform all duties incident to the office of Secretary and such other duties as from time to time may be assigned by the President or by the Board of Directors.

Section 9. Treasurer. The Treasurer shall have charge and custody of and be responsible for all funds and securities of the Corporation; receive and give receipts for moneys due and payable to the Corporation from any source whatsoever, and deposit all such moneys in the name of the Corporation in such banks, trust companies or other depositories as shall be selected in accordance with the provisions of Article VIII of these Bylaws; and in general perform all the duties incident to the office of Treasurer and such other duties as from time to time may be assigned to him or her by the President or by the Board of Directors.

Section 10. Bonding. If requested by the Board of Directors, any person entrusted with the handling of funds or valuable property of the Corporation shall furnish, at the expense of the Corporation, a fidelity bond, approved by the Board of Directors in such sum as the Board shall prescribe.

Section 11. Compensation. The Corporation may pay compensation in reasonable amounts to officers for services rendered, such amounts to be determined by a majority of the entire Board of Directors.

COMMITTEES

9 6 0 4 3 7 6 2 0 0 8
Section 1. Committees of Directors. The Board of Directors, by resolution adopted by a majority of the directors in office, may designate and appoint one or more committees, each consisting of two or more directors, which committees, to the extent provided in said resolution, shall have and exercise the authority of the Board of Directors in the management of the Corporation; provided, however, that no such committee shall have the authority of the Board of Directors in reference to amending, altering or repealing these Bylaws; electing, appointing or removing any member of any such committee or any director or officer of the Corporation; amending the Articles of Incorporation of the Corporation; adopting a plan of merger or adopting a plan of consolidation with another corporation; authorizing the sale, lease, exchange or mortgage of all or substantially all of the property and assets of the Corporation; authorizing the voluntary dissolution of the Corporation or revoking proceedings therefor; adopting a plan for the distribution of the assets of the Corporation; or amending, altering or repealing any resolution of the Board of Directors which by its terms provides that it shall not be amended, altered or repealed by such committee. The designation and appointment of any such committee and the delegation thereto of authority shall not operate to relieve the Board of Directors, or any individual director, of any responsibility imposed upon the Board or the director by law.

Section 2. Other Committees. The Board of Directors may create and appoint members to such committees as they shall from time to time deem appropriate, such committees to have the power and duties designated by the Board of Directors; provided that no such committee, which has members who are not directors, shall have and exercise the authority of the Board of Directors in the management of the Corporation.

Section 3. Term of Office. Each member of a committee shall continue as such until the next annual meeting of the Board of Directors and until a successor is appointed, unless the committee shall be sooner terminated, or unless such member be removed from such committee, or unless such member shall cease to qualify as a member thereof.

Section 4. Vacancies. Vacancies in the membership of committees may be filled by appointments made in the same manner as provided in the case of the original appointments.

Section 5. Quorum. Unless otherwise provided in the resolution of the Board of Directors designating a committee, a majority of the whole committee shall constitute a quorum and the act of a majority of the members present at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the committee.

Section 6. Rules. Each committee may adopt rules for its own governance not inconsistent with these Bylaws or with rules adopted by the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE VII

CONTRACTS, CHECKS, DEPOSITS AND FUNDS

Section 1. Contracts. The Board of Directors may authorize any officer or officers, agent or agents of the Corporation, in addition to the officers so authorized by these Bylaws, to enter into any contract or execute and deliver any instrument in the name of it and on behalf of the Corporation, and such authority may be general or confined to specific instances.

Section 2. Checks, Drafts, etc. All checks, drafts or orders for the payment of money, notes or other evidences of indebtedness issued in the name of the Corporation, shall be signed by such officer or officers, agent or agents of the Corporation and in such manner as shall from time to time be determined by resolution of the Board of Directors. In the absence of such determination by the Board of Directors, such instruments shall be signed by the Treasurer or an Assistant Treasurer and countersigned by the President or a Vice President of the Corporation.

Section 3. Deposits. All funds of the Corporation shall be deposited from time to time to the credit of the Corporation in such banks, trust companies or other depositaries as the Board of Directors may select.

Such notice shall be deemed to have been given when deposited in the United States mail or delivered to the express delivery service. Notice may also be given by telegram, telex, facsimile, or telephone, and will be deemed given when received, if followed by a writing mailed on the same day or the next day.

RE: MUR 4203

Voter Education Fund

Dear Mr. Northam:

This letter is in reference to your clients' responses to the Commission's Order and Subpoena to Produce Documents in MUR 4203, which was received by this Office on July 6, 1995 after a 30 day extension. Those responses are deficient in several critical areas.

You indicate that your clients' response is "based solely" on USTL's activities in three specific election districts. These appear to be the election districts noted in one of the two complaints in this matter and the initial amendment to that complaint. You state that information about the other districts in which your clients may have undertaken such activities is "completely beyond the scope of these complaints." Accordingly, the answers to questions #5, #6, #7, and #9 in Section B relate only to those three election districts. Moreover, your clients have completely failed to answer questions #6 and #7 in Section C, on the grounds that "activities and expenditures outside of the Voters' Contract program do not fall under the scope of MUR 4203." In addition, it appears that the other responses to the questions in Sections B & C are also restricted to those three election districts. Furthermore, your clients' document production appears to be similarly restricted, and their response may not adhere to the Subpoenas request for: "all documents and records" pertaining to USTL's "contacts with candidates and its voters' contract efforts, including but not limited to" those set forth in subsections (a) through (i) (emphasis added).

A subpoena and order issued by an administrative agency will be enforced so long as it is within the authority of the agency, has been issued for a proper purpose, the information sought is relevant to that purpose, the agency's demand is reasonable and the statutory procedures are observed. United States v. Powell, 379 U.S. 48, 57-58 (1964). Moreover, administrative investigations are not to be "equated with the more constrained operations of judicial process." Federal Election Commission v. Lance, 617 F.2d 365, 369 (5th Cir. 1980), quoting United States v. Morton Salt, 338 U.S. 632, 652 (1950). "When investigative and accusatory duties are delegated by statute to an administrative body, it... may take steps to inform itself as to whether there is a probable violation of law." Id. As long as the information sought by a subpoena is "reasonably relevant" to the purpose of the investigation, it will be enforced. Id.

Although USTL has limited its responses to voters' contract activity in just three districts, in its response to the complaints in this matter it acknowledged engaging in voters' contracts on a "nationwide" basis. In addition, it was alleged that USTL constitutes a political committee" under the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended. Based upon the complaints, your responses and other information ascertained by the Commission in the normal course of carrying out its supervisory duties, the Commission made its findings and began an investigation in this matter. See 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(2). The information sought is well within the scope of that investigation, which involves USTL's voters' contracts and its potential status as a "political committee."

Your clients' responses are also deficient in the identification of persons. We refer you to the definitions section accompanying the Subpoena and Order. The term "identify" with respect to a natural person requires you to state the full name, the most recent business and residence addresses and telephone numbers, the occupation/position and Social Security Number of such person, and the connection or association that the person has to any party in the proceeding. Accordingly, please submit such information as requested by the questions in Section A #3, Section B #1 through #3 and Section C #1.

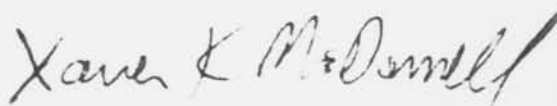

You have indicated that since January 1, 1994, USTL has adopted a policy of not accepting donations from corporations or labor unions. Please note, however, that the discovery requests cover the time frame from January 1, 1993 to present. With that in mind, please complete your answers to the questions in Section A, #4 through #6.

Frank M. Northam, Esquire

USTL's response to question #10 in Section B indicates that it did not conduct polls of voters. In light of that answer please explain the following quote from Paul Jacob which was set forth in USTL's News Release of May 4, 1994: "Our polling shows that 78 percent of the registered voters in the sixth district want a constitutional amendment for term limits."

In sum, to comply with the Commission's Subpoena and Order, your clients must completely answer and/or clarify their answers to all the questions discussed above. In addition, your clients must produce all responsive documents within their possession, including any retrievable from your clients' computers. In light of the circumstances, this Office shall grant your clients seven days to fully comply. If you have any questions, please contact me at (202) 219-3400.

GENERAL COUNSEL'S REPORT

By letter dated May 1, 1995, U.S. Term Limits and U.S. Term Limits Voter Education Fund ("Respondents") were notified that the Commission found reason to believe that they violated the statute with respect to their voters' contracts and related activities. By same date, Respondents were provided with a Subpoena to Produce Documents and an Order to Submit Written Answers. On July 6, 1995, after a 30 day extension, responses to the Commission's discovery requests were submitted. Upon reviewing such responses, they appeared incomplete. Accordingly, this Office sent a follow-up letter seeking the additional information. By letter dated July 25, 1995, Respondents agreed to comply by August 15, 1995. Once all the responses and documents have been received, reviewed and analyzed, this Office shall make the appropriate recommendations.¹

1. Also on May 1, 1995, discovery was sent to the respondents in the companion case of MUR 4204 which involves Americans for Tax Reform. Although some limited information was lacking in those responses as well, no extension of time has been requested and thus we expect to receive complete answers to the discovery responses by July 31, 1995.

Dear «FSal» «LName»,

As a candidate for Congress, you will be faced with countless issues of public concern. None, however, has the depth of public support enjoyed by the term limits movement.

In every state where term limits have been placed on the ballot, the people have endorsed this vital reform by margins averaging 66 percent; 15 states have now enacted term limit proposals and more are expected to do so in 1994.

In order to let the voters know where candidates for public office truly stand on this crucial issue, U.S. Term Limits is offering you and all other candidates for Congress the opportunity to firmly state your position by signing the enclosed Voters' Contract.

The Voters' Contract is your pledge to, if elected, seek true term limits legislation in Congress. U.S. Term Limits will notify the public of who has agreed to stand with the will of the people by signing the Contract; and, of those who refuse to abide by the wishes of the people by declining to sign.

In order to make certain that U.S. Term Limits has ample time to communicate the results, I must ask that you send your signed Voters' Contract to me no later than April 29, 1994. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at our national offices.

The public frustration with Congress is real. You have an opportunity to start rebuilding trust in our government by accepting and advocating the will of the people. Please sign and return the Voters' Contract as soon as possible.

Best regards,

Paul Jacob
Executive Director

Dear «FSal» «LName»:

Please accept my apologies if our letters have crossed in the mail, but I recently sent to you a copy of the Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress, giving you the opportunity to publicly declare your support for real term limits for the U.S. Congress.

As of this morning, I have not yet received your Contract.

The Voters' Contract is your pledge to, if elected, seek true term limits legislation in Congress. U.S. Term Limits is preparing to notify the voters of your state of who has agreed to stand with the will of the people by signing the Contract; and, of those who refuse to abide by the wishes of the people by declining to sign.

So, as you can see, it is important that I receive your Contract right away.

I have enclosed another copy of the Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress. I hope you will choose to sign this contract with the voters of your district. If you have any questions regarding the Contract, please contact my Congressional Director, Ron Nehring, at our national offices.

The people want to see a return to a citizen Congress through term limits. I am looking forward to informing the voters of your district that you side with them on this important issue.

Sincerely,

Paul Jacob
Executive Director

Dear «FSal» «LName»:

We have received a copy of your Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress. However, the contract was altered. While it is good to know you support term limits in some form, it is crucial that elected officials support the kind of term limits that the American public supports and that will lead to a truly citizen Congress.

Limits of three terms (six years) in the U.S. House will ensure an end to the seniority system. Furthermore, shorter limits will better reduce corruption, replace the career mentality with an ethic of public service, and, because with six-year limits an open seat is never too far off the horizon, elections will be dramatically more competitive.

Of the 23 states that have either passed term-limit initiatives or are working to put an initiative on the ballot, 16 of them (or better than 2/3rds) have limits of three terms in the U.S. House. Numerous state polls and national voter surveys have been taken and every single one has shown a super majority supporting terms of six years or less. A plurality of voters supports two terms (or four years) for a U.S. House limit and six terms (or 12 years) has never received better than single digit support. The voters instinctively understand that three terms in the U.S. House will best ensure that a citizen Congress will result.

I have enclosed another copy of the Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress. I hope you will choose to sign this contract with the voters of your district. While you may prefer different limits, the question we are asking is will you join the national grassroots movement dedicated to restoring a citizen Congress? We hope you will.

Sincerely,

Paul Jacob
Executive Director

Iowa term limits supporters sign pledge to support constitutional amendment limiting congressional terms

WASHINGTON, DC -- Citing the need for voters to know where their congressional candidates stand on term limits, U.S. Term Limits today announced which Iowa candidates have signed a pledge to support a constitutional amendment limiting congressional service.

Signers of the Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress commit themselves to sponsoring or co-sponsoring legislation limiting House members to three terms and Senators to two.

"These candidates have made a firm commitment to the people of Iowa. If elected, they will work to reclaim citizen control of Congress through term limits," said Ron Nehring, who directs congressional efforts for the national group.

Two Iowa congressional candidates, both Republicans, have signed the Voters' Contract: Rep. Jim Lightfoot (3rd District) and Greg Ganske (4th District).

Mr. Ganske and Rep. Lightfoot have also signed the Voter Protection Pledge, stating that they will oppose any attempt by Congress to overturn term limits passed by state ballot initiatives across the country. Two other candidates have also signed the Voter Protection Pledge; Elaine Baxter, Democratic candidate in the 3rd District, and Tom Latham, Republican candidate in the 5th District.

Nationally, over 200 candidates have signed one or both pledges, which are distributed as part of U.S. Term Limits' campaign to raise the profile of the term limits issue and to inform voters where their candidates stand on term limits.

A recent poll by the Luntz Research Companies showed 75% of Americans support term limits, with almost 50% "strongly" supporting the reform measure. Of term limits supporters, 82% favor the three-term limit advocated by U.S. Term Limits and endorsed by Mr. Ganske and Rep. Lightfoot.

To date, voters in 16 states have passed term limits initiatives, while voters in six more states will vote on similar measures next week. For more information, or to arrange an interview with a term limits leader, contact Theresa Caldwell at 202-393-6440.

Arkansas term limits supporters sign pledge to support constitutional amendment limiting congressional terms

WASHINGTON, DC -- Citing the need for voters to know where their congressional candidates stand on term limits, U.S. Term Limits today announced which Arkansas candidates have signed a pledge to support a constitutional amendment limiting congressional service.

Signers of the Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress commit themselves to sponsoring or co-sponsoring legislation limiting House members to three terms and Senators to two, the same limits imposed on Arkansas' congressional delegation by ballot initiative in 1992.

"These candidates have made a firm commitment to the people of Arkansas. If elected, they will work to reclaim citizen control of Congress through term limits," said Ron Nehring, who directs congressional efforts for the national group.

Three Arkansas candidates have signed the Contract:

2nd District: Bill Powell (R)

3rd District: Hon. Tim Hutchinson (R)

4th District: Hon. Jay Dickey (R)

Mr. Powell and Rep. Hutchinson have also signed the Arkansas Voter Protection Pledge, stating that they will oppose any attempt by Congress to overturn the term limits on federal officeholders overwhelmingly supported by Arkansas voters on the 1992 ballot.

"Significantly, Mr. Powell's opponent, Rep. Ray Thornton, is among those leading the charge against term limits and against the stated desire of Arkansas voters for real term limits," Nehring noted. On November 29th, the Supreme Court will hear the case U.S. Term Limits vs. Thornton. The Clinton administration will be using government attorneys to argue against the term limits ballot initiative passed overwhelmingly by Arkansas voters in 1992.

Arizona term limits supporters sign pledge to oppose federal efforts to overturn state term limits initiative

WASHINGTON, DC -- Citing the need for Arizona voters to know where their congressional candidates stand on term limits, U.S. Term Limits today announced which Arizona congressional candidates have signed a pledge to oppose federal efforts to overturn Arizona's term limit initiative passed in 1992.

Signers of the Voter Protection Pledge state that they will oppose any effort by Congress to weaken or overturn term limits initiatives passed in the states. Although 16 states have passed term limits and six more are voting on term limits next week, the Supreme Court will be considering the constitutionality of these initiatives when it hears U.S. Term Limits vs. Thornton on November 29th.

"The Clinton administration is using taxpayer-funded attorneys to argue against the will of the people in court, and plenty of incumbents in Congress see nothing wrong with that," argues Ron Nehring, Director of Congressional Affairs for the group. "But these candidates have made a firm commitment to the people of Arizona that they will support the will of the people against the career politicians."

The following candidates have signed the Arizona Voter Protection Pledge:

1st District: Chuck Blanchard (D) and Matt Salmon (R)
3rd District: Howard Sprague (D)
4th District: Carol Cure (D) and Mark Yannone (Libertarian)
U.S. Senate: Sam Coppersmith (D) and Scott Grainger (Libertarian)

Ms. Cure, in addition, amended the pledge to state that she would work to extend Arizona's term limits to all members of Congress.

Democrat Tony Smith signs pledge to support constitutional amendment limiting congressional terms

WASHINGTON, DC -- Citing the need for voters to know where their congressional candidates stand on term limits, U.S. Term Limits today announced that Democrat Tony Smith is the only Alaska congressional candidate to pledge to support a constitutional amendment limiting Congressional service.

Signers of the Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress commit themselves to sponsoring or co-sponsoring legislation limiting House members to three terms and Senators to two, the same limits as proposed in a statewide referendum on this year's ballot.

"Tony Smith has made a firm commitment to the people of Nebraska. If elected, he will work to reclaim citizen control of Congress through term limits, and that is a commitment to which we will hold him accountable," said Ron Nehring, who directs congressional efforts for the national group.

"Unfortunately, Rep. Don Young has chosen to side with the career politicians in Washington instead of with the people of Alaska," Nehring added. "We encourage him to reconsider his position and to support the demand of the people for real term limits."

Mr. Smith has also signed the Maine Voter Protection Pledge, stating that he will oppose any attempt by Congress to overturn term limits passed by the states, including the term limits measure on the ballot in Alaska. The Clinton administration is using government attorneys to argue against term limits in the Supreme Court later this month, and a majority in Congress voted against a measure opposing the use of taxpayer funds to fight term limits.

To date, voters in 16 states have passed term limits initiatives, while voters in six states, including Maine, will vote on similar measures next week. For more information, or to arrange an interview with a term limits leader, contact Theresa Caldwell at 202-393-6440.

BOWLING GREEN, KY -- Citing the need for voters in Kentucky to know which candidate for Congress are pushing for real congressional reform, a spokesman for U.S. Term Limits today named Congressman Ron Lewis "a term limits hero" and an emerging leader in the term limits movement.

"Ron Lewis has emerged as a leader in the fight to restore Congress as a citizen legislature," according to Ron Nehring, Director of Congressional Affairs for the national term limits organization. Nehring is in Kentucky today to draw attention to the differing stands Lewis and his Democratic opponent, Dave Adkisson, have taken on the term limits issue.

He made a commitment to his constituents that he would support real term limits, and once in Congress he was true to his word," Nehring says. "Many politicians give lip service to term limits, but Congressman Lewis proved his commitment by co-sponsoring legislation to create a Constitutional amendment for real term limits."

Dave Adkisson, on the other hand, has consistently refused to side with the people of Kentucky in their desire to restore a citizen Congress. We can only encourage Mr. Adkisson to recognize the will of the people, and drop his opposition to term limits," Nehring said.

Lewis has signed U.S. Term Limits' "Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress," pledging that he will work for a Constitutional Amendment limiting Congressional service to three terms in the House of Representatives, and two terms in the Senate. The Contract is part of a national effort by U.S. Term Limits to identify which candidates support real term limits, and to inform voters where candidates stand on the issue.

"Term limits is proving to be an extremely important issue for voters. They want to know that their elected officials not only support true term limits and the restoration of citizen government, but that they will follow through and aggressively represent those views in Congress," Nehring adds. "This is precisely what Ron Lewis has done."

To date, voters in 16 states have approved term limits initiatives for their Congressional delegations, and six more will vote on term limits next week. Almost all of these states have voted for the same term limits backed by Congressman Lewis: three terms in the House, two in the Senate.

A recent poll by the Luntz Research Companies showed over 75% of Americans support term limits with almost 50% "strongly" supportive. Of term limits supporters, 82% favored a three-term limit for members of the House of Representatives.

Voters Have "Clear Choice" Among 8th District Congressional Candidates

Chrysler pledges to back term limits; encourages Mitchell to drop opposition

WASHINGTON, D.C.-- Voters in Michigan's 8th Congressional District have a clear choice when it comes to which candidate supports term limits, a U.S. Term Limits spokesman said today.

"Dick Chrysler has taken a rock-solid position in favor of term limits," said Ron Nehring, who directs Congressional activity for the national term-limits organization. Dick Chrysler has pledged to support the will of the people for real term limits, and I encourage his opponent, Bob Mitchell, to do the same."

Chrysler has signed U.S. Term Limit's Voters Contract for a Ciziten Congress, pledging to support a Constitutional ammendment to limit House members to three two-year terms, and Senators to two six-year terms. He has also signed the group's Voter Protection Pledge, stating that he will oppose any attempt by Congress to weaken or overturn Michigan's term limits initiative.

In 1992, Michigan voters overwhelmingly approved a ballot initiative imposing a three-term House and two-term Senate limit. The initiative also called on the state's Congressional delegation to back a Constitutional amendment creating nationwide term limits. "Dick Chrysler has pledged to heed that call," Nehring said. "Most members of the Congressional delegation, with the important exception of Rep. Nick Smith, have done nothing to support the will of the people of Michigan."

According to a recent poll by the Luntz Research Companies, 75% of Americans support limiting the number of terms members of Congress can serve, while only 16% oppose term limits. Half of those polled "strongly support" term limits, while only 6% "strongly oppose" them. Of those supporting term limits, 82% favor a three-term limit for House members.

Nationally, over 200 Congressional candidates have signed the Voter's Contract, including Michigan Senate candidate Spence Abraham.

To date, voters in 16 states have approved measures limiting the terms of their federal representatives, and six more states are scheduled to vote on the measure this year. For more information, or to arrange an interview with a term limits leader, call Theresa Caldwell.

Voters Have "Clear Choice" Among 9th District Congressional Candidates

O'Neill pledges to back term limits; Kildee encouraged to drop opposition

WASHINGTON, D.C.— Voters in Michigan's 9th Congressional District have a clear choice when it comes to which candidate supports term limits, a U.S. Term Limits spokesman said today.

"Megan O'Neill has taken a rock-solid position in favor of term limits," said Ron Nehring, who directs Congressional activity for the national term-limits group. "She's made a commitment to support the term limits Michigan voters approved overwhelmingly in 1992, and she's pledged to work to enact real term limits at the national level."

O'Neill has signed the "Voters Contract for a Citizen Congress," pledging to back a constitutional amendment limiting House members to three two-year terms, and Senate members to two six-year terms. She has also signed the group's "Voter Protection Pledge," stating that she will oppose any attempt by Congress to weaken or overturn Michigan's term limits initiative.

"By contrast, Rep. Dale Kildee has done nothing to answer the demand for real term limits voiced by the people of Michigan," Nehring said. "He's been among the career politicians on Capitol Hill who have made it clear they never want a term limits bill to see the light of day." Nehring expressed the hope that Rep. Kildee "will change his position and side with the people, not the incumbent politicians in Congress."

In 1992, Michigan voters overwhelmingly approved a ballot initiative imposing a three-term limit for Representatives and a two-term limits for Senators. The initiative also called on the state's Congressional delegation to back a Constitutional amendment creating nationwide term limits.

A similar contrast, Nehring notes, can be seen between the candidates vying to replace retiring U.S. Senator Don Riegle. Republican candidate Spence Abraham has also signed the Voter's Contract and the Voter Protection Pledge. Bob Carr, his opponent, has refused to support the term limits passed in 1992.

According to a recent poll by the Luntz Research Companies, 75% of Americans support limiting the number of terms members of Congress can serve, while only 16% oppose term limits. Half of those polled "strongly support" term limits, while only 6% "strongly oppose" them. Of those supporting term limits, 82% favor a three-term limit for House members. Nationally, over 200 Congressional candidates have signed the Voter's Contract.

Voters Have "Clear Choice" Among 12th District Congressional Candidates

Pappageorge pledges to back term limits; group encourages Levin to drop opposition

WASHINGTON, D.C.— Voters in Michigan's 12th Congressional District have a clear choice when it comes to which candidate supports term limits, a U.S. Term Limits spokesman said today.

"John Pappageorge has taken a rock-solid position in favor of term limits," said Ron Nehring, who directs Congressional activity for the national term-limits organization. "John Papageorge has pledged to support the will of the people for real term limits, and I encourage his opponent, Congressman Sander Levin, to do the same."

Papageorge has signed U.S. Term Limit's Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress, pledging to support a Constitutional amendment to limit House members to three two-year terms, and Senators to two six-year terms. He has also signed the group's Voter Protection Pledge, stating that he will oppose any attempt by Congress to weaken or overturn Michigan's term limit law.

In 1992, Michigan voters overwhelmingly approved a ballot initiative imposing a three-term House and two-term Senate limit. The initiative also called on the state's Congressional delegation to back a Constitutional amendment creating nationwide term limits. "John Pappageorge has pledged to heed that call," Nehring said. "Sander Levin and the rest of Michigan's Congressional delegation, with the important exception of Rep. Nick Smith, have done nothing to support the will of the people of Michigan."

According to a recent poll by the Luntz Research Companies, 75% of Americans support limiting the number of terms members of Congress can serve, while only 16% oppose term limits. Half of those polled "strongly support" term limits, while only 6% "strongly oppose" them. Of those supporting term limits, 82% favor a three-term limit for House members.

Washington term limits supporters sign pledge to support constitutional amendment limiting congressional terms

WASHINGTON, DC -- Citing the need for Washington voters to know where their congressional candidates stand on term limits, U.S. Term Limits today announced which Washington congressional candidates have signed a pledge to support a constitutional amendment limiting congressional service.

Signers of the Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress commit themselves to sponsoring or co-sponsoring legislation limiting House members to three terms and Senators to two.

"These candidates have made a firm commitment to the people of Washington. If elected, they will work to reclaim citizen control of Congress through term limits," said Ron Nehring, who directs congressional efforts for the national group.

The following candidates have signed the Contract:

2nd District: Jack Metcalf (R)
3rd District: Linda Smith (R)
5th District: George Nethercutt (R)
9th District: Randy Tate (R)
U.S. Senate: Ted Haley (I) and David Schirle (I)

All except Mr. Nethercutt have also signed the U.S. Term Limits Voter Protection Pledge, pledging their opposition to any congressional effort to overturn Washington's 1992 ballot initiative in support of term limits. Republican candidates Randy Tate (7th District) and Slade Gorton (U.S. Senate) have also signed the Voter Protection Pledge.

"The issue of federal attempts to alter state term limits laws is particularly important in Washington, where Speaker of the House Tom Foley is suing his own constituents to overturn the 192 initiative," Nehring says. "Congressman Foley and a number of others have supported the Clinton administration's use of taxpayer-funded attorneys to argue against the will of the people."

Nationally, more than two hundred congressional candidates have signed the pledges, which are distributed as part of a nationwide effort to make federal term limits an issue in every congressional race in the country. To date, voters in 16 states have passed term limits initiatives, while voters in six more states will vote on similar measures next week. Nationally, over 200 candidates have signed one or both pledges, which are distributed as part of U.S. Term Limits' campaign to raise the profile of the term limits issue and to inform voters where their candidates stand on term limits.

reform measure. Of term limits supporters, 82% favor a three-term limit for the House.

Jones seeks resolution support

By Stuart Savage
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

A Republican candidate for Congress called Monday for North Carolina's Democratic congressmen to join GOP lawmakers in supporting a resolution asking that transcripts and documents related to the investigation of the House Post Office be made public.

Walter Jones Jr., a Republican candidate for the state's 3rd Congressional District seat now held by Democrat Martin Lancaster, said Monday that "people should know what went on," with the House Post Office.

"I'm calling on North Carolina's representatives to support the resolution for an investigation," he said.

Jones said Republicans Scott Klug of Wisconsin, John Boehner of Ohio and others plan to introduce a resolution in the House in the next week or so calling for the disclosure.

U.S. Rep. Dan Rostenkowski

WALTER JONES
Seeks investigation

(D-Mich.) has been indicted on criminal charges in connection with the post office scandal. Three previous efforts to open an investigation of the House Post Office have been defeated by Democrats.

"Public trust is at such a low ebb that Congress must do what it can to improve its image," Jones said. Disclosure of all the information regarding the House Post Office investigation would be "a good start," he said.

"As a taxpayer, I think there are too many people in Washington that forget it's our government," Jones said. "We, the people, are the government. They have a responsibility to us. We believe that the U.S. House has a responsibility ... that Congress has to set the example as to ethics. If Congress will not police itself, who's going to do it?"

According to Jones, a former Democrat and for 10 years a member of the N.C. House of Representatives, "openness is what makes a Democracy what it is. Democracy is strong because of participation and openness. It's wrong to take away the rights of the people to know. Our concern is that there may be more people involved that just Rostenkowski," Jones said, "I would urge all all Congressmen from North Carolina to support the resolution. I'm asking them to do so."

"The proposed resolution is a serious effort to open the door on what could be a serious scandal. It's not a partisan issue," Jones said. "It's a good government issue, a people's issue. The House has an obligation to the citizens."

Jones, who pushed for reform when he was a state lawmaker, said he will "come out with a reform agenda" before the general election in November.

POSITION PAPER TERM LIMITS

BOB COMER, Democratic candidate for Congress in the North Carolina Fifth District, strongly favors term limits for members of the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate.

Comer believes that term limits would improve the efficiency of legislative bodies by reducing the influence of long term committee chairmen who, under the seniority system, hold legislative initiatives hostage for personal or partisan political gains.

"Without term limits, newly elected legislators who bring voter-mandated, fresh ideas to Washington cannot effectively pursue their initiatives because long term committee chairmen bury the bills in committee, blocking the measures from coming to a vote by Congress," Comer said.

Term limits would force quicker turnover of committee chairmanships, giving legislators with fresh ideas more opportunities to influence legislation, Comer believes.

"Term limits also would mean a return to the Founding Fathers' concept of citizen legislators and statesmen rather than career politicians whose efforts focus on continuing themselves in office for personal gain," Comer added.

Comer has contracted with the national and state organizations, U.S. Term Limits and North Carolina Term Limits, to sponsor legislation for voter referendums specifying a limit of two 4 year terms for members of both houses of Congress.

Comer also pledged that, if his proposal failed in Congress, he would co-sponsor the U.S. Term Limits proposal for limits of two consecutive terms for Senators and three consecutive terms for members of the House of Representatives.

Robert F. (Bob) Comer

I believe our country must return to citizen government.
I support term limitation as the essential step in the restoration of a Citizen Congress.

Dear Ron:

Thank you for your recent communication to my office regarding co-sponsorship of House Joint Resolution 160, the Amendment for a Citizen Congress, sponsored by Rep. Bob Inglis.

I am currently a co-sponsor of House Joint Resolution 38, which sets term limits of twelve years for both Senators and Congressmen. Because I have already signed on to this bill, I feel that, for now, I should withdraw the term limits contract which I signed through U.S. Term Limits on June 23, 1994, and this letter will serve as official notice of such action. However, I would appreciate an update from you on your progress with H.J.Res. 160 and your upcoming press conference.

Thank you for your cooperation in this matter.

Dear Mr. Nehring:

I have received your letter and attached questionnaire regarding my candidacy for the 104th Congress. I truly appreciate your taking the time to solicit my input on these issues.

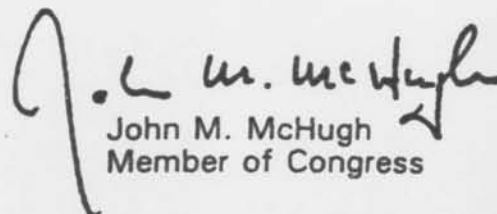

I certainly understand and respect your efforts in this regard. Your attempt to develop information relating to this fall's election is a most worthy undertaking.

Regretfully, I find I am simply unable to respond to these types of inquiries. My office has been overwhelmed by literally dozens upon dozens of such requests. This volume makes it impossible for me to respond in a fashion that does justice to these very legitimate requests. Accordingly, to preserve fairness, I find I must decline all such inquiries.

Let me assure you that this response is not intended to demonstrate insensitivity to your cause. During my first term in Congress, I have attempted to communicate openly to all those interested in any issue before the House. I sincerely hope my public record allows you to evaluate my past performance as a member of the United States Congress.

Thank you for your understanding, and with best wishes, I am

Congressional Race Has a Familiar Face

Quogue Man Challenges Incumbent

The man who organized the campaign that dealt George Hochbrueckner his only election defeat a decade ago will take on the incumbent congressman again this year.

But this time Michael Forbes of Quogue will be the candidate, not just the campaign manager.

Forbes, who served as the regional director of the Small Business Administration during the Bush administration, has been chosen by Suffolk Republican leaders to try to prevent Hochbrueckner from winning his fifth term in November.

Michael Forbes

During the 1984 First Congressional District contest Forbes ran then-incumbent Congressman William Carney's final reelection campaign. Hochbrueckner, who gave up his northern Brookhaven State Assembly seat to run for the federal office, lost to Carney on the Shoreham nuclear power plant issue.

Although Hochbrueckner attempted to paint Carney as pro-Shoreham and insensitive to the safety issues raised by plant foes, the incumbent highlighted the Democrat's support for state legislation to clear many of the regulatory hurdles that stood in the way of the plant's opening.

Carney retired two years later, and Hochbrueckner gained the seat by beating County Legislator Gregory Blass.

Forbes, a Westhampton Beach native who also worked in the state legislature and for Republican Senator Alfonse D'Amato, charges that Hochbrueckner has lost touch with his constituents after eight years in Washington.

Answer to Voters

"He has completely embraced the Clinton-Gore approach that government can do it better, and he's going to have to answer to the voters on that," said Forbes, who is to be formally nominated on June 2.

The Suffolk GOP "is eager for this race," said County Chairman Howard DeMartini. "We believe Mike Forbes is the right person to articulate the issues and concerns of local residents and will provide the kind of leadership that will restore effective representation for the area in Washington."

Forbes currently works as a congressional liaison for the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington. He is a graduate of Westhampton Beach High School and the State University of New York at Albany, and his family formerly owned weekly newspapers in Riverhead.

The 41-year-old Forbes discounts the notion that his chances for victory have been reduced by his entering the race less than six months prior to the general election, and by the indictment in Brookhaven Town of a number of former town Republican officials.

Hochbrueckner argues that Forbes' lack of name recognition will be a factor in the race, and that the indictments "poison the well for any Republican running."

Forbes may be known on the East End, the Congressman said. "But, I doubt anybody knows him in Brookhaven and Smithtown. Obviously he's got a lot of work to do to introduce himself to the district."

BEMIS SIGNS TERM LIMITS PLEDGE

During an interview today in Farmington on KOB Channel 12, Gregg Bemis, candidate for Congress from the 3rd District signed the Term Limits Pledge. This pledge provides that, if elected to Congress, Bemis will sponsor legislation, sign discharge petitions, and vote in favor of a constitutional amendment favoring term limits for Senators and Representatives. In the interview, he commented that:

Serving in Congress has become a profession rather than a service to our country and its citizens. This results in our elected officials being more concerned with re-election and the building of a bureaucracy to protect their personal interests, rather than concentrating on what is really best for our country as a whole.

In a town meeting recently in Santa Fe, Richardson, when queried on the subject, fell back on the old and stale arguments about the importance of seniority to the State, and that without longevity in office, the staffs would run the government. However, Bemis stated in his interview that:

Obviously under term limits, seniority would take a back seat to leadership and qualifications, two characteristics which have contributed to America's greatness.

As far as fearing that the staffs would run the government, Bemis pointed out that:

This assertion is an insult to the many highly qualified people in the United States who could serve with intelligence and integrity in Washington, if elected. My goodness, Bill would have us believe there are only 435 Americans who are qualified to serve in the House. This effort to make the legislative process into some mystifying activity that only the beltway crowd understands is ridiculous. Furthermore if Congress would stop trying to deal with a lot of activities beyond those prescribed by the constitution, the staffs could be substantially cut with commensurate savings to the taxpayers.

There are few subjects in America today that have more universal support. Bemis is proud to join the many citizens who recognize the need for this change.

Dear Mr. ~~Jacob~~ Ron:

Yesterday in Farmington. I signed the Term Limits Pledge on Television in a news release format and was interviewed. Naturally I have no way of knowing what kind of coverage it got.

Also we sent out the attached news release to all the papers in my district. There was no mention of it here in Santa Fe in the New Mexican but thats about par for this very democratic paper. They may pick it up later.

I have attached the signed pledge for your records. Lets hope we can get some positive results from all this.

I will look forward to hearing from Ron Nehring with any ideas he may have. Thanks for the support.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Nehring:

This is to acknowledge receipt of your recent letter of inquiry concerning my position on term limits for Members of Congress. I write today to address this important subject.

As you probably know, I am a cosponsor of H.R. Res. 38 which calls for an amendment to the Constitution to impose term limits on Members of the U.S. House and Senate. Furthermore, by signing Discharge Petition #3, I have urged the majority party in Congress to let the Resolution come to a full vote on the House floor. The House Judiciary Committee, however, has been steadfast in its opposition to such a vote.

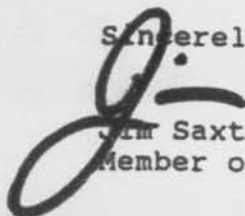

Also, I am a primary sponsor of the Republican Party's "Contract With America," which offers an agenda for the first 100 days of a Republican-controlled Congress. Included in the "contract" is a promise to bring a vote on term-limits to the full House.

I will continue my commitment to fair, and evenly imposed, term-limit legislation. H.J. Res. 38 is one such proposal.

Conversely, I am enclosing a newspaper story in which my opponent suggests that term limits are "unnecessary."

I hope you'll share this information with your New Jersey membership. Thank you for contacting my office and please feel free to contact me again if I may be of assistance in the future.

Sincerely,

Jim Saxton

Campaign '94: Congress

3rd District hopeful slaps incumbent foe over foreign policy

By SAM CHRISTOPHER
Staff Writer

TOMS RIVER — Jim Smith disagrees with his Republican opponent for 3rd District congressman on at least two key foreign policy issues, and believes an "anti-incumbency movement" will help elect him Nov. 8.

Smith, a Democrat, charged that Rep. Jim Saxton showed "nothing short of traitorish" behavior when he opposed committing American troops to keep the Mideast peace. And he said the United States' involvement in Haiti with multinational forces is paramount, a move he said Saxton opposes.

Smith, 45, who became his party's choice to oppose Saxton last month after Jay Williams quit the race, discussed a range of issues with the Observer's Editorial Board yesterday.

Smith also:

- Endorsed a national health care plan but opposed one part of President Clinton's proposal.
- Predicted that though given only two months to campaign and limited finances, he will win.

cause of extensive media coverage and the "dump incumbents" feeling.

• Criticized Saxton for preaching for domestic violence funds to the home folks in a Cinnaminson, Burlington County, forum a few days before he voted to cut $180 million from the President's Anti-Crime Bill for domestic violence.

• Reported term limits for officials are unnecessary.

On the Mideast peace, Smith said Saxton at a Washington, D.C., forum Sept. 29 brought in "hard-line conservative Israelis" and said there was no reason to commit American military forces to the Mideast peace.

"That's darn irresponsible; bonehead foreign policy. We are the number one military power in the world," Smith said.

He said the United States must foster the creation of a democracy where it does not exist in our own hemisphere, under the Monroe Doctrine, in supporting Clinton's involvement in Haiti.

"We have the right to negotiate, talk, walk softly but carry a big stick to institute democracy where it was voted in by a wide majority of the Haiti people. We aren't acting as big brother to beat up on everyone. We're working for world peace through the United Nations on a multi-national basis," Smith declared.

On health care, Smith said he was former Gov. Jim Florio's consumer advocate on insurance and alleged Republicans are guilty of "a health care scare." He said "the Republicans engendered fear to keep health care off the books."

Smith agreed to a single-payer plan on health care, saying it could be the government but not necessarily, depending on who provides the cheapest program. Clinton planned a full government program.

"There are 1,500 plans, with different rules," Smith noted.

Smith said the issues are taxes and crime and the "lingering issues" of energy, the environment, defense, and foreign policy. He called Saxton and the GOP "nothing but political obstructionists to many of the Democratic administration's programs in Washington."

Smith urged middle-class tax reform. He said the impact of tax law changes has been a detriment to the middle class. He said tax breaks of $2,000 to $5,000 per family would stimulate jobs, consumer spending and the economy. He spoke for an increased children's income tax deduction from $2,150 to $3,500 or $4,000 as a tremendous help for large families.

Smith brushed aside his landslide losses to Saxton in 1984 and 1988 because they were in the Reagan and Bush heyday. Conversely, a Democratic president now is in the White House, he noted.

He acknowledged Saxton had $555,000 in campaign funds last July 15, while "I don't have $50,000 and I'd like to raise $50,000 to $75,000."

Can Smith win?

"He (Saxton) is trying to beat himself ... by coming out with the statements like he did on the Mideast. Or maybe he was after some radical Jewish conservative campaign money."

Having run twice before, Smith said, he has increased his name recognition. He is campaigning part time, he said, and also enhancing his career as a financial planner in the insurance industry with training and education.

Smith said he cut the rate of tax increase in half in four years as Mount Holly mayor. He said Saxton never supported tax cut legislation and voted for a state sales tax increase as a state senator in 1982.

Smith said Saxton's doing a flip-flop on domestic violence funds was typical of his foe and annoying.

Smith said term limits are unnecessary, particularly for the two-year Congress jobs. He said the media does a good job of informing the voters what the politicians are doing and they can throw out those they do not want.

Smith said Fort Dix has become a ghost town since Saxton took office while McGuire Air Force Base "operates the same and is the only thing of substance my opponent did." That was a reference to Saxton's struggle to prevent the closure or reduction of force at the big base for years.

The Voters' Contract for a Citizen Congress

Ron Nehring, Director of Congressional Affairs
U.S. Term Limits
1511 K Street, NW
Suite 540
Washington, DC 20005

Dear Mr. Nehring:

This is to acknowledge receipt of your recent letter of inquiry concerning my position on term limits for Members of Congress. I write today to address this important subject.

As you probably know, I am a cosponsor of H.R. Res. 38 which calls for an amendment to the Constitution to impose term limits on Members of the U.S. House and Senate. Furthermore, by signing Discharge Petition #3, I have urged the majority party in Congress to let the Resolution come to a full vote on the House floor. The House Judiciary Committee, however, has been steadfast in its opposition to such a vote.

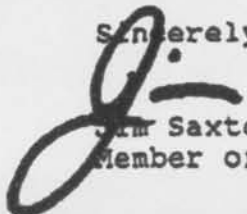

Also, I am a primary sponsor of the Republican Party's "Contract With America," which offers an agenda for the first 100 days of a Republican-controlled Congress. Included in the "contract" is a promise to bring a vote on term-limits to the full House.

I will continue my commitment to fair, and evenly imposed, term-limit legislation. H.J. Res. 38 is one such proposal.

Conversely, I am enclosing a newspaper story in which my opponent suggests that term limits are "unnecessary."

I hope you'll share this information with your New Jersey membership. Thank you for contacting my office and please feel free to contact me again if I may be of assistance in the future.

Sincerely,

Jim Saxton
Member of Congress

The authors of our constitution never envisioned the lifetime professional politicians of the 20th century.

That's why I favor term limits. With this new legislation, new ideas can come forth and new leaders may serve.

The days of pork-barrel politics must end; corruption in high places must be cast aside, and replaced with integrity.

With term limits, true statesmen can serve once again in Washington, and not greedy politicians.

A POLITICAL POTPOURRI

GOP's Bass Inches Closer In Effort to Unseat Swett

By JOHN DISTASO
Union Leader Staff

PROBABLY, DEFINITELY. Former state Sen. Charles Bass, a Republican, advanced yesterday from a "possible" to a "probable."

Bass said he intends to hold a news conference in the Secretary of State's office Wednesday and "probably" will announce a run for Democratic U.S. Rep. Dick Swett's seat.

Bass will be following the formal announcement by Grafton County Attorney Ward Scott, a conservative Republican who is definitely in the race and will announce his intentions Tuesday.

Scott's entry actually prompted Bass into the race. Bass is a self-described moderate Republican, but to true New Hampshire conservatives, he is a flaming liberal.

With several candidates to his ideological right in the race, Bass believes he can win the primary. And he now believes he can defeat Swett.

Bass, like Scott and the other conservatives, would have opposed the semiautomatic weapons ban, which Swett supported after a last-minute flip-flop.

CHARLES BASS
Very close

On abortion, Bass is pro-choice, supporting Roe v. Wade, while Scott is staunchly pro-life and Swett comes down somewhere in the middle, if there is a middle on that issue.

Fiscally, Scott will be a skinflint, while, between Bass and Swett, who knows?

Bass supports term limits and says he's against so-called "gay rights" legislation. He's also very much for right-to-work legislation.

De Minico Plans To Run as Independent

BARTLETT — Joe De Minico is an independent candidate for the 1st Congressional District seat. De Minico said he moved to New Hampshire last year after retiring at U.S. Central Command, Mac Dill Air Force Base, Fla.

De Minico said he is registered as a Republican so he can vote in the primary in an effort to oust what he calls republicrats.

He said he's a nonpartisan advocate of real campaign finance reform and term limits and will not accept PAC money in order to qualify for the ballot by getting 1,500 signatures on his nomination papers.

Rep. Zeliff Announces For Third House Term Says He Won't Serve More Than 12 Years

By JERRY MILLER
Union Leader Correspondent

PORTSMOUTH — First District Rep. Bill Zeliff Jr., R-N.H., yesterday announced his candidacy for a third term.

Traveling by chartered bus, Zeliff and a group of supporters made the rounds of the district, with appearances in North Conway, Dover, Laconia, Manchester and the Port City.

Following the announcement, Zeliff said he would serve no more than six terms (12 years) in the House and may eventually decide to leave after five terms or 10 years. However, he would not rule out seeking other political office.

"Most likely I'll come home after 10 years and go back to Jackson, but I'm not ruling anything out," he said.

Before reading a five-page statement, Zeliff was warmly praised by 3rd District Executive Councilor Ruth Griffin as a public servant who has "stirred up the waters" in Congress.

The former Jackson innkeeper was also praised for his work on behalf of the state's small business owners.

"Small business is the backbone of our state, the backbone of free enterprise," said Al Dauray, a small business financial consultant from Stratham.

"Small business people all know and believe we have a real friend in Bill Zeliff ... he is a small businessman himself and understands the needs of small business," said Dauray.

Zeliff was also praised for his work on behalf of the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard by Don Sasla, vice president of Local 4 of the International Federation of Professional and Technical Engineers.

Zeliff told the partisan gathering he will continue to push for his "A to Z" legislation. The bill would allow the House to debate all government spending bills during a specially designated time.

On crime, Zeliff said putting more police officers in uniform and more criminals behind bars is his aim.

and Mrs. Clinton for their efforts in putting health care on the public agenda. Zeliff criticized the administration for its reform package.

"The liberal government-controlled health care plans I see right now absolutely scare the heck out of me," he said. "We should fix the things that are wrong with the existing health care system ..."

- Insuring the uninsured.
- Requiring portability between jobs.
- Prohibiting insurance companies from denying coverage because of pre-existing conditions.
- Tort reform.
- Establishment of community-to curb fraud in Medicare and Medicaid programs.

In a brief question-and-answer session, following his announcement, Zeliff told a small group of reporters, the looming crisis in Korea is best addressed through diplomacy.

"Our best aim is to work diplomatically with China and North Korea and prevent the possibility of going to war. We have to exhaust every single diplomatic opportunity and we'll need the Chinese ... going to war right now is a very last resort."

Zeliff was especially critical about a recent congressional vote which rejected a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution.

"I'm beginning to get cynical that no one cares about living

Rep. Swett Files for a Third Term

By DONN TIBBETTS
State House Bureau Chief

CONCORD — An incumbent congressman and a ex-veteran executive councilor put their candidacies on the line yesterday for the Sept. 13 primaries.

The pace of filings is expected to start picking up today with Friday's 5 p.m. deadline looming.

Yesterday's filings included:

Congress

Second District U.S. Rep. Dick Swett, D-Bow, filed his third-term bid yesterday with 1,200 voter petitions and a $5,000 filing fee because he is not agreeing to the state's voluntary campaign spending limit of $250,000 in the primary and $250,000 in the general election.

Only four candidates have refused to voluntarily embrace the campaign spending limit. Republican state Senate hopefuls Jim Rubens of Hanover and Roland Stoodley of Newport and Democrat state representative candidate Lawrence Murphy of Salisbury are the others.

Swett said he's not concerned by the bunch of Republicans seeking his job. "I'll let them decide among themselves and I'll worry about who comes out of the pack."

"The Becker poll shows I've got a substantial following. I've got a record of accomplishment that we'll be talking about in the campaign and we even had a little controversy that proved to be beneficial as well," said Swett. Referring to the controversy over his last-minute flip flop vote to ban 19 semi-automatic weapons, Swett said, "I think for the most part it's turned into a substantial show of support."

Despite roll call vote statistics indicating that Swett votes as often with the Democratic position as fellow Granite State Rep. Bill Zeliff votes to support the Republican position, Swett said "The reality is that I am a conservative member of the Democratic Party and I vote fairly independently. On votes of importance that is especially true."

On attaining inspection of nuclear facilities in North Korea, Swett said "The dialogue that is taking place right now probably is more important than what is happening with Haiti, or Somalia, or Bosnia, or any of the other hot spots in the world and we have to take a strong and firm position."

Executive Council

Former five-term District 2 Councilor Peter J. Spaulding of Hopkinton filed yesterday to return to his old seat. He faces Anna-Marie Sparks of Bow, James Cremin of Concord and Merrill Shepard of Weare in the GOP primary.

Spaulding, now with the First Deposit National Credit Card Bank, left his council post and made a bid for U.S. representative in 1992, losing the GOP nod to Bill Hatch of Nashua and Steve Duprey of Concord.

Spaulding pledged to support "expanded access to our lakes, rivers and lands," as well as "an orderly and expanded highway system." He opposes an increase in the Spaulding vote of the GOP primary whomever is elected oppose him when Former Concord Councilor Kuhlman Brown gain the Second publican Bob K swings at Gov. State Executive Council election.

"Steve Merrill has a policy. Couple the attitude of 'let the public know nothing' and we have a disaster," said Brown, who lost the 1992 election by 7,205 out of 86,705 votes cast for her and Hayes.

"We should expect state Board of Education members to concern themselves with quality not condoms," said Brown. Installing herself as the "odds-on favorite," she said it was a waste of time for the council to approve every state contract over $5,000 but had "no idea" what the contract approval figure should be.

State Senate

Libertarian Randy Orvis of Farmington filed for the District 4 seat held by Sen. Leo Fraser, R-Pittsfield.

Rep. Thomas G. Houlahan of New London yesterday joined Jim Rubens of Hanover in the GOP race for the District 5 seat held by Senate President Ralph Hough, R-Lebanon. Houlahan is anti-income tax and pro-term limits. Houlahan drew attention this year in co-sponsoring the controversial and unsuccessful "gay rights" bill this year.

Republican Robert J. Bell, a self-employed manufacturer's representative from Nashua, is bidding for the District 13 seat held by freshman Sen. Debora Pignatelli, D-Nashua.

Democrat Lou D'Allesandro of Manchester will hold a news conference at 3 p.m. tomorrow in the Legislative Office Building lobby to announce his bid for the District 20 seat being vacated by Sen. Ann Bourque, D-Manchester.

Republican Barbara Yates of Durham filed for the District 21 seat held by Sen. Jeannie Shaheen, D-Durham.

District 22 Sen. Joseph L. Delahunty, R-Salem, filed for renomination to a fifth term.

District 23 Sen. Beverly Hollingworth, D-Hamp-ton filed for a third term.

County Offices

Those filing for county offices included:

CARROLL COUNTY: Republican Edith Storey of Freedom for commissioner.

CHESHIRE COUNTY: Democrat Bruce E. Lyon of Winchester for sheriff. Republican David S. Park of Keene for attorney.

STRAFFORD COUNTY: Democrat Lincoln T. Soldati of Somersworth for attorney. Democrat William F. Knowles of Somersworth for treasurer.

Dear Ron:

Thank you for your letter of August 30 in which you ask that I sign a pledge, titled "Nebraska Voter Protection Pledge," which would indicate my absolute support for congressional term limits as may be adopted by Nebraska voters in November 1994.

It has been my policy since taking office that I do not sign pledges such as yours, both as a matter of principle and in recognition of the realities and complexities of the legislative process. Pledges may score political points or make good sound bites, but signed without the benefit of a crystal ball, they are not a sound policy-making tool. I adhere to this policy whether I agree or disagree with the substance of the pledge.

With that said, I do want to bring to your attention that I am on record in support of passing and sending to the states for ratification an amendment to the US Constitution to limit the service of Members of Congress. I have stated publicly on many occasions that I will vote for term limits, albeit with many reservations, if the same limit for years of consecutive service is proposed for Representatives and Senators from all fifty states. I have reservations whether limiting terms of federal offices on a state-by-state basis is constitutional.

I am a cosponsor of HJRes 38, Rep. McCollum's resolution to amend the US Constitution to limit the terms of both Members and Senators to twelve years (6 terms in the House, and 2 terms in the Senate.) I do not support creating an inequity between the House and Senate, as the Nebraska ballot initiative unfortunately would, by limiting service in the two Chambers to a different number of years.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to get back in touch with me.

Sincerely,

BILL BARRETT
Member of Congress

SENATE LEGAL COUNSEL FROM CHALLENGE TO ARKANSAS TERM LIMITS

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Montana Senator Conrad Burns today sent a letter to Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell asking that the Senate Legal Counsel not be part of a challenge to the Arkansas term limits law which will be heard in the United States Supreme Court.

"You will recall that you sponsored a resolution on February 3, 1993 authorizing the use of the United States Senate Legal Counsel" in the Arkansas term limits case, Burns wrote to Mitchell. "No notice of this resolution was provided to me prior to its consideration and adoption on the unanimous consent calendar."

"The use of taxpayer funds to finance the Senate Legal Counsel's participation in these proceedings cannot and must not continue."

The United States Supreme Court will hear in December the challenge to the Arkansas term limits law which is expected to be a landmark ruling the constitutionality of term limits on federally elected officials. President Clinton recently announced the Justice Department will argue against the constitutionality of the law.

Majority Leader Mitchell sponsored a unanimous consent resolution approving the use of the Senate Legal Counsel as well. Such resolutions are passed if no member objects. Burns and other Senators were not given advance notice before consideration of the resolution.

Montana voters overwhelmingly passed term limits in 1992 imposing a two term limit on Montana's U.S. Senators and a three term limit on Montana members of the U.S. House of Representatives

"The people of Montana have spoken very clearly on their support of term limits as have many other states," Burns "It is totally inappropriate that taxpayer money be spent challenging the very laws Montanans and other Americans have passed."

CONRAD BURNS
United States Senator

September 20, 1994

The Honorable George Mitchell, Senate Majority Leader
The Honorable Robert Dole, Senate Minority Leader
United States Senate
Washington, DC 20510

Dear Senators:

As you know, the United States Supreme Court has accepted certiorari in the Arkansas term limits case, State of Arkansas ex rel. Attorney General Winston Bryant v. Hill, et al. The case is likely to be heard in December of this year and a decision will be handed down by the end of this term of the Supreme Court.

In the original proceedings in the Arkansas State Court, there were 181 named defendants, including all the statewide constitutional officers, the members of the state legislature and the members of the congressional delegation. Essentially, the plaintiffs cleverly named as defendants everyone in the state of Arkansas who could be counted on to agree with the plaintiffs' position on the issue of term limits: namely, all those whose terms would be subject to the limits.

Indeed, as expected, virtually all of these so-called "defendants" responded to the lawsuit in agreement with the plaintiffs.

You will recall that you sponsored a resolution on February 3, 1993, authorizing the use of the United States Senate Legal Counsel in the aforementioned proceedings. No notice of this resolution was provided to the undersigned prior to its consideration and adoption on the unanimous consent calendar.

The use of taxpayer funds to finance the Senate Legal Counsel's participation in these proceedings cannot and must not continue.

The citizens of several states have approved initiative measures to limit the terms of their members of Congress and the Supreme Court has agreed to decide in its next term whether the people have the constitutional right to do so.

17-00000-0134 P005/000

In recent weeks, the Clinton Administration has served notice that it intends to use the taxpayer supported Justice Department to argue against the constitutionality of the Arkansas law.

It is my opinion that it is an egregious breach of the public trust for the Justice Department to be utilized in this manner against the interests of the citizens of our nation.

Likewise, I believe it would be a violation of our public trust as members of the Senate for the United States Senate Legal Counsel to continue to advocate in any way to the United States Supreme Court that the people of any state lack the constitutional authority to restrict the incumbency of those who represent them in Congress.

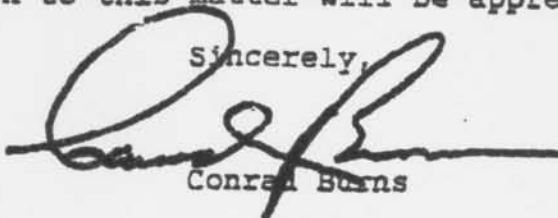

It is clear that the members who make up this great legislative body have different positions on the issue of term limits. However, it is equally clear that any Supreme Court decision will establish a precedent for all of our states to follow, not just Arkansas. Therefore, I find it inappropriate for the Senate Legal Counsel to advocate the interests of only one side of this national debate.

As a result, I am hereby requesting that you formally instruct the Senate Legal Counsel to withdraw from the case and not to prepare or file any briefs or other pleadings in the Arkansas case pending before the high court.

Absent a formal agreement to that effect, it is my intent to introduce a resolution to rescind the previously adopted resolution and to prohibit the Senate from expending any further tax dollars to overturn the will of the people of Arkansas.

Your prompt attention to this matter will be appreciated.

Sincerely,

Conrad Burns

MONTANA VOTER PROTECTION PLEDGE

I favor more competition and better ballot access to achieve the same goals set by term limits. Perpetuating parties (the "two-party system") is as bad as perpetuating incumbent congresspersons. More choices on the ballot is #1.

I pledge to the voters of my state that I will oppose any effort by the U. S. Congress to alter the term limits law passed by Montana voters in 1992.

I consider term limits to be a risky short-term fix to the problems facing voters. more candidates on the ballot is long-term and not an "institutional solution" we may regret later.

THE DISTRICT

In a city of deep rooted neighborhoods, Philadelphia's 3rd district is somewhat of an anomaly. With the exception of the "river wards" the Polish and Irish communities that front the Delaware River, the 3rd District is made up of people who have migrated there in the past generation from other parts of the city. This is particularly true in the Great Northeast (so named because of its geographical expanse). In much of this area, the surroundings are more suburban than urban. In the 1950's there were still some farms here.

Much of the migration from the inner city came about after the growth of the black population in North and West Philadelphia. This accounts in part, for the overwhelmingly white population in the 3rd District. Concern about crime inspires conservative social attitudes in the row houses along the tree lined streets of this area. Former Mayor Frank Rizzo's tough law and order image made him a hero here.

The Great Northeast has a large Jewish Population, concentrated west of Roosevelt Boulevard. Further east Irish and other Catholic ethnic predominate.

The 3rd is the only Philadelphia district where Republicans have a chance to be victorious. Ronald Reagan won it against Jimmy Carter in 1980, and again in 1984, as did George Bush in 1988.

HASHER

BIOGRAPHY

Jim Hasher, 30 years old, is a native and lifelong resident of the 3rd Congressional District with years of business experience in real estate, management and business. He began his career in business as the General Manager for the Century 21 office in the Mayfair section of Philadelphia. After three years of overseeing all aspect of the office's management, he embarked on his own business venture, acquiring a RE/MAX franchise as owner/broker.

He quickly developed and grew this office in the largest RE/MAX operation in the state creating twenty-six jobs along the way. When the franchises had matured to full operation he looked for his next challenge. He found that challenge in what became The Hasher Realty Group where Jim focuses on real estate, investment counseling and business development.

Now Jim Hasher as a local business owner and community leader sees a new challenge in representing the 3rd Congressional District in Congress. He wants to take the same skills that have made him successful in business and utilize them in Congress for the betterment of his hometown.

His early success in business is attributed to his ability to build relationships with his clients, business associates and the public that are based on trust and accountability. He has the imagination and energy to find creative solutions to complex problems involving jobs, housing and business development. During his years as a community leader in the Northeast area, he has come to realize that members of Congress are far too removed from the real world of creating jobs, balancing budgets and providing accountable services to the people they serve.

Recent closings of large companies have taken community leaders by surprise because there has been no effective voice to speak for them in Congress. Hasher believes there is a role for members of Congress in anticipating economic and policy changes that may affect residents, and cost jobs, in their district. Hasher will work as an active liaison between government and business to bring about solutions that will stop, or at least limit, the effects of unemployment.

The economic realities of the nineties calls for new leaders with new ideas about how government addresses the multitude of problems that confront us as individuals and as a community. Hasher believes that the primary goal of elected officials should be the public good, not private

The location was selected for obvious reasons, considering the message Jim Hasher was delivering to voters in the 3rd Congressional District.

After all, what better site could there be to discuss the district's employment problems than right in front of the Pennsylvania Job Center at 2901 Grant Ave.?

That's where Hasher, a Castor Gardens Realtor, held a press conference Jan. 6 to officially announce his candidacy for U.S. Congress. Last month, the Republican City Committee unanimously endorsed Hasher to oppose six-term Democratic Rep. Robert A. Borski.

The candidate was joined at the job center by about 50 supporters, including members of Teamsters Local 115, who braved the bitter cold to deliver a message of their own: Dump Borski.

"I called you here today because I thought it was high time to start focusing on the causes and the effects of the massive job losses that have hit our neighborhood," said Hasher, 30, owner of The Hasher Realty Group. "I believe that this is a major issue facing the district today, and we no longer sit idly by as more and more people are left in, and eventually, hopeless."

If we are going to stop the trend, we are going to have to start electing people who know about job creation and forging alliances in the private sector," the Torresdale resident added. "We must forge alliances between business and labor that will only benefit the district in the long run, and eventually stop the exodus of jobs that are hurting this district."

Hasher also used the press conference to speak out against Borski, who is expected to seek a seventh, two-year term, but has yet to formally announce his candidacy.

One of the reasons why Mr. Borski is not going on in our neighborhood, Hasher said, is that the average person in the district was not going to have voted himself a four-year term. "I believe that the time has come when the people of this district are going to elect someone who will represent them."

Hasher said of Borski, who is expected to seek a seventh, two-year term, but has yet to formally announce his candidacy, "I believe Bob Borski has lost touch with the working people and the business owners of this district."

Dear Mr. Jacob:

Thank you for your letter of June 24, 1994 in which you expressed your hope that I would sign the Term Limits contract that you enclosed.

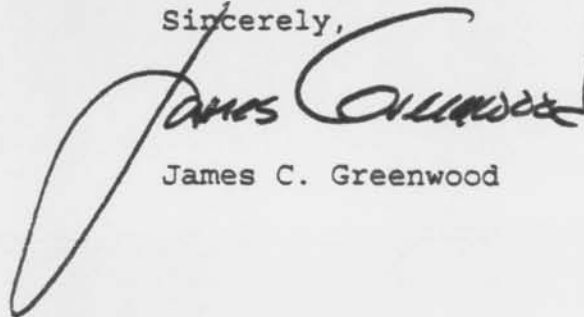

As a candidate for Congress in 1992 I agreed to serve for no more than six terms. Your contract calls for a limit of three terms. I remain convinced that six terms is the more appropriate limit, and so cannot sign your contract.

I should note that I believe the more significant reform is to end the Political Action Committee (PAC) system that protects incumbents and allows them to be seriously challenged.

I have already voluntarily taken this pledge, and accept no PAC contributions.

Thank you for your interest in this matter.

Sincerely,

James C. Greenwood

The Platform

This nation needs leadership with vision, integrity, and courage. Instead we have a Congress that operates on perks and pork. Neither will strengthen the 10th Congressional district in Pennsylvania.

The ideas I present below are largely based on my belief that a renewed activism by citizens is desperately needed in our current political process. Congress has forgotten the working people: those who pay taxes, work hard, and try to raise families on a limited budget. Congress has not acted in the citizen's best interest because the money for Congressional campaigns does not come from the average citizen. It comes from million dollar contributions from Political Action Committees (PACs) and big corporate interests. You and I are invisible in this grab for cash. Our concerns are sold out to those who can funnel thousands of dollars to a candidate. This must change.

Your participation in developing this platform will guarantee that your government will remain accountable to you. Your participation will guarantee that if this campaign is successful, you will have an ongoing responsibility to see that I am doing the job after election day. This process will encourage you to learn about the issues, express your ideas, debate intelligently about them, and use your power as citizens to see those ideas enacted. No one has all the answers. Anyone who says they do is mistaken. I know that the problems facing this country require an open exchange of ideas to solve them. The platform that follows creates the environment for such interaction to take place. Please read it and tell me your comments and criticisms. This platform will grow and become stronger as each of you adds to it.

Restore Democracy

There will be no real change, no courage to tackle the problems that we face as a nation if we do not restore power into the hands of all citizens of this country. We must make government more responsible and in doing so, accept more responsibility. We must replace this constituency of the seemingly powerless with citizens of voice and responsibility. The federal government should

- Create a non-binding national referendum procedure, so that citizens have a means to express their views on important issues directly.
- Remove the tax deduction for lobbying expenses. If non-profit citizen groups cannot lobby, profit oriented groups should not get a tax break for lobbying.
- Implement a universal voter registration system so all citizens have a voice in our government
- Make election day a holiday to enable all citizens to vote.
- Use the coming "Information Super Highway" to inform citizens of pending legislation and voting records of their elected officials.
- Install a binding none-of-the-above option on the ballot. Voters in the United States are supposed to have a choice between varying ideas and platforms. Too often, candidates running for office offer nothing significantly distinguishable in those areas.

Campaign Reform

Real campaign reform must be enacted to give all citizens equal access to their elected officials and to encourage citizens to become public servants. The high cost of running for Congress, averaging $575,000 in 1992, discourages many from participating in the system. This need for campaign dollars, to ensure continued re-election, gives undue influence to huge corporate Political Action committees (PAC's) and rich contributors. This money buys influence. As incumbents' war-chests are filled, special tax breaks are given. The career politicians looked the other way while the savings and loans were plundered. Now, those of use who can afford to give only a few dollars to a candidate must pay for the S&L bailout. To correct this bought and paid for government we must:

- Limit contributions to $100 per individual to eliminate the influence money has on our elected officials
- Eliminate Political Action Committee (PAC) contributions. This money makes politicians kowtow to special interests.
- Provide free access to mass communications for qualified candidates so that citizens can make informed decisions. This access must also be available in the coming "Information Super Highway."
- Properly fund the Federal Election Committee. This is the agency that is supposed to oversee federal elections, enforcing campaign laws. The commission is deliberately under funded and understaffed so that the career politicians can continue with their questionable campaign practices.

Congressional Reform

Congress is out of touch with the people. How can a Congressman making $133,644 and likely to receive a million dollar pension identify with the constituents who may average only $20-40 thousand a year? The answer is they cannot. Add to the salaries, pensions and perks Congress receives and you get a ruling class with no comprehension of the lives of average Americans. In order to show the people that Congress is serious about government reform we must:

- Rollback the Congressional salary and eliminate the automatic raises they receive.
- Enact a line item veto for the President. This will help eliminate waste and help cut the 4.6 trillion dollar debt.
- Eliminate the perks that are paid for with our tax dollars. Congress must set the example for reform and sacrifice.
- Make Congress subject to the laws they pass and eliminate prior exemptions. The very fact that they are not covered by the laws imposed on the rest of us shows the arrogance of this "ruling" class.
- Enact term limits to eliminate career politicians. Two terms for the Senate and six terms for Congress.

VOTER PROTECTION PLEDGE

I pledge to the voters of my state that I will oppose any effort by the U. S. Congress to alter the term limits laws enacted by voters in democratic elections in the states.

On April 15,
Congress is thanking you.

While you have struggled throughout the year to feed you family, pay your bills, and maybe even save a little, Congress is enjoying your hard earned tax dollars.

Congressional Perks:

Annual Salary: $133,600 + cost of living raises.

Retirement: Many will be eligible to collect over $1 million in lifetime benefits.

Office Expenses: $146,388 average annually.

These are just a small part of Congress's expensive spending. Think about that as you work about 4 months out of every year just to pay your taxes.

Now, do you think your Congressman can relate to your everyday life?

SCHREFFLER Citizen For Congress

If you are ready to do more than just talk about the problems in Washington, then help me fight the waste, fix the system and build a better future for all Americans.

I believe it is time for the citizens to take back their country. In order to do this each of us must begin to participate in the democratic process and know that we can make a difference. Help elect me to Congress and I will fight to:

- Limit campaign contributions to $100 per individual.
- Eliminate PAC contributions.
- Rollback Congressional salaries and eliminate the automatic cost of living adjustments they are now entitled to.
- Eliminate the excessive perks and special privileges our Congress enjoys.
- Enact term limits to eliminate career politicians. Two terms for the Senate and six terms for Congress.
- Remove the exemption Congress has on laws it passes. If it affects you, it should affect them.
- Give the voters a voice by creating a non-binding national referendum.

Dan Schreffler is an independent Democrat running for Congress in the 10th District.

English, Leavens agree to debate

By JIM THOMPSON
Of the Erie Daily Times

The two candidates for the 21st District seat in Congress have agreed to a series of debates, but no one has yet come up with sponsors or schedules.

Republican candidate Phil English held four news conferences in the district on Tuesday to issue a debate challenge and open his general election campaign with an attack aimed at Democrat Bill Leavens on congressional term limits.

Leavens, the Democratic Party nominee, said he is looking forward to debates with English and as many public appearances as the campaign will allow.

English and Leavens won the nominations in contested primary election races May 10 and will square off Nov. 8 to see who will replace Rep. Tom Ridge of Erie in Congress.

English said voters should have every possible opportunity to see the candidates debate the issues. He said he believes voters will find "critical differences" between himself and Leavens.

Leavens responded, "We're welcoming the opportunities that we will have to debate. I attended every event I could during the primaries, at least 15 joint appearances and debates, and I look forward to the same for the general election."

Leavens said he knows of no debates scheduled yet, but said he anticipates that the League of Women Voters, community organizations and the media will set up joint appearances.

English, at the news conferences, said the major differences between himself and Leavens is whether there should be congressional term limits.

English, during the primary election campaign, said he believes House membership should be limited to 12 successive years, equal to six elected terms.

"Term limits are the key reform we need to change the way Congress works," English said. "It will replace the Washington careerists with citizen legislators that bring new blood and new ideas to Congress. Term limits will make the legislative branch more accountable and responsive to the public."

"I support term limits and I have signed a pledge to voluntarily limit my tenure in Congress. I want to go to Washington to make a difference, not a career. The voting public overwhelmingly supports congressional term limits."

"By contrast, my opponent opposes term limits. On this issue and others, he sides with the political insiders and Washington careerists against reform. My opponent should explain why he thinks the legislative agenda in the House should be dominated by political fixturers like Representative Dan Rostenkowski. Apparently, my opponent feels that the only way a careerist like Rostenkowski should be removed from office is by indictment."

Leavens responded today by saying the voters already have full power to limit the terms of elected representatives.

"As I stated in the primaries, we have term limits, they're called elections," Leavens said.

He said English's call for a 12-year limit "is a joke. That's not a limit, that's an outer limit," Leavens said.

He said he believes the average length of service in the House is now less than 10 years because voters sense when a member of Congress has outlived his or her usefulness and needs to be replaced.

"The key to congressional reform is campaign finance reform," Leavens said. He said he had to borrow $25,000 to fund the final days of his primary election campaign, then return the Monday after the election to his job in Sharon as executive director of the Shenango Valley Chamber of Commerce.

"What we need are reforms to reduce the advantage that incumbents have and the advantage that people with a lot of money have," Leavens said.

Both he and English have called on a restriction that at least half of a congressional candidate's campaign contributions come from within that congressional district, but they have not agreed at this time to do that.

ENGLISH SIGNS TERM LIMIT PLEDGE, UNVEILS REFORMS

Republican congressional candidate Phil English today endorsed term limits for members of Congress and unveiled a detailed set of proposals to reduce the cost of Congress and make it more accountable to the public.

At a news conference at Erie County Republican Headquarters, English signed a pledge committing publicly to support congressional term limits and to voluntarily limit his own term in Washington. He challenged the other six candidates seeking the seat currently held by U.S. Congressman Tom Ridge to sign the pledge and endorse term limits.

"Term limits for members of Congress is the fundamental reform we need to change the status quo in Washington," said English. "We need to rotate our leaders in office to ensure insure that new blood and new ideas find their way into the public arena. Congress should be a body of citizen legislators where the agenda is set by a majority representative of America, not a few career politicians that have spent decades in Washington."

English said that the public overwhelmingly supports term limits, but that most establishment career politicians oppose limits. "In the next few years we will see a key up or down vote on term limits, and I want to be in Congress to stand up for the taxpayers and vote for reform," he said. English has been involved in the term limits movement, having helped develop a term limit proposal for state legislators while serving as legislative assistant to Senator Melissa Hart (R-Allegheny).

English also called for reforms to increase accountability in Congress while reducing the cost of its operations. The Republican candidate called for a 25% reduction in congressional staff, a consolidation or elimination of at least 30 congressional committees, and an overall reduction of legislative branch spending of at least 25%, which he said would save the taxpayers over $500 million dollars annually. "If Congress is going to get serious about cutting deficit spending, they should start by streamlining their own operations," he said.

English endorsed reforms to reduce the influence in the House of individual

English endorsed reforms to reduce the influence in the House of individual committee chairmen, including a limit on the tenure of committee chairmen and ranking members and a ban on proxy voting in congressional committees. "Congress should reform the rules to reduce the stranglehold a few pork barons have on the legislative process."

English also argued that Congress should be subject to the same laws it passes. He called for existing civil rights and labor laws to be applied to Congress, and called for special prosecutors to handle all criminal investigations of sitting members of Congress. "People want Congress to be accountable and get no special treatment under the law," he said.

English insisted that other reforms are needed to make Congress more open as an institution. He urged the extension of sunshine laws to congressional committee meetings and a new restriction on the ability of the House to change the rules to limit debate on legislation. "Congress would benefit from more open deliberation."

The candidate said that his proposals would lay the groundwork for restoring the public standing of Congress. "We have to act now to reform Congress and rehabilitate its poor image with citizens. The public distrust of Congress and its reigning political culture is undermining the legitimacy of our political institutions and lessening our capacity to deal with critical issues."

To The Voters of the Twenty-First District

I pledge to support an amendment to limit the consecutive service of members of the House of Representatives.

This amendment will permit members of Congress to serve no more than twelve consecutive years in office.

Further, I pledge to support any discharge petition to bring a term limit amendment to the floor of the House, regardless of the party affiliation of the petition's authors.

Finally, I solemnly pledge, regardless of the success or failure of any term limit amendment, to restrict my own tenure in office to the limitation prescribed herein.

If I violate any element of this pledge at any time in the future, I instruct all voters in my district to vote against me in the next scheduled primary or general election.

Dear Mr. Jacobs:

Thank you for your letter regarding term limits. As a supporter of term limits, I have co-sponsored legislation, H.J.Res. 38, for a national constitutional amendment to limit congressional service to six 2-year terms in the U.S. House of Representatives and two 6-year terms in the U.S. Senate. I plan to do so again next term, since its adoption evidently will not happen this year.

I have signed a discharge petition #3 to bring this legislation to the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives. I plan to do so again next term.

And I certainly intend to vote for this constitutional amendment.

I hope you will convey my support of term limits to all interested persons.

Dear Mr. Nehring:

Thank you for your letter enclosing what you labelled a Voter Protection Pledge. As you certainly know, I support term limits. However, I am concerned that your "pledge" could undercut the term limits effort, rather than help it.

I'm co-sponsor of term limits legislation in Congress, via a proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution. But, because those proposals are not exactly identical to the one you propose, signing your pledge would make it impossible for me to work for uniform, national term limits. My desire is to achieve identical term limits in all fifty states, not to put Oklahoma at a disadvantage. The only way is via a national constitutional amendment. This is the only sure method because most states, unlike Oklahoma, do not have an initiative petition process, to enable their citizens to vote on term limits.

The pledge you submitted might bind Oklahoma Congressmen to term limits, but it would let those from other states, such as Senator Ted Kennedy, or Congressman Dan Rostenkowski, stay in Washington forever.

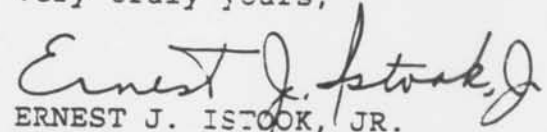

If I signed your pledge I could no longer work for a constitutional amendment for uniform national term limits, because its language would undoubtedly differ from the language of the Oklahoma limitation. Any Congressman who signs your pledge would either have to vote in Congress against a nationwide constitutional amendment, or break the pledge. They could not help reach a national consensus on:

- The maximum number of years to be served;
- The starting date to implement term limits nationwide;
- Whether years already served would or would not count against the limit;
- Whether the limit would apply only to consecutive years served, or total years served (Thus, could someone sit out a term, then run again?);
- How you count partial terms for persons elected during special elections;
- Whether you absolutely prohibit serving extra years, or merely restrict ballot access--as the Oklahoma version does--so that write-in candidates might serve for longer.

Page 2
Mr. Nehring
September 6, 1994

Signing this pledge would prevent me from continuing my efforts to pass uniform national term limits, via an amendment to the U.S. Constitution. And I do not intend to let anything deter me from that effort.

Very truly yours,

U.S. Term Limits
1511 K Street, NW
Washington, DC 20005

Dear Mr. Nehring,

Thank you for your letter and pledge form regarding the Oklahoma initiative on term limits set for a vote on September 20. As you probably know, I support the Oklahoma initiative, and have already suffered significant harassment from our local newspaper editors over this issue. Such opposition, however, will not sway me from my support for Congressional term limits. There are actually members of Congress who have been in Washington since before my wife and I were born. They can't possibly understand the burdens they have placed on us in raising our four children in the 1990's. I will be voting for the initiative on September 20.

Moreover, as a member of Congress, I will continue to support term limits. However, it may well be that the only enforceable term limits will be drafted and passed by Congress itself. In such case, I will support the best term limit proposal available. I support a limit of 6 years for House members and 12 for Senators, or else I would not be voting 'yes' next week. I cannot, though, pledge to vote against any other particular term limit proposal, when the debate in Washington is only just beginning.

Oklahoma is the birthplace of the modern term limits movement, thanks to the courage of my friend and supporter Lloyd Noble, II. Our voters are very sophisticated about this matter, and I have complete confidence that they will not tolerate waffling on the issue.

We all appreciate the leadership of yourself and your organization in reforming the time worn status quo. As the candidate for reform in this District (my Democrat opponent is a nephew by marriage of Senator George Mitchell), and as one seeking to follow the courageous Jim Inhofe, who's discharge petition reform will probably be the catalyst for term limits and a host of needed changes, I appreciate your interest in our campaign and hope to be working closely with you in Washington.

MEMORANDUM

FROM: BENNETT, PETTS & ASSOCIATES
RE: KEY SURVEY FINDINGS
DATE: JULY 5, 1994

This memorandum summarizes the key findings from a survey of 604 registered Democrats in the state of Oklahoma who are likely to vote in the Democratic primary in August. Telephone interviewing was conducted June 26 - 30, 1994 by trained, professional interviewers following procedures established by Bennett, Petts & Associates. In 95 cases out of 100, the responses to this survey should fall within plus or minus 4.0 percentage points of those that would have been obtained from interviewing the entire population of general election voters from this district. The sampling error for subgroups will be greater.

Dave McCurdy is a 7 term Congressman who has fairly high name identification after serving almost 15 years in Washington. In contrast, Cody Graves ran statewide for the first time in 1992 and has had much more limited exposure to the voters of Oklahoma than has Congressman McCurdy. In spite of McCurdy's initial advantages in name recognition and tenure in elective office, Graves is in a dead heat with McCurdy after voters are given more information about the two candidates. Respondents were presented with both positive and negative information about both McCurdy and Graves.

INFORMED VOTE

McCURDY	41%
GRAVES	40%
UNDECIDED	19%

Specifically, voters responded very negatively to McCurdy's long tenure in Washington, his opposition to term limits, and support of the Btu tax. In contrast, Graves' support of term limits and strong and active opposition to the Btu tax were very well received by Democratic primary voters.

Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — State Corporation Commissioner Cody Graves, running for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, said Wednesday he is planning to vote for the congressional term limits proposal on the statewide ballot this year.

Graves criticized his primary opponent, Rep. Dave McCurdy, D-Norman, for not supporting term limits and challenged him to say whether he would vote for the statewide question.

McCurdy's campaign manager, Tim Phillips, said McCurdy continues to believe that term limits would hurt small states like Oklahoma.

And he said, "I don't think he has to give you or Cody or anyone else an answer," on how he's going to vote on the statewide question.

Gov. David Walters last week picked the Sept. 20 runoff election for a statewide vote on limiting U.S. House members from Oklahoma to three two-year terms and senators to two six-

Election 1994

Term Limits

year terms.

The ballot question is the result of an initiative petition drive that netted a record number of signatures in the state.

Graves said McCurdy, who has been in Congress since 1981, had vowed in the past to speak out against the statewide proposal.

"I can only take that to mean he will vote against this measure and all other term limit questions if he remains in Congress,"

Graves said. "It is unfortunate that Dave McCurdy is more determined to protect his fuddles in an out-of-control Congress, with its huge salaries and special perks, than he is in doing what more than 70 percent of all Oklahomans want - and that is to enact term limits on Congress."

Phillips said Graves was desperate and was "just searching for an issue and using inflammatory language to do it."

He said McCurdy doesn't think term limits would be good for a state like Oklahoma with a relatively small delegation. With the seniority system in Congress, members from small states can gain clout if they stay in Congress long enough.

Sen. David Boren, D-Seminole, has made a similar argument, saying seniority allowed him to fight for Oklahoma interests.

Sen. Don Nickles, R-Ponca City, who supports term limits they apply to all members of Congress, has also raised objections to Oklahoma's limiting terms until the rest of the country does.

McCurdy Opposes State Term Limit Plan

By Chris Casteel
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rep. Dave McCurdy, who has repeatedly expressed opposition to the concept of term limits, said Tuesday he does not support the state question expected to be approved this fall.

"I believe that this proposal, though politically popular, is not in the best interest of the state," McCurdy, D-Norman, told reporters. "I do not support that provision."

McCurdy, who is running for the U.S. Senate, reiterated his belief that term limits hurt small states since their best way of competing with larger delegations is to build seniority.

And he said it was "ridiculous" for states to impose term limits on their own members when other states' members could serve as long as they could continue to be re-elected.

Fifteen states have already approved term limits for their congressmen.

The U.S. Supreme Court is expected to rule next year whether it is constitutional for states to take the action on their own or if an amendment to the U.S. Constitution is necessary to apply term limits to all states.

Oklahoma voters are expected to approve a question in September that would limit the state's U.S. House members to three, two-year terms and its senators to two, six-year terms.

State Corporation Commissioner Cody Graves, McCurdy's opponent for the Democratic nomination for the Senate, announced he would vote for the question.

McCurdy said Tuesday that political consultants would wring their hands over his position.

"But I will not be hypocritical," he said.

He said if Oklahoma voters approve the question, "the state will have chosen."

"My advice is not to do it."

Graves Gets Rowdy

DEMOCRAT Cody Graves is taking aim at rival Dave McCurdy's presumed lock on their party's U.S. Senate nomination.

McCurdy, U.S. 4th District Representative, is regarded as front-runner in the race. In an interview with The Oklahoman, however, Graves made his own case for support in the Aug. 23 primary.

Graves assails "the idea, 'Hey, I've been in Washington for 14 years. I know more, so let me stay here.' ... What you have to look at ... is a recognition that the process, maybe, isn't functioning. ... Who is willing to stand up to the establishment, ... and say, ... 'I don't think this is right.' It's one thing to say 'I understand the frustrations that lead to term limits,' it's another thing to act on that."

On his rival's part, "There has not been any active participation ... in the areas of congressional reform, campaign finance reform. ... (The system is flawed and we need to make changes. One of my strengths is that I'm willing to stand up, and have done so at the (Corporation) Commission. The people want to see someone who will say, ... 'You're right. We do need to change it.' Instead of protecting the system. ...

"How can you talk about reforming policy and 'all this experience I've got in Washington which is great and wonderful' if you're not prepared to bring real change to the institution itself? It gets back to the point of not just talking about term limits, but acting on it. ...

Graves Pledges To Vote For Term Limits Question In September; Challenges McCurdy to make the same pledge and do "What the People Want"

Democratic U.S. Senate Candidate Cody Graves today announced that, despite some problems with the specifics of the proposal, he will vote in September to limit the terms of Oklahoma's congressional delegation in order to send a message to Washington that people are fed up with a Congress that is out of control and will not listen to the people.

"I've decided that I will vote for term limits in September because it has become clear to me that Congress will not listen to the majority of people on the issue of term limits or just about any other issue," Graves, who supports term limits, said.

"We must force Congress to pass a national term limits measure and the only way we have to do that is to put so much pressure on Congress that they have no choice but to do what the people want."

"This measure would be a step in the right direction. We must start somewhere - this idea shouldn't end with Oklahoma," Graves said. "Term limits will only work if we reform all of Congress."

"That is why I pledge to introduce legislation if I am elected to the U.S. Senate to ensure all members of congress are subject to reasonable term limits," Graves said.

Graves challenged Dave McCurdy, his primary opponent and a 14-year-member of Congress, to announce whether or not he will vote for the measure on September 20.

"In the past, Congressman McCurdy has said he will speak out against this question. I can only take that to mean he will vote against this measure and all other term limit questions, if he remains in Congress," Graves said.

"It is unfortunate that Dave McCurdy is more determined to protect his buddies in an out-of-control Congress, with its huge salaries and special perks, than he is in doing what more than 70 percent of all Oklahomans want - and that is to enact term limits on Congress."

Graves said McCurdy's refusal to support term limits is a clear indication that McCurdy is a Washington insider who has lost touch with the people he is supposed to be representing.

"Dave has been living in Washington for 14 years. Drawing a huge congressional paycheck from taxpayers is really all Congressman McCurdy has done during his lengthy stay in Washington. He's lost touch with the people he's supposed to be representing. His refusal to support term limits is clear proof of that."

For Cody Graves

Perhaps the most important task facing Oklahoma voters this fall is replacing U.S. Senator David Boren. We are proud to endorse Cody Graves for the Democratic nomination for that seat.

Conventional wisdom is that Rep. Dave McCurdy has somehow "earned" the nomination because of his years of service in Washington. That conventional wisdom could cost the Democratic Party—Oklahoma's majority party—its only seat in the U.S. Senate.

Graves has extensive Washington experience, but has spent the last three years in Oklahoma City, dealing with the real, everyday problems of Oklahomans as vice chairman of the Oklahoma Corporation Commission. He's also done much more.

He bucked his party to fight the Btu tax, and won.

He fought hard for ethics reform in Oklahoma, and won.

He has shown the ability to build a bipartisan consensus, working hand-in-hand with Republican J.C. Watts to bring the OCC into the 20th Century.

And, most important, he has spent time talking to the average citizens of Oklahoma so he can better understand their needs.

McCurdy? He's been conspicuous by his absence at event after event where real voters have assembled to learn about the candidates. If he isn't interested in average citizens now, he certainly won't be if he becomes a senator.

McCurdy can say all he wants to about reforming Congress, but he has been part of the institution long enough to be part of the problem.

Graves, on the other hand, has been away from the rarefied air of Washington and back in the real world of Oklahoma long enough to know what the public wants. Yet he is not the kind of naive outsider Washington can tear apart. Graves can and will be part of constructive reform of Congress.

The August primary is partisan by definition, and Democrats have an obligation to select the candidate with the best chance of winning in November.

In this case, that also means selecting the candidate best able to continue David Boren's policy of excellence and common sense moderation.

Democrats run a real risk this year of losing control of the Congressional delegation. With a Democrat in the White House, that would be a disaster for our state.

In the November general election, it is our opinion that Dave McCurdy cannot win. He has never been tested in a statewide race.

Cody Graves, in contrast, won a seat on the Corporation Commission two years ago with the largest vote total in state history. He is young, energetic and an excellent campaigner.

Graves can win in November. And if he does, he will do Oklahoma proud in Washington.

A vote in August for Cody Graves is the best investment in Oklahoma's future a good Democrat can make.

Graves Gets Rowdy

DEMOCRAT Cody Graves is taking aim at rival Dave McCurdy's presumed lock on their party's U.S. Senate nomination.

McCurdy, U.S. 4th District Representative, is regarded as front-runner in the race. In an interview with The Oklahoman, however, Graves made his own case for support in the Aug. 23 primary.

Graves assails "the idea. Hey, I've been in Washington for 14 years. I know more, so let me stay here." ... What you have to look at ... is a recognition that the process, maybe, isn't functioning. ... Who is willing to stand up to the establishment, ... and say, ... 'I don't think this is right.' It's one thing to say 'I understand the frustrations that lead to term limits,' it's another thing to act on that."

On his rival's part, "There has not been any active participation ... in the areas of congressional reform, campaign finance reform. ... (The system is flawed and we need to make changes. One of my strengths is that I'm willing to stand up, and have done so at the (Corporation) Commission. I've done so as the only statewide elected official to go testify before the Ethics Commission about the need to change the way we report campaign financing. ... We need to limit the amount of cash that comes into campaigns. We need to report on a more frequent basis.

"I'm not sure that just because you've been in the House is reason enough to move up to the Senate. Protecting the status quo isn't enough. ... You have to talk about substantive change. ... The people want to see someone who will say, ... 'You're right. We do need to change it.' Instead of protecting the system. ...

"How can you talk about reforming policy and 'all this experience I've got in Washington which is great and wonderful' if you're not prepared to bring real change to the institution itself? It gets back to the point of not just talking about term limits, but acting on it. ...

"There's a proposal out there in Congress right now to allow for a national referendum on national term limits. I'm not sure that will ever get out of committee, not sure that it will ever get enough ... signatures on a discharge petition to bring it before the public. All that says is 'Let the people decide in a national referendum if they think the idea of term limits is a good one.'"

McCurdy Opposes State Term Limit Plan

By Chris Casteel
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON -- Rep. Dave McCurdy, who has repeatedly expressed opposition to the concept of term limits, said Tuesday he does not support the state question expected to be approved this fall.

"I believe that this proposal, though politically popular, is not in the best interest of the state," McCurdy, D-Norman, told reporters. "I do not support that provision."

McCurdy, who is running for the U.S. Senate, reiterated his belief that term limits hurt small states since their best way of competing with larger delegations is to build seniority.

And he said it was "ridiculous" for states to impose term limits on their own members when other states' members could serve as long as they could continue to be re-elected.

Fifteen states have already approved term limits for their congressmen.

The U.S. Supreme Court is expected to rule next year whether it is constitutional for states to take the action on their own or if an amendment to the U.S. Constitution is necessary to apply term limits to all states.

Oklahoma voters are expected to approve a question in September that would limit the state's U.S. House members to three, two-year terms and its senators to two, six-year terms.

State Corporation Commissioner Cody Graves, McCurdy's opponent for the Democratic nomination for the Senate, announced he would vote for the question.

McCurdy said Tuesday that political consultants would wring their hands over his position.

"But I will not be hypocritical," he said.

He said if Oklahoma voters approve the question, "the state will have chosen."

"My advice is not to do it."

Sen. Angela Monson month, Monson said.

High unemployment can be curbed not only through welfare reform and creating more jobs, but by not holding a criminal record against someone for life, Monson said.

Lack of health insurance is more of a problem for blacks, Monson said.

Blacks don't have proper coverage, compared to one-fourth of the rest of the nation.

Monson said the infant mortality rate among black children in the United States is worse than in some Third World countries.

And crime rates in some areas.

"We drive down the streets and the noise and the teenagers have taken over," she said.

Graves Plans to Vote for Term Limits

By Chris Casteel
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — State Corporation Commissioner Cody Graves, running for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, said Wednesday he is planning to vote for the congressional term limits proposal on the statewide ballot this year.

Graves criticized his primary opponent, Rep. Dave McCurdy, D-Norman, for not supporting term limits and challenged him to say whether he would vote for the statewide question.

McCurdy's campaign manager, Tim Phillips, said McCurdy continues to believe that term limits would hurt small states like Oklahoma.

And he said, "I don't think he has to give you or Cody or anyone else an answer," on how he's going to vote on the statewide question.

Gov. David Walters last week picked the Sept. 20 runoff election for a statewide vote on limiting U.S. House members from Oklahoma to three two-year terms and senators to two six-year terms.

The ballot question is the result of an initiative petition drive that netted a record number of signatures in the state.

Graves said McCurdy, who has been in Congress since 1981, had vowed in the past to speak out against the statewide proposal.

"I can only take that to mean he will vote against this measure and all other term limit questions if he remains in Congress,"

Graves said. "It is unfortunate that Dave McCurdy is more determined to protect his buddies in an out-of-control Congress, with its huge salaries and special perks, than he is in doing what more than 70 percent of all Oklahomans want — and that is to enact term limits on Congress."

Phillips said Graves was desperate and was "just searching for an issue and using inflammatory language to do it."

He said McCurdy doesn't think term limits would be good for a state like Oklahoma with a relatively small delegation. With the seniority system in Congress, members from small states can gain clout if they stay in Congress long enough.

Sen. David Boren, D-Seminole, has made a similar argument, saying seniority allowed him to fight for Oklahoma interests.

Sen. Don Nickles, R-Ponca City, who supports term limits, they apply to all members of Congress, has also raised objections to Oklahoma's limiting terms until the rest of the country does.

MEMORANDUM

FROM: BENNETT, PETTS & ASSOCIATES
RE: KEY SURVEY FINDINGS
DATE: JULY 5, 1994

This memorandum summarizes the key findings from a survey of 604 registered Democrats in the state of Oklahoma who are likely to vote in the Democratic primary in August. Telephone interviewing was conducted June 26 - 30, 1994 by trained, professional interviewers following procedures established by Bennett, Petts & Associates. In 95 cases out of 100, the responses to this survey should fall within plus or minus 4.0 percentage points of those that would have been obtained from interviewing the entire population of general election voters from this district. The sampling error for subgroups will be greater.

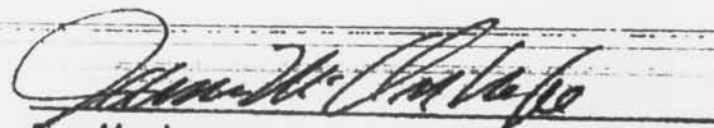

Dave McCurdy is a 7 term Congressman who has fairly high name identification after serving almost 15 years in Washington. In contrast, Cody Graves ran statewide for the first time in 1992 and has had much more limited exposure to the voters of Oklahoma than has Congressman McCurdy. In spite of McCurdy's initial advantages in name recognition and tenure in elective office, Graves is in a dead heat with McCurdy after voters are given more information about the two candidates. Respondents were presented with both positive and negative information about both McCurdy and Graves.

INFORMED VOTE
McCURDY	41%
GRAVES	40%
UNDECIDED	19%

Specifically, voters responded very negatively to McCurdy's long tenure in Washington, his opposition to term limits, and support of the Btu tax. In contrast, Graves' support of term limits and strong and active opposition to the Btu tax were very well received by Democratic primary voters.

Coburn endorses term limit proposal

Congressional candidate Tom Coburn on Monday endorsed the term limit proposal that Oklahoma voters will decide at the ballot box in September. "While I prefer a 12 year limit, I think it is important to establish the principle of term limits in law," Coburn said. "We can worry about the length of service later."

"We need to put a limit on Congress because of politicians like Mike Synar who have bankrupt our country and made a mockery of our moral and ethical values," Coburn said.

"Whatever the length of Congressional service the voters decide is appropriate, I think we can all agree that Synar has been there too long," he said.

Coburn challenged Synar, who has been in Washington, D.C. for 16 years, to explain his position on the current term limits proposal. In the past, Synar has strongly opposed term limits and Coburn said, "it's obvious why he does."

"Term limits actually give voters greater choice. Longtime politicians make the rules to ensure their own survival. It is time for the people to make the rules and return the career politicians to their homes to live under the laws they have created," Coburn said.

Coburn pointed out that governors and presidents have term limits and asked, "Why not Congressmen?"

"I urge Synar to join me in supporting the current term limits proposal," Coburn said.

Oklahoma voters will decide Sept. 20 on a term limit proposal for their congressmen. If approved, members of the U.S. House of Representatives could serve only three terms or six years and United States Senators could serve two six-year terms. Oklahoma voters have already limited the terms of their state legislators.

Coburn fires salvo at incumbent Synar

■ On the offensive:
Republican challenger supports term limits, line-item veto.

By DONNA HALES

Phoenix Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Mike Synar is being attacked on two fronts by Muskogee Republican candidate Tom Coburn — term limits and giving the president recision power over congressional spending bills.

Coburn endorsed the term limit proposal Oklahoma voters will decide in September, citing politicians like Synar as his reason, saying Synar has been in office too long.

Synar responds that term limits "are alive and well — they occur every two years when voters go to the ballot box and exercise their right to vote."

With term limits, congressional seniority would be determined by the size of one's delegation — thus hurting Oklahoma, which has six representatives, and enhance the power of larger states like California, Illinois, Texas and New York, Synar said.

Coburn also took Synar to task for voting against providing the executive branch with "enhanced recision authority" so it could slash spending from congressional spending bills. Congress approved the measure by a 342-69 margin, Coburn said.

"While President Clinton, like Mr. Synar, has an apparent affinity for tax-and-spend policies, it's important to have more accountability in the process," Coburn said. "Giving recision authority to any president — even Bill Clinton — helps add that accountability."

Coburn said he would support a measure that would go even farther — giving the president a line-item veto.

Synar shot back that handing over such power to the president would be irresponsible. Synar has long advocated that any president might use a line-item veto as leverage to try to bring pressure on congressmen to vote on bills of major importance to the president.

"The proposal is a remedy in search of a problem," Synar said.

It's not needed, he said, citing the current recision process works to reduce deficit spending. He said since 1974 that presidents have proposed $69.2 billion in recisions and Congress has approved $21.3 billion of the requested recisions and then initiated $65.1 billion of its own cuts for a total of $86.5 billion in recisions.

"In short, since 1974, Congress has enacted almost $20 billion more in recisions than presidents have asked for," Synar said.

"This legislation is just plain irresponsible — it's a gimmick that gives the president the power to do what is currently Congress' responsibility under the Constitution. Why would Congress pass a bill that gives a measure of their spending power to the president?

"So members don't have to make the tough choices the Constitution and our constituents expect us to make," Synar concluded.

Coburn left town for the weekend and couldn't be reached for comment on Synar's rebuttal, said Coburn spokesman Rick Farmer.

"Republicans and conservatives have been in favor of line-item veto for many years," Farmer said.

Republican candidate Jerry Hill of Muskogee also was out of town and couldn't be reached for comment, but is for term limits, said his brother and campaign manager, Dale Hill.

He said he couldn't speak for his brother on the issue of giving the president rescision power over congressional spending bills.

"I've already signed a declaration I would only run three terms," said Republican candidate T.J. Tipton of Tahlequah, adding that he not only supports term limits but a line-item veto for the president.

Democrat candidate Bill Vardeman of Fort Gibson said he also is for term limits and a line-item veto, giving the president greater rescision powers on congressional spending bills.

Democrat candidate Virgil Cooper of Drumright couldn't be reached for comment.

Republican Doctor Challenges Synar

By Rob Martindale
World Senior Writer

Voters in the 2nd Congressional District will have a "clear-cut choice" this year between a conservative and a liberal, Dr. Tom Coburn, a Republican candidate, said Thursday.

Coburn

Announcing his entry into the race, Coburn attacked U.S. Rep. Mike Synar, the Democratic incumbent, although at least two other Republicans might enter the primary.

Synar has scheduled a Friday press conference to announce his re-election bid.

Coburn said at the Tulsa Press Club, "This campaign pits the conservative people of the 2nd District against a Washington-based liberal elite represented by Mike Synar."

Coburn is a Muskogee businessman and family physician. Synar also is from Muskogee.

Coburn said Synar "is a liberal, Clinton Democrat and a career politician. Surely there is no sharper contrast and no more of a clear-cut choice in any other race in America this year."

In addition to having delivered "almost 3,000 babies," Coburn comes from a well-known Muskogee family. His late father operated Coburn Optical Co. before it was sold.

Before becoming a physician, the younger Coburn headed the Virginia division of Coburn Optical.

Focusing on Synar, the candidate lashed out at a "privileged political elite who justify their existence by spending our money, raising our taxes and regulating our lives."

"They vote themselves huge salaries, hire large staffs who spend much of their time engaged in activities designed to re-elect their employers, and send us thinly disguised campaign mail at our own expense to convince us of our need to retain them in office."

Coburn said he favors term limits, adding, "That is how the people of Oklahoma view public service."

"That is why they voted to limit the time the (state) Legislature can stay in session and to restrict the terms of individual legislators. And that is why they favor similar measures at the federal level."

Since 1978, Synar has won eight elections straight to two-year

House terms. A Republican hasn't held the 2nd District seat since 1920.

The district covers a large section of northeastern Oklahoma.

Coburn called for a strong military, tough anti-crime legislation, fewer regulations on business, more jobs, a balanced budget, a line-item veto "and reduced federal spending to free dollars for investment in productive activities."

There is "no doubt" that health care needs to be improved, but the system proposed by President Clinton would increase taxes and costs, reduce medical options and place a "crushing burden" on small business, he said.

"Instead, we should focus on insurance reforms, medical savings accounts and subsidies for the truly needy," he said.

Coburn graduated from the University of Oklahoma Medical School in 1983. He did his internship in general surgery at Saint Anthony's Hospital in Oklahoma City and his family practice residency at the University of Arkansas.

Congress has deviated from its original intent, Coburn said during a press conference Friday. He is proposing a contract with 2nd District residents, detailing his plans for action as a congressman.

Coburn

"I'm running against the institution of Congress and how it operates," he said. "The goal was for the congressman to represent the values and attitudes of our district, not the other way around. The job of a represen-fact that Congress is not responsive," he said.

The first thing Coburn would like to do is increase the accountability of Congress. He proposes removing the exemption Congress now enjoys from the laws it passes, having independent audits of each congressional office and committee, cutting the number of committees and staff members, term limits for all members of Congress, and changing the franking (free mail) privileges.

Franking should be used to solicit input from constituents, not to brag about a congressman's accomplishments, Coburn believes.

"I think Congress ought to be tative is to represent and that's what I'm going to be doing. I'm going to take your voice to Washington, rather than the other way around."

During the primary campaign, Coburn heard comments that it's easy to criticize the things U.S. Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., has not done, but it's not so easy to say what his successor will do. Synar's defeat in Tuesday's runoff means Coburn will oppose Democrat Virgil Cooper for the position.

Coburn said the elements of his contract are based on responsibility by Congress, personal responsibility, and opportunity.

"It's not a partisan issue, it cuts across Democrat and Republican lines. It's the

(See COBURN on Page 4A)

Coburn proposes fighting crime by making citizens realize they can expect punishment if they break the law. He would like to see federal judges' interference with the Oklahoma prison system limited.

He also would reform welfare by ending policies that discourage marriage and personal responsibility. He supports legislation encouraging families to grow and prosper.

"That is one of the things I've been most involved with in my private life and the civic things I've done, encouraging family formation," he said.

Coburn said if elected he will listen to citizens' concerns and attempt to make government more responsive.

After the press conference, he began his first full day of campaign touring for the general election. Coburn visited Okmulgee, Henryetta, Okemah, and other towns in the southwest.

Candidate lists his top issues

These are the issues Republican congressional candidate Dr. Tom Coburn says he'll concentrate on if elected:

■ Congressional reform: through removing exemption from laws, holding outside independent audits, cutting the number of committees and staff, passing term limits.

- Security for senior citizens: through eliminating the limit on what seniors can earn without losing benefits, repealing the tax on Social Security benefits, protecting seniors from violent crime, preventing use of Social Security funds for other items.

■ Stopping violent criminals: by making prison a punishment, not a vacation, strengthening the state's ability to keep prisoners in jail, limiting federal judges' powers over Oklahoma's prison system, and defending the right to own and bear arms.

Republican launches bid in 1st District

■ Businessman Bill Witt seeks the GOP nomination to run against Democratic incumbent Rep. Elizabeth Furse

By GAIL KINSEY HILL of The Oregonian staff

Under a bright red, yellow and blue banner and flanked by his wife and two sons, Republican businessman Bill Witt, 42, on Tuesday announced his candidacy for the 1st Congressional District seat now held by Democrat Elizabeth Furse.

Witt is probably the best-known of the three men seeking the Republican nomination, and he likely will prove the most conservative. He recently made an unsuccessful run for Oregon Republican Party chairman.

In his announcement speech before an attentive audience at the World Forestry Center in Portland, Witt stressed family values, business investment and less government as the key issues facing the state and the country.

Specifically, Witt said, if elected, he would push a five-pronged agenda: a $1,000 family tax credit for each dependent child; a cut in the capital gains tax rate; new mandatory minimum sentences for violent felons; incentives, such as a voucher system, to encourage parents to send children to the schools of their choice, public or private; and a federal balanced-budget amendment.

Witt, a Washington County resident, is president of Wittco Systems Inc., a marketer of graphic equipment, copiers and fax machines.

Cleve Larson, owner of a management firm, announced his candidacy in November. Barton DeLacy, founder and president of The Appraisal Group, will officially throw his hat in the ring next week, bringing the Republican primary field to three. Both are from the Portland area.

Furse faces no Democratic opposition.

Bill Witt

Bill Witt is a long-time resident of Oregon and currently lives in Washington County with his wife Gail and two sons, Austin and Eric.

Bill was born on December 12, 1951, the son of Francis and Mary Lou Witt. He is the fifth in a family of six children.

Among Bill's accomplishments:

- Graduated with Highest Honors from Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio in 1973 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in history;
- Selected as a member of Phi Beta Kappa, a national honor society for academic achievement;
- Graduated from the University of Chicago Law School in 1976;
- Guided the purchase of Finzer Business Machines, a small Oregon company, in 1978;
- As company President, he led the growth of Wittco Systems, Inc., from a $1.2 million, 15 employee company, into a 65 employee, $12 million business enterprise that markets graphic equipment, copiers, fax machines, and digital duplicators in four western states.

An advocate of good government, Bill has been politically active for many years. He has donated time, money, and equipment to Republican candidates and efforts throughout Oregon.

In 1992, Bill was elected co-Chair of the Oregon Delegation to the Republican National Convention in Houston. He served on the Finance Committee for Tony Meeker's 1992 First District Congressional campaign and was a member of the Steering Committee for the Oregon Bush-Quayle campaign. Bill has worked diligently to reconcile party divisions and forge a united Oregon Republican Party.

Bill is currently a member of several civic organizations including:

- The Executive Committee, a national organization of CEOs
- The Tigard Chamber of Commerce
- The World Affairs Council of Oregon
- Board member - Edgefield Children's Center.
- Previously he was a founding member of the Oregon Public Policy Institute.

Bill and his family are involved in their church and community. Bill coaches youth baseball, soccer, and basketball teams. ★

Dear Friend:

On May 17 Republican voters in the First Congressional District selected me to be their nominee to run against Democrat Elizabeth Furse. Despite competition from two well funded, capable primary opponents, I received 52% of the vote winning in 5 of the 6 counties included in the District. Now I am pleased to say that both Barton DeLacy and Cleve Larson have pledged their active support.

Elizabeth Furse can be defeated this November. The ultra-liberal high tax, big government spending record of Ms. Furse is out of step with the concerns and the values of her constituents.

I need your help now to put together an effective campaign. Ms. Furse will be well-financed by unions, radical environmental groups and social activists. Solid support from Oregon's business community is needed to offset her incumbency.

For you to clearly understand what my priorities will be in the Congress I offer the following:

* Assisting Economic Growth-- I will propose intelligent tax reductions that incent and reward work, savings and investment. Unlike my opponent, I recognize that growth comes from the private sector, not government. By reducing marginal tax rates and taxes on long term investment income, we will enjoy more robust economic growth.

* Balancing the Federal Budget-- The growing national debt is a threat to all of us and to the long term economic viability of our country. We need representatives in Congress who respect fiscal integrity and are committed to balancing the budget, not by raising taxes but by cutting wasteful, ineffective government programs.

* Promoting Free Trade-- Our future prosperity in Oregon depends on the opportunity to import and export without burdensome tariffs or restrictions. I will work vigorously to remove trade barriers around the world so Oregon businesses can succeed in foreign markets.

* Getting Government off the Back of Business -- For too long we have allowed government to be an enemy to productive business. Congress continues to encourage litigation against business owners through poorly designed and poorly implemented legislation. Furthermore, the business owner is increasingly made the "fall guy" for the ills and the shortcomings of society. We must protect employers from frivolous litigation.

9 6 0 4 3 7 6 2 3 7 6

* Health Care Reform -- We need to preserve choice and competition in our health care system. I will oppose employer mandates and further government socialization of American health care.

As a successful business owner, I understand the challenges facing business today. I recognize the damage done by a Congress that overtaxes and over-regulates the businesses of America. I need your help if I am to take a pro-business perspective to Congress.

I ask your support for my candidacy in the following ways:

* Make a significant contribution to my campaign. Individuals can contribute up to $1,000 per Congressional election (couples can contribute $2,000). Please consider making a contribution of $1,000, $500 or whatever you can.

* Arrange an opportunity for me to meet with key members of your firm or industry to present my candidacy and build further support for my election.

* Contact your industry associations or political action committees to help prepare the way for me to raise funds from business associations.

We can take this seat back from the anti-business ultra-liberal Elizabeth Furse. As a business owner and as one who wants to work for a future of greater economic opportunity for all, I ask for your help.

The enclosed yellow card and return envelope are for your convenience. I would like to hear from you with any thoughts or concerns. Please feel free to call me at 646-1386.

Sincerely,

Bill Witt

P.S. This election is a very winnable one. Most experts believe this district is tailor-made for a pro-business Republican. Please give me your support now so we can build a winning campaign.

ELIZABETH FURSE: Statements Contradict Actions

Subject 1: Taxes, Spending and Deficits

1. 1992 Congressional Campaign--Elizabeth Furse claims that new taxes are not necessary.

"We don't need new taxes--we need better economic priorities. We can do fine with what we've got if we spend it wisely."

Hillsboro Argus, Oct. 27, 1992

2. February, 1993--One month after assuming office, Furse comes out in favor of new taxes.

"What people in my district are saying is that. . .we have to pay the bill. They are ready as long as it's fair."

Roseburg News-Review, Feb. 15, 1993

3. February, 1993--Furse states that higher taxes are necessary, because the deficit was higher than expected.

"I'm sad to see the deficit has grown as that we have to increase taxes."

Daily Astorian, Feb. 22, 1993

4. May, 1993--Furse votes in favor of Clinton tax increase. At the same time she votes against substitute plan written by Rep. John Kasich that reduced the deficit without tax increases.

Portland Oregonian, May 28, 1993

5. August, 1993--At a McMinnville town meeting, Furse admits that she voted for the tax increase despite the fact that most constituents who called her office opposed it.

Newberg Graphic, August 21, 1993

6. November, 1993--Furse votes against the bi-partisan Penny-Kasich bill that would have cut federal spending by more than $90 billion in order to reduce the deficit.

Portland Oregonian, Nov. 28, 1993

7. January, 1994--The National Taxpayer Union ranks Elizabeth Furse 28th out of 435 House members in terms of proposed new spending, nearly $600 billion.

35% of Furse's contributions greater than $200 were not fully identified. This despite the fact that the law requires the campaign to identify all contributors who give more than $200.

4. June, 1993--Furse votes against public disclosure of the federal investigation into alleged wrongdoing by Congressman Rostenkowski.

5. 1993--Furse undermines efforts to reform the Congress. In 1993 she votes against the following initiatives:

a) House Resolution 107 (to cut committee funds by 25% in the House).

b) H.R. 2348 (to cut Congressional operations by 5%).

c) H. Res. 5, "Michel Amendment" (proposal to have House term limits for committee chairs).

d) H.R. 3 (proposal to eliminate PAC funding of Congressional campaigns and to require candidates to raise a majority of contributions from within their districts).

e) H.R. 1, "Fawell Motion" (proposal to require the Family and Medical Leave law to be applied to the House of Representatives).

6. 1993--Congressional Quarterly reports that Elizabeth Furse was one of only eleven Democrats in the House who supported her party's position on 99% of the votes.

April 28, 1994

Dear Community Leader,

I am writing to you as a small business owner, an individual active in his community and a fellow Chamber of Commerce member. My company, Wittco Systems Inc., is a member of the Tigard Chamber of Commerce. In addition, I am a member of the Hillsboro Chamber on an individual basis.

Six months ago I commenced a campaign for Congress in Oregon's First Congressional District. I made the decision to run for Congress because I believe the federal government is damaging our families, our small businesses and our local communities through excessive taxes, regulations and mandates. Washington seems to believe that the only purpose for business to exist is to have income to tax for bigger and bigger government.

It is my plan to go to Congress to work for the following reforms:

* Balancing the Federal Budget-- The growing national debt is a threat to the economic health of all of us. We need representatives in Congress who respect fiscal integrity and are committed to balancing the budget, not by raising taxes but by cutting wasteful, inefficient programs.

* Assisting Economic Growth-- I recognize that individuals and businesses bring about economic growth, not government. The key to economic growth is hard work, innovation, savings and investment. Government can help bring about economic growth and better jobs by lowering business and capital gains taxes and creating greater opportunity and incentive for savings and investment.

* Health Care Reform-- We need to preserve choice and competition in our health care system. While we can and should work for incremental reform to make health insurance available for all, we should not support increased socialization of our health care system. Furthermore I will oppose efforts by Congress to impose more health care costs on the business owners of America.

* Promoting Free Trade-- I believe American business can compete successfully anywhere in the world. Our future prosperity in Oregon depends on the opportunity to import and export without burdensome tariffs and restrictions. I will work vigorously for lowering trade barriers around the world so Oregon businesses can succeed in foreign markets.

* Building Strong Families in America-- Ultimately we will only be as successful as the American family is successful. We need to lower the tax burden on American families, strive to improve the quality of education we provide our children and bring about effective welfare reform. We also need to aggressively combat the tragic spread of violent crime in America.

I will take a pro-business, pro-family perspective to Congress next year. If I am to be elected, I need your help. Please consider doing one or all of the following:

* Make a financial contribution to my campaign by using the enclosed yellow card. I can promise that your contribution will be effectively used and greatly appreciated.

* Display a Witt for Congress yard sign at your home or business.

* Send out Witt for Congress literature to your friends and associates, urging them to support my candidacy.

* Host a meeting at your home or business where I can talk with some of your friends and associates.

I will be on the ballot as a Republican on May 17. I ask for your vote and your active support. As a small business owner, a citizen active in his community and a family man, I am committed to helping create a more prosperous, healthier America for all of us. Please give me your vote and your support.

I would very much appreciate hearing from you with your thoughts or concerns. Please feel free to call me at 646-1386.

Thank you.

Sincerely yours,

Bill Witt

P. S. The Republican primary is only two weeks away. Please give me your support today so we can work together for a better Oregon and a better America.

To the Editor:

It was disappointing to read your April 30 editorial criticizing Republican congressional candidate Barton DeLacy for his strong support for limiting the terms of incumbent politicians.

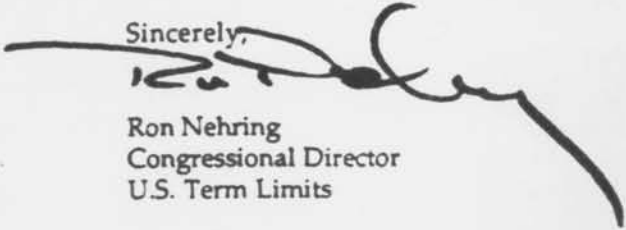

In 1992, over 22 million Americans in 14 states overwhelmingly passed congressional term limit initiatives, many of which limited state legislative and gubernatorial terms as well. In fact, term limits received a greater percentage of the vote in each of the 14 states than any of the presidential candidates, and more votes than Ross Perot in all 50. Further, nearly 7 out of 10 Oregon voters turned out in favor of term limits in 1992. America's desire for change resounds in the voter mandate for term limits.

Curiously, The Oregonian contends that with term limits "Oregon, a low population state, eventually would be denied the seniority it needs to be heard in Washington, D.C." This assertion simply does not correspond with reality. Over one-third of U. S. House members are now term-limited, including members from heavily populated states such as California (population: 30 million) and Florida (13 million), as well as sparsely populated North Dakota (711,000) and Wyoming (466,000).

America was founded on the ideals of public service and a citizen legislature. Go to Congress. Represent your constituents as best you can. Then go home to live under the laws you helped create. These were the principles of the founding fathers, and the principles to which Barton DeLacy and hundreds of other congressmen and candidates have committed themselves.

Barton DeLacy, by supporting the enactment of meaningful term limits, has sided with the people of Oregon, rather than with Washington's political elite. Clearly, this is good news for the people of the first Congressional district.

FURSE REFUSES TO ACCEPT DeLACY CHALLENGE

Incumbent Congresswoman Elizabeth Furse has refused to accept Republican candidate Barton DeLacy's challenge to sign a term limits pledge. The DeLacy pledge states that, if elected, no more than three additional terms will be served in the U.S. House of Representatives regardless of any judicial challenge. In a phone conversation Tuesday, Ms. Furse's campaign manager, Paige Richardson, confirmed that the pledge had been received by the Congresswoman. When asked if the Congresswoman would sign, Ms. Richardson replied, "No." She also volunteered that "we would 'talk' about term limits after the primary."

Reiterating the importance of this issue DeLacy said, "In light of the current legal controversies concerning the enforceability of term limits, I want to offer voters protection. I will continue to challenge all participants in this race to publicly pledge to abide by the Oregon Term Limits Amendment as I have."

Rep. Furse often states publicly that she "has always been a supporter of term limits". Yet, when pressed, recent public statements reveal that she only supports term limits if all members of Congress are subject. DeLacy pointed out that this is not what Oregon voters overwhelmingly supported in November of 1992. DeLacy asked, "Can we expect Ms. Furse to pursue a long career in Congress?"

In November of 1992 voters of Oregon, through the initiative process, overwhelmingly approved term limits for all elected representatives. I believe term limits are an effective congressional reform initiated upon Congress by the ultimate legislator - The Citizens of Oregon.

As stated in the measure (Ballot Measure 3, 1992), Federal positions are to be subject to limitations. Specifically, the U.S. House of Representatives to three terms (six years).

I agree with the prudence of Oregon voters. I supported term limits then and I support term limits now.

In light of the threat of judicial challenge to this aspect of the law I make this pledge: -

.....

I P. Barton DeLacy pledge to the voters of Oregon that if elected I will serve no more than three terms (six years) in the U.S. House of Representatives. I will keep this pledge regardless the result of any and all judicial challenge or change.

The Wes Cooley Biography

COOLEY
FOR CONGRESS

Wester S. "Wes" Cooley was born March 28, 1932 to Harold and Bernita Cooley of Cottage Grove, Oregon, where they met and married. They divorced when Wes was very young.

Wes is a fourth-generation Oregon pioneer. Following the Spanish-American War of 1898, Wes' paternal grandfather moved to Cottage Grove where he started his own bakery. Wes' father, Harold, was born in Cottage Grove and grew up there working alongside his father in the family-owned business. Harold Cooley later became a pharmacist and pharmacy owner in both Grants Pass and Glendale, Oregon, where he is now retired.

Wes' mother's side of the family also has a long tradition in Oregon. His maternal great grandfather, John Jeans, was a farmer who owned approximately 2,000 acres near Eugene. Mr. Jeans funded one of the first schools in the area, personally paying the teacher's salary to teach the children of farm-lands. Wes' maternal grandfather, William Jeans, employed as many as 100 workers in the timber mills he owned. He was also a rancher and international exporter of Oregon fruits, cattle, grain and wood products. Part of the Jeans' timber holdings is still in the family . . . under the supervision of Wes Cooley.

As a boy, Wes excelled at academics and athletics, participating in football, track, water polo and swimming before graduating from high school in 1949.

Following graduation, the young Cooley joined the Army and was chosen for the elite Special Forces Group serving in both the 10th and 77th Units, where he also received Army intelligence training. Wes, a Korean War veteran, was honorably released in 1954.

After serving in the Armed Forces, Wes entered El Camino Community College in California where he earned an Associate of Arts degree and was admitted to the Phi Beta Kappa honorary academic fraternity. While attending El Camino, Wes was elected Men's Student Body President.

Eager to continue his education and follow in his father's footsteps by entering the health-care industry, Wes was accepted at the University of Southern California. In 1958, he received his Bachelor of Science degree in Business.

Wes quickly moved into positions of responsibility after graduation. Straight out of college he was recruited to work as Assistant to the President of Hyland Labs, a division of Baxter Labs. While working for Hyland, Wes was offered a position at the fledgling Allergan Pharmaceuticals Company, which specialized in manufacturing ophthalmics. During his seven years with the company, Allergan grew from 4 to 250 employees. Sales rose to twelve and a half million dollars annually.

From Allergan, Wes was recruited to help start a pharmaceutical business called ICN. Wes served as Assistant to the President/Chairman of the Board and as a Division Manager, Director of Drug Regulatory Affairs and, eventually, Vice President of their Viratek Division. He was responsible for operating divisions world-wide in Regulatory Affairs and Marketing and traveled internationally for the company, which now has sales of one-half billion dollars per year.

In addition to his work in the pharmaceutical business, Wes was a national champion Grand Prix motorcycle racer.

As you pay closer attention to the many candidates who are running for Congress, I hope you remember this letter and keep this information on file. I want to serve as your Congressman because I think the Second Congressional District needs -- and deserves -- continuing representation by someone with hands-on agricultural experience. And while you might not work directly in agriculture yourself, I bet you understand how important it is to Oregon's economic future.

After reviewing the information enclosed, I hope you'll think hard about stepping forward now and supporting my campaign. My successful campaign for the State Senate was truly a grass roots victory with lots of help from lots of people. That's how I'll win this race with your support today.

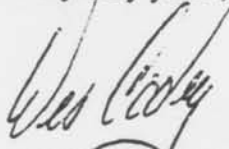

If you like what you've read so far, then please consider making a one-time contribution of $100, $50, $25, even $10 to help us on our campaign trail to victory. For example, your contribution of only $26.25 will purchase 250 pamphlets. We also need help to purchase lawn and field signs very soon. Can you send the Wes Cooley for Congress campaign $26.25?

If you believe the right kind of experience does make a difference, then I need your help today to win this very crowded Primary Election.

Together, we can make certain our voice continues to be heard in the halls of our Nation's Capitol in Washington, D.C.

If you have any questions about me or the campaign, please feel free to contact me at your convenience. Thank you for your time and, more importantly, for your leadership and commitment to the Republican Party. I look forward to seeing you on the campaign trail.

Very truly yours,

WES COOLEY

P.S.: While it will be impossible for me to attend every meeting in the Second District, I hope you'll invite me to meetings in your area. I will make every effort to attend.

I hope you take the time to give me a call and provide me with your insight on the important issues we will face in the coming years. On the campaign trail, or as your Congressman, I will always take time to listen -- that's what being a representative is all about!

Please take a moment and complete the enclosed return card and mail it with your check for the Wes Cooley for Congress campaign!

FOR CONGRESS

Dear Republican:

There is no single person more important in the political process than the local campaign supporter. Grass roots politics is the life's blood of the Republican Party and that's why I'm writing to you today. I need your help . . . but more about that in a moment.

For more than ten years Bob Smith has been our Representative in Washington, D.C. And, Bob Smith has been a true representative. No one was more disappointed than I to hear that he is retiring. But after more than a decade on the east coast, I certainly can't blame him and his wife, Kaye, for wanting to come home to Oregon.

Now Republicans must find someone to replace Rep. Bob Smith in Congress. After criss-crossing the district with my wife, Rosemary, and receiving encouragement from lots of old friends and new acquaintances, on February 2nd I began my campaign for the opportunity to serve you in Congress.

My campaign is in full swing and I'm working every day to earn your support.

Before asking for your help, I want to tell you a little about myself. To date, I have traveled more than 5,000 miles across the Second District to personally meet as many people as possible. And while I will continue to travel from Medford to Pendleton, Bend to Ontario and everywhere inbetween, I will never meet enough people to win the campaign. So, I have enclosed some information about me and I hope you'll take the time to look it over.

There are a lot of important campaigns in Oregon in 1994 -- control of the Oregon House and Senate, the Governor's race -- and the race for Congress. I believe the race for Congress is the most crucial. Let me explain why.

Bill and Hillary Rodham Clinton continue to lead America on a path to social and economic failure. Only Congress has the power to stand up and say, "NO" to our co-Presidents. Bob Smith has done that for us since Clinton's inauguration last year. But as Bill, Hillary Rodham and ultra-liberals Vice President Al Gore and Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt continue to scheme against business-owners, timber families, farmers, ranchers, miners and rural land-owners, our new Representative must be willing to stand up to the President and say, "NO MORE!" What America needs most is not the largest tax increase in America's history, which Clinton proposed and passed last year.

What we need is a Balanced Budget Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and vigilance in reducing wasteful bureaucratic spending.

Experience Does Make A Difference

Wes Cooley's Congressional announcement remarks. February 2, 1994.

Thank you for coming this morning. Let me first introduce my hardest-working campaigner, my best friend and wife, Rosemary.

I have travelled across the Second Congressional District for nearly two months. I have logged thousands of miles in an effort to determine whether to campaign for Congress. After visiting with hundreds of people and seeking the counsel of my friends, colleagues and, most importantly, my family, I have decided to enter the race for Congress in the Second Congressional District.

Please let me take a moment to explain how I concluded that I am prepared to serve the people of Oregon in our Nation's Capitol.

In 1982 we sent a cattle rancher from Burns, Oregon, to Washington, D.C. That rancher, Bob Smith, has represented the Second Congressional District for more than a decade with the integrity of a statesman, the heart of a true public servant, the compassion of a father and the good humor and tell-it-like-it-is attitude found in most Oregonians who work the land for a living.

Congressman Bob Smith has been a true representative in every sense of the word. Oregon has been very fortunate to have his voice of experience and common sense in Congress.

In effect, Oregonians "hired" Bob Smith in 1982 to work for us in Washington, D.C. But our guy in Washington is retiring. In 1994, we won't be just "hiring" a new Congressman, we'll be replacing a good friend and a trusted employee: Bob Smith the statesman, Bob Smith the cowboy and Bob Smith the Oregonian.

A lot of people are campaigning because they think they can fill Bob Smith's shoes in Congress. I am running because I'll fill his cowboy boots!

When any business -- big or small -- hires a new employee after someone retires, they have some important questions to ask. For example:

Did the retiring employee do a good job? If the employee did a good job, then do we "hire" someone with the same values and a similar background or do we experiment with someone totally different?

If we experiment, we run the risk of hiring someone with different values and different priorities.

My question for the voters of the Second Congressional District is, "what kind of person do you want serving you in Congress?"

Bob Smith is effective precisely because of his real-world experience. Let's face it, there aren't many farmers or ranchers in Congress. He has knowledge that can't be learned from books or absorbed from listening to testimony in some hearing.

Bob Smith has a workingman's understanding of agriculture. That's made him an effective leader on issues like grazing fees, water rights, farm subsidies and other vital issues.

If Oregonians want their new "employee" in Washington, D.C. to represent them like Bob Smith has, then I believe they will "hire" someone a lot like Bob Smith.

I'm here this morning to say if you like Bob Smith, you'll love Wes Cooley.

My campaign will be that simple. I have the background and the experience needed to continue Bob Smith's legacy of representing farmers, ranchers, loggers, mill workers, business owners, landowners and taxpayers in Oregon. Experience does make a difference.

In a way, this campaign is like applying for a job. I want to represent you -- to serve you -- in Congress. This announcement begins my job interview with the voters of the Second Congressional District.

So let me share with you my resumé and how it compares to your employee -- Bob Smith -- who is retiring.

Bob Smith is a cattle rancher by profession. So am I. Bob Smith served in the Oregon Legislature before running for Congress. I serve now as a State Senator.

I am a long-time member of the Cattlemen's Association and the Farm Bureau. In fact, I once served as a County President for the Farm Bureau, and I received a perfect 100 percent score for my voting record in the State Senate from the Farm Bureau.

I also offer Oregonians more than agricultural experience. For two decades I worked in the international pharmaceutical business. Now, Rosemary and I run our own small business. I have first-hand experience in balancing a budget, making payroll and making a business grow. That means I also have first-hand experience on the negative impact government has on prosperity for big corporations, small businesses and families.

My years in the pharmaceutical business also give me a background in the health-care industry. I understand many of the problems from first-hand experience. I am certain that a new, government health-care bureaucracy is not the solution to our health-care problems. Putting the federal government in charge of our health is like telling Dr. Kevorkian you have a headache! It's prescription for pain and suffering followed by a slow death.

As a member of Congress, I won't be afraid to take on Hillary Rodham Clinton and her health-care plan because its path is one of higher costs, fewer services and long waiting lines for care.

"I don't want more federal control of Oregon. Instead, I want Oregonians to have more control of their government!"

INDEPENDENT FOR CONGRESS!

Mark Brunelle -- cement mason, published historical novelist, political writer and trade lecturer, was born in Oregon City in 1949. Mark grew up in Milwaukie where he graduated from high school in 1967. He began as an apprentice in the construction industry and worked for a time in the forests of Central Oregon. He later attended Monterey Peninsula College where he graduated with honors as student of the year in 1984. He and his wife Pamela have been married 22 years and have two daughters aged 19 and 16.

Mark's community activities include membership in the Oregon Consumer League, Willamette Writers, and years of past volunteer work with the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

As a political activist, Brunelle has lectured on the subject of international trade agreements in Oregon, Washington and California. He has written extensively on subjects of national and international importance and has an ongoing dialogue with members of the executive branch and both houses of Congress in both parties. His opinions and problem-solving ability have been well received and respected by professors, labor leaders, governors, and even foreign heads of state.

OREGON'S 3RD DISTRICT NEEDS NEW IDEAS AND NEW SOLUTIONS —

MARK BRUNELLE FOR CONGRESS

JOBS

☐ We can expand our economy by lowering taxes to create private sector jobs. Higher taxes always shrink the economy, yet never reduce the deficit!

☐ Most business and working people know that the Clinton proposal to use deficit spending to retrain the unemployed for jobs that don't exist, will not work.

☐ I'm prepared to offer an economic model that will create the 1/2 million new manufacturers and businesses we so urgently need; a plan that reforms the tax system to make America investor-friendly and to put people and domestic industry back to work.

TRADE

☐ I can't name a single nation in history that has ever prospered by exporting its manufacturing base. Yet this is exactly what our country has been doing for over twenty years!

☐ Let's rethink the trade policies which have given away our industrial superiority, eroded our standard of living, and compromised the sovereignty of this nation.

☐ Without a strong and growing middle class we will continue to see a shrinking tax base unable to sustain our basic needs. 200 members of the House of Representatives already agree with this assessment!

SOCIAL SECURITY

☐ Special attention needs to be paid to the unethical "harvesting" of the social security trust fund surplus to insure that all Americans can retire with dignity.

DEBT

☐ It is totally irresponsible to leave our children a growing debt of over $4.3 trillion, but it is insane to take away their ability to pay it off! It's time we review all entitlement programs in order to regain control over our massive federal spending; even if it requires a balanced budget amendment.

TO: Jim Bunn for Congress Steering Committee
FROM: Bob Moore
RE: Oregon Congressional District Five Survey Results

The race for Congress is wide open.

- Bunn is supported by a larger percentage of voters than Webber, but the largest percentage was undecided.
- Awareness levels of both candidates are identical, and Bunn enjoys a positive image among the electorate.
- District voters are divided in their partisanship; 42% are registered as Democrats, 39% Republicans, and the remaining 19% are Independents.

However, Bunn is well positioned to win the race because he is closer to voters on more issues than Webber. For example:

- Bunn's support of a balanced budget amendment is favored by almost 80%. Webber opposes the amendment.
- His support for a "free market" approach to health care is favored 68% to 19% over Webber's support for a single-payer system.
- Bunn's support for amending the Endangered Species Act to factor in human considerations is favored 60% to 31% over Webber's opposition.

CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT FIVE INITIAL ANALYSIS

Oregon's Fifth Congressional District was formed in 1981 when redistricting split the Second Congressional District. Republican Denny Smith, who had represented the 2nd District became the Representative for the newly created 5th District. Rep. Smith held the seat until 1991 when he was defeated by Democrat Mike Kopetski (his second try) after a very hard fought, negative campaign.

There are currently 353,763 registered voters in the district. Of the voters, 148,914 (42%) are Democrats, 137,952 (39%) are Republicans, and 65,390 (18%) are Independent.

It appears that Democrats hold no clear advantage in the district. As a matter of fact, Republicans have held the seat longer than Democrats. A closer look at voter registration and voting history in the counties that make up the district reveals that a conservative to moderate Republican could very realistically win a race against a moderate to liberal Democrat. Some key issues in the district revolve around loss of timber jobs and maintaining family farms. Most communities want to keep their small town atmosphere and fight any encroaching "urbanite" problems such as crime, gangs, drugs, teen pregnancy and anything else that appears to strike at their "family values".

Salem is the possible exception to these attitudes. The population in Marion County is concentrated here in Oregon's capital city which is the third largest in the state and the largest in the district. There is still growing concern that some of Portland's "big city problems" are drifting south. Again, crime, gangs, and drugs are major concerns for voters here.

The Clackamas County portion of the district is similar in make-up to Marion County in that they share many of the same rural vs. urban concerns. The major difference is in the income of the urban residents. Most voters work in private sector jobs as opposed to the public sector jobs held by many urban Marion County residents. The "keep government out of business" mentality is more prevalent among these voters.

The Coastal region of the district has an economy based on tourism, fishing, dairying, and timber. More liberal than the Willamette Valley parts of the district, the main concerns of voters on the coast are economic rather than social. Timber industries here are failing and tourism is the source of income for many residents. Obviously the economic instability of the nation affects the livelihood here. Therefore, a sound, stable economy is probably the foremost concern of voters in coastal counties.

Statement on the Issues

During the past thirty years our nation has experienced an enormous increase in the size and scope of government. This expansion has been particularly pronounced at the federal level. Whereas in 1960 barely 30% of our gross national product consisted of government spending, by 1990 it had grown to roughly 42%.

As government spending has increased, higher taxes have been levied to finance expanded programs. These increases have taken place through a variety of tax measures at the federal, state and local levels. In addition, taxes have risen due to the deliberate failure of the federal government to index the personal exemption to the rate of inflation. These tax increases have led to an onerous burden on working middle class families. While in the 1950's most median income families with children paid less than 15% of their income in taxes, today that same family pays nearly 40% of their income in taxes (federal, state, and local taxes).

In conjunction with vastly increased government spending and the higher taxes that were necessary to finance this growth, we have experienced a clear, dramatic social and cultural breakdown in America. Crime rates, especially violent crime, have grown explosively. Births out of wedlock, drug abuse, broken families and educational decline all reflect greater social dysfunctionality. Despite a multitude of federal programs during the past 30 years to eliminate poverty, high levels of seemingly intractable poverty remain. It has become clear that there are definite limits to the ability of government to solve social and cultural ills.

I believe America's strength relates directly to the strength of its families. If we are going to make significant and lasting progress on social problems, we need to reinforce the opportunity for families to stay together. I believe government can help in the following ways:

1. Tax Relief for Families -- I support a $1,000 tax credit per child for families with dependent children. This will help restore the value of the personal exemption and provide parents a better opportunity to provide educational opportunities for their children. I also support indexing the value of the personal exemption for inflation.

2. Creating Family Wage Paying Jobs -- During the past fifteen years, Oregon has experienced a significant decline in job compensation relative to the national average. In 1980 Oregon jobs paid better than the national average, while today they are decidedly below the average. I believe we must adopt policies that will lead to better jobs by reducing the tax rate on long term investment income to a maximum of 15% (The present maximum rate is 28%). By encouraging greater savings and investment, government can help lay the basis for a growing, more prosperous private sector that will create more good jobs.

In addition, I support maintaining a viable natural resource based economy in Oregon by amending federal environmental legislation so that appropriate consideration is given to economic impact. We must work for a responsible balance in federal policy to preserve a healthy environment while at the same time protecting Oregon industry and Oregon jobs.

3. Education Reform -- It is clear that America's public education system is in crisis. Attempts to repair the system with more money have not succeeded. In fact most studies indicate there is no clear relationship between the amount of money spent on education and the effectiveness of instruction.

I believe the federal government should take a very limited role in education. Instead of expanding the mandates imposed on our schools, the federal government should limit itself to conducting research and providing funds to programs of a critical, but very specific nature. These might include language programs for students of non-English speaking homes and remedial or head start programs for culturally deprived children. Ultimately local school districts should be encouraged to focus their dollars in the classroom, not in administration. Furthermore, states and local school districts should begin to provide greater educational choice to parents to allow them to select the public, private or church affiliated school they believe will be best for their child.

In addition to issues directly tied to the family, I would like to address the following matters before the Congress:

1. Balanced Budget Amendment -- I favor an amendment to the Constitution that requires a balanced federal budget. Specifically, I would have voted in favor of the recent bill in the House that required a balanced budget by 2001 with the ability of override based on a 60% vote of both the House and the Senate.

2. Health Care Reform -- I favor incremental reforms that help provide affordable health care insurance to all Americans. This includes tax credits and direct federal assistance for low income families specifically for the purchase of health care insurance. I also favor the use of medical IRA's to allow individuals and families to save funds tax free to pay for non-catastrophic medical expenses. Furthermore I will support legislation to insure health insurance portability, reform of pre-existing illness restrictions and limitations to medical tort liability.

I believe we can maintain patient choice and physician and health care quality and at the same time make health care affordable and accessible to all Americans. This should be accomplished by reforming our present system. I oppose greater government centralization of our health care system that restricts individual choice or artificially caps health care expenditures. We should resist any attempt to expand the health care bureaucracy.

3. Criminal Justice Reform -- I support mandatory minimum sentence guidelines for repeat, violent felons. I also favor boot camps for young offenders. I am opposed to lifetime incarceration (3 strikes you're out, etc.) for repeat felonies as it is too simplistic and not a thoughtful response to the complex issue of crime nor a responsible use of our limited prison facilities.

4. Social Security -- I favor the preservation of social security benefits for all retirees now and in the future. The federal government must fulfill the trust it has made with the American people by prudently and responsibly protecting the financial integrity of the social security system.

5. National Defense -- I urge caution in further defense reductions. As a world leader it is imperative we maintain a strong military preparedness that allows us to protect our vital interests around the world while at the same time working for world peace.

In the future, Congress should support a more restrained and a more fiscally responsible role for the federal government. It should focus taxpayer dollars on those endeavors that either are the exclusive responsibility of the federal government or can yield significant and measurable benefit to the American people. Equally important it should operate within its means and make a firm commitment to the principle of a balanced budget. In the long run the government can't create a more prosperous, more healthy America, but through prudent policies it can help the American people achieve their greatest opportunities.

U.S. Term Limits

Washington, D.C. 20005

Dear Mr. Jacob:

I appreciate your letter of July 6 regarding the position of your organization for limiting members of the House to 3 terms (6 years). As you know, Ohio voters have decided that they want their members of Congress limited to 4 terms (8 years). Because Ohioans have spoken for such term limits, it would be inconsistent for me to take a different position in favor of term limits. Being divided over the details of term limits will only help opponents to halt our efforts at returning to a Citizen Congress.

The voters of my district have approved the contract that I returned to your office. In fact, the Ohio term limits measure (2 4-year terms for statewide officeholders, 4 2-year terms for Congressional Members, and 2 6-year terms for Senators) passed overwhelmingly in my district. As such, I do represent the majority of voters in my district, as I have been elected to do. A limit of 4 2-year terms will achieve the kind of reforms inherent in a Citizen Congress that your organization and the American people desire.

The contract that I sent to you is my pledge to both your organization and my constituents. Unlike most members of Congress, I am supportive of the national movement for term limits. While you may prefer slightly different limits, I trust that you will communicate my position accurately in any organizational mailings to Ohio members.

Sincerely,

David Mann
Member of Congress

Cremeans for Congress

P.O. Box 632 Gallipolis, Oh 45631 (614) 446-8725 Fax (614) 446-8777

CREMEANS ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR SIXTH CONGRESSIONAL SEAT

Maintaining that the traditionally conservative voters of Southern Ohio have lost their collective voice in the halls of Congress, Gallia County businessman, Frank Cremeans, today announced his candidacy for the U.S. House of Representatives from Ohio's Sixth Congressional District. Cremeans, long active in business and community affairs in his native Gallipolis, is seeking the Republican nomination to challenge incumbent Congressman, Ted Strickland of Lucasville.

In announcing his candidacy for Congress, Cremeans voiced particular concern with the failure of the Administration and Congress to effectively deal with the pressing issues of crime, health care, welfare and tax reform, and the creation of meaningful employment opportunities for out-of-work Americans.

Claiming that the public is growing tired of career politicians who seek office more for self-gratification than for the good of society, Cremeans indicated that he strongly supports term limits for members of Congress and would push for them if elected. "It is time we got back to the citizen legislator who views his job in the context of what he can do for his country rather than what his candidacy can do for him. The American voter wants problem solvers. They want an independent voice. They want people representing them with practical experience in job creation and meeting a payroll. They want a representative who knows the meaning of hard work, who is not afraid to make the hard decisions for fear of voter retribution," maintains Cremeans. He feels his background as a successful small businessman, who built his business from the bottom up, is just the kind of experience needed to get things done in our nation's capital.

He acknowledges that he starts off his campaign as the underdog, without any of the built-in voter identification advantages that accrue to sitting members of the legislature. However, he feels that this could ultimately work to his advantage because he will not be perceived as being part of the problem associated with incumbency. While he realizes the sprawling fourteen-county Sixth District (spanning approximately 200 miles across Southern Ohio, from Washington County in the east, to Warren County in the west) presents a formidable logistical problem in getting his message out, he feels he has age and energy on his side.

Critical of the lack of meaningful legislative action evidenced in Washington, Cremeans reminded voters of the President's pledge during the last campaign -- that his Administration, if elected, would break the gridlock in Washington. "Break the gridlock they haven't; add to the chaos they have! Rather than focus on the possible, the President, along with the liberal-controlled Congress, have promised the impossible and delivered the impractical. Rosy rhetoric has become the order of the day in confronting our country as more and more jobs take flight overseas, and more and more Americans go without adequate health care and coverage. Clearly, their reach has far exceeded their grasp and their promises have far exceeded their performance," contends Cremeans.

He expressed the belief that "the Sixth District needs a Congressman in Washington who will be more of a voice than an echo -- who will be more than a rubber stamp for the ill-conceived and ill-timed policies of the Administration. Americans want less government intrusion and regulation, not more. They want federal spending reduced, not expanded. They want a tax system that rewards individual initiative and hard work, not one that plays Robin Hood with our tax dollars," concluded Cremeans.

Cremeans brings to his campaign a diverse commercial and educational background. Currently he is the owner and operator of Cremeans Concrete and Supply and the Cremeans Crane and Rigging Companies in Gallipolis. Before going into business for himself, Cremeans was a teacher, guidance counselor, and school administrator in Gallia County, and had risen to the position of Superintendent of Schools for the Kyger Creek School District. He and his wife, Carol, have three college age children, Cari, John and Leigh.

U.S. Term Limits

Washington, D.C. 20005

Dear Mr. Jacob:

I received your letter on term limits, and I would like to inform you that I am a cosponsor of H.J. Res 203 which proposes an amendment to the Constitution to limit the terms of service for Members of Congress. Senators would be limited to two terms of service; Representatives would be limited to three four-year terms. This amendment would "stagger" the election process so that only half of the House of Representatives would be running for re-election every two years. In total, all Members of Congress would be limited to 12 years of service.

I believe political reform must remain a priority on the Congressional agenda. In addition to term limits, another way to improve our current political system is to reform our nation's campaign finance laws which tend to benefit incumbents. I have sponsored bipartisan campaign finance legislation to level the playing field between incumbents and challengers. The Congressional Campaign and Reform Act of 1993 would reduce contributions from political action committees (PACs) and state party expenditures (soft money). In addition to these changes, I support the elimination of gerrymandering, or redrawing district lines to benefit incumbents.

Again, thank you for contacting me. If I can be of any assistance to you in the future, please do not hesitate to let me know.

Sincerely,

Thank you for expressing interest in my position on term limits.

I am not opposed to term limits. I am of the view, however, that effective lobbying reform and campaign finance reform are much more important, and would largely avoid the need for term limits.

I would also note that the people of my state, Ohio, have already acted on this issue. In 1992, we passed Amendment 2, which limits the terms of U.S. Representatives to 4, and the terms of U.S. Senators to 2.

Dr. Ben Clayburgh

Ben Clayburgh, the youngest of three children, was born in Scobey, Montana. During the Depression, his family moved to Grand Forks, where Ben attended Central High School. After serving four years in the Army during World War II, Ben returned home to earn a BA and a BS from the University of North Dakota. He received his Doctorate of Medicine from Temple University School of Medicine in Philadelphia.

Ben then did a fellowship in orthopaedics at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester Minnesota. Ben returned to North Dakota to found the Orthopaedic Clinic.

The sudden death of his wife left Ben to raise his four sons alone. In 1970, he married Beverly Manternach, who was also widowed and had two daughters.

DR. BEN CLAYBURGH FOR U.S. SENATE

Ben Defends Sportsmen Rights

Ben Clayburgh believes the U.S. Constitution is every bit as valid today as when it was drafted by the Founding Fathers.

BEN WILL not idly stand by and watch others chip away at the rights of North Dakota gun owners to keep and bear the arms of their choice.

BEN BELIEVES gun controls disarm law-abiding Americans. Firearms are a tool - they accomplish what human hands direct.

Protecting ND's Most Endangered Species: Sportsmen

Ben is in tune with what the people of North Dakota want, expect and deserve — and always will be.

BEN OPPOSES any federal or Corps increased fee structure for public access areas — which only serves to double-tax sportsmen.

BEN OWNS and has hunted with firearms of all types since his boyhood. He is also a successful bow hunter.

"...the right of the people to bear Arms, shall not be infringed."

— Second Amendment U.S. Constitution

Conrad - Abandoning Law-Abiding North Dakotans... Again

Conrad has tried to fool North Dakotans into believing he supports sportsmen and is not out to impose gun control measures. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Gun Control:

- Conrad first voted for a seven day waiting period.... (1991 Vote 103)
- ...then to institute instant checks... (1991 Vote 113)
- ...and again for waiting periods on handgun purchases. (1991 Votes 115, 123, 125, 278; 1992 Votes 53, 262)

Conrad introduced and passed a bill taking 14 taxpayer-developed recreational lands from sportsmen at Lake Sakakawea.

- Conrad delivered the final insult by voting for the Brady bill. (1993 Vote 394)

Gun Bans:

- Starting in 1991, Conrad voted to ban 9 classes of "assault" weapons. (Vote 125)
- By 1993, Conrad voted to ban 19 semi-automatic "assault" and "copycat" guns. (Vote 375) And he won't stop there.

"It's Not What Kent Conrad Is Doing For Us. It's What He Does To Us."

Ben Clayburgh Will Fight For Veterans' Rights And Benefits

★ Ben will help stop the raid on our national defense.
Under the current defense bill, by 1997 defense spending will be the lowest since before Pearl Harbor. We are cutting defense too quickly in the face of current world events. Ben Clayburgh is pointedly aware of the dangers of cutting back on defense as a way to reduce the deficit.

★ Ben will seek to improve conditions, reduce paper work and continue funding for our Fargo VA Hospital which serves over 100,000 veterans in our area.

★ Ben will fight to increase the salaries of our servicemen and women to keep pay comparable with increases in civilian pay. Military Services estimate annual military pay increases have lagged 8% behind inflation in the last 10 years, and 12% behind increases in pay in the private sector.

★ Ben will support concurrent receipt measures to ensure that disabled veterans are properly awarded for both 20 years of services rendered to our country and for their disabilities.

"It's Not What Kent Conrad Does For Us, It's What He Does To Us."

Vote Ben Clayburgh Nov. 8th

Conrad's Record On Veterans:

According to a recent Department of Defense estimate, 17,000 military families are forced to rely on food stamps.

● Conrad voted against giving these military families even a modest cost-of-living adjustment while voting to exempt Congress from any federal pay freezes (CO Vote #98, Apr. 1, 1993). Conrad's annual automatic cost-of-living adjustment boosted his salary to $133,600.

Conrad and his anti-defense friend in the White House have never served and obviously do not understand the military and its mission.

● Conrad supported Clinton's 1994 defense cuts totalling $261 billion. (CQ Vote #263, Sept. 14, 1993)

● In addition, Conrad went on record supporting Clinton's position that U.S. combat troops could be placed under U.N. Command — under control of a foreign officer — without 30 days notice to Congress and without congressional approval. (CQ Vote #317, Oct. 19, 1993)

The Senate considered a bill on national service rewarding volunteerism with money for college. Sadly, Conrad does not think time spent in the military counts as national service.

● Conrad voted against former POW Sen. McCain's amendment extending national service education awards to veterans. (CQ Vote #203, July 21, 1993)

North Dakota Veterans strongly opposed Clinton's attempt to open our military to homosexuals.

● In the face of this opposition, Conrad "thumbed his nose" at veterans and voted "no" on reinstating the ban. (CQ Vote #9, Feb. 1, 1993)

RE: MUR 4203
U. S. Term Limits

Dear Messrs. Dye and Northam:

This is in reference to the Commission's discovery requests in the above-captioned matter involving U.S. Term Limits ("USTL"). In its initial response to the Commission's Subpoena and Order, USTL indicated that its responses were limited to certain elections. After this Office informed USTL that its initial response did not comply with the Commission's Subpoena and Order, USTL submitted a supplemental response. However, USTL's supplemental response did not specifically answer some of the questions in the Order, or specifically respond to each of the document requests sought by the Commission's Subpoena. To clarify this situation, we have enclosed several of the original discovery requests. Moreover, to prevent any further ambiguities, we ask that your client follow the Special Instructions for Document Requests which are included along with the usual instructions/definitions. Also enclosed please find additional discovery, most of which relates to your client's prior responses.

Please have your client submit signed and sworn answers to the enclosed requests, along with the documents requested, within thirty days of receipt. Thank you for your cooperation. If you have any questions, I can be reached at (202) 219-3400.

The response to each interrogatory propounded herein shall set forth separately the identification of each person capable of furnishing testimony concerning the response given, denoting separately those individuals who provided informational, documentary or other input, and those who assisted in drafting the interrogatory response.

If you cannot answer the following interrogatories in full after exercising due diligence to secure the full information to do so, answer to the extent possible and indicate your inability to answer the remainder, stating whatever information or knowledge you have concerning the unanswered portion and detailing what you did in attempting to secure the unknown information.

Should you claim a privilege with respect to any documents, communications, or other items about which information is requested by any of the following interrogatories and requests for production of documents, describe such items in sufficient detail to provide justification for the claim. Each claim of privilege must specify in detail all the grounds on which it rests.

Unless otherwise indicated, the discovery requests shall refer to the time period from January 1, 1993 to present.

The following interrogatories and requests for production of documents are continuing in nature so as to require you to file supplementary responses or amendments during the course of this investigation if you obtain further or different information prior to or during the pendency of this matter. Include in any supplemental answers the date upon which and the manner in which such further or different information came to your attention.

I. ORIGINAL DISCOVERY REQUESTS

The following requests were originally attached to the Commission's Subpoena and Order, dated May 1, 1995.

A. Interrogatories

1. State whether USTL and/or USTLVEF accepts donations from corporations or labor organizations/labor unions. (USTL's prior responses did not explicitly state, under oath, whether it accepted any such donations in 1993.)
2. Of the 1994 federal candidates who were provided with voters' contracts, identify those with respect to whom USTL/USTLVEF expended funds on:
 - a. the creation and distribution of any television advertisements containing the name and/or photograph of such candidate (USTL's prior responses address only radio ads) ;
 - b. the creation and distribution of any direct mail containing the name and/or photograph of such candidate (although USTL's initial limited response addresses this question, its supplemental response, which should cover all such mailings in all jurisdictions, did not).

B. Document Requests

Following the Instructions and Definitions set forth above, including the Special Instructions for Document Requests, identify and produce all documents and records referred to or used in answering these questions and those pertaining to USTL/USTLVEF's organizational structure, its contacts with candidates and its voters' contract efforts, including but not limited to:

1. Copies of documents which disclose, describe, display or explain the organizational structure of USTL/USTLVEF (other than the USTL Staff Roster produced with the response of July 6, 1995);
2. Copies of documents evidencing USTL/USTLVEF's sources of revenue/income and its budgets (other than its 1993 IRS Form 990 previously produced);
3. Copies of all documents containing or related to correspondence to or from 1994 federal candidates or their authorized committees, i.e., cover letters sent with voters' contracts, follow-up letters sent to or from such candidates, summaries of transcripts of telephone conversations, notes, etc. (other than those documents produced with USTL's response dated August 17, 1995);

4. Copies of all documents paid for, in whole or part by USTL/USTLVEF which contain references to or photographs of any 1994 federal candidate(s), i.e., scripts of ads, copies of ads, audiotapes and videotapes of ads, direct mailings, etc. (other than the single newspaper ad produced with USTL's response dated July 6, 1995);
5. Copies of invoices and correspondence containing or related to communications paid for, produced and/or distributed by USTL/USTLVEF which contain references to, or photographs of, any 1994 federal candidate, i.e., advertisements, media advisories, direct mail (other than those previously produced).
6. Attachments to USTL's most recently filed or completed IRS Form 990 (USTL did not produce any schedules listing contributions of $5,000 or more, as required by line 1(D) of Form 990).

II. SUPPLEMENTAL DISCOVERY REQUESTS

A. Interrogatories

1. State whether USTL/USTLVEF made any expenditures for (a) poll(s) relating to public views on Congressional term limits, including but not limited to any poll(s) conducted by Luntz Research Companies.
2. State whether, during the applicable time frame (1993-present), any person, acting for or on behalf of USTL/USTLVEF attended any event held to announce the campaign of, and/or to promote the election or defeat of, any federal candidate, i.e., a rally, town hall meeting, press conference or fundraising event. If so:
 - a. Briefly describe the nature of each event, i.e., rally, fund-raiser;
 - b. Identify any and all candidate(s) involved in each event;
 - c. Identify any and all USTL/USTLVEF personnel involved in each event;

- a. Were undertaken during meetings, functions or events;
- b. Were undertaken by telephone, and:
- c. Identify all ATR representatives who made such solicitations.

B. Supplemental Document Requests

Identify and Produce:

- 1. Any and all polls relating to public views on Congressional term limits, and any documents related to such polls.
- 2. Any and all documents related to solicitations and/or fundraising undertaken by or on behalf of USTL/USTLVEF, including yet not limited to all documents related to fundraising events, meetings or programs related to fundraising, summaries of scripts or notes regarding telephone calls, etc.

The following are our responses to the latest interrogatories and "document requests" from the F.E.C.:

I. ORIGINAL DISCOVERY REQUESTS

A. Interrogatories

1. Answer: "To the best of my knowledge, we did not accept any contributions from corporations or labor organizations/labor unions in 1993. Our policy of not accepting contributions from corporations and labor organizations or unions was not formalized until 1994. Please see our previous statement."

2. Answer: "First, your question again misstates our efforts. We did not expend 'funds on' any federal candidate. We issued news releases and/or spoke with journalists and citizens regarding virtually every candidate running for Congress nationwide. In some cases, we paid to advertise on radio and in newspapers, sent mailings to citizens, and attended or held news conferences where candidates were present. Naming each candidate whose name was mentioned in the course of our efforts is simply impossible to do with any accuracy. We have previously supplied the names of each candidate who signed our pledge."

2.A. Answer: "We have run television advertising 'containing the name and/or photograph' of members of Congress in 1995 in conjunction with the vote on term limits in the U.S. House of Representatives. We have also produced several television ads which we have not aired. The reference to 'such candidate' in this question implies to me a connection with our Voters' Contract and we have run no television ads in this regard."

2.B. Answer: "Only one direct mailing was sent to educate voters regarding the Voters' Contract responses of candidates in Oklahoma's sixth congressional district. This we addressed previously. We are reviewing all of our mailings from 1993 until the present and will forward to you copies of any mailing that mentions the name of any member of Congress provided it does not mean violating the confidentiality of any donor or prospective donor to U.S. Term Limits."

B. Document Requests

1. Answer: "No such documents exist."

2. Answer: "Donors to U.S. Term Limits, as well as U.S. Term Limits, have a First Amendment right to contribute to our organization without being disclosed. This right would be especially jeopardized in light of the fact that their disclosure will certainly be made public at some juncture, and these donors will then be vulnerable to regulatory and legislative assault from members of Congress. Former Congressman Jamie Whitten was quoted saying, 'All anyone ever wants is a special advantage over the next fellow. Understand that, and you've understood the intent of every law ever passed.' Whitten served over 50 years in Congress and should therefore have some experience as to how Congress acts. This is a chilling statement for anyone who has contributed to an organization whose goal is to end the political careers of these same members of Congress."

"We have previously provided information on our expenditures other than the 1993 IRS Form 990. Attached is our previously submitted material in this regard as well as our 1994 IRS Form 990 and additional materials."

3. Answer: "We have provided previously all such documents in our possession. We will continue to forward any documents we find covered by this request."

4. Answer: "We can provide copies in our possession for only a few of the ads. In asking our vendors for copies, I became aware that Thompson Communications, Inc. is already providing the F.E.C. with the copies requested here. In order to avoid needless cost to U.S. Term Limits or denial of our use of these materials, I will trust that obtaining copies from Thompson Communications—who I believe has a more complete collection of these materials—will suffice.”

5. Answer: “We have previously provided all such invoices and correspondence to the best of my knowledge. We will continue to search for any additional documents and forward any located to you.”

6. Answer: “The information requested is not a public record available to the public and/or any administrative agency. See 26 U.S.C. Section 6104(b). We and our donors have First Amendment rights not to disclose this information.”

I. SUPPLEMENTAL DISCOVERY REQUESTS

A. Interrogatories

1. Answer: “Yes, U.S. Term Limits has commissioned polls on public views concerning congressional term limits. To the best of my knowledge, they are all provided in Attachment 1A.”

2. Answer: “No U.S. Term Limits employee or person representing us has ever attended any event in their capacity with our organization in which their purpose was to ‘announce the campaign of, and/or to promote the election or defeat of, any federal candidate.’ When attending any event set up by a candidate for public office, we have a policy of always informing the media and the public of all those candidates seeking said office who have signed a U.S. Term Limits Pledge.”

2.A. through 2.D. Answer: “We do not keep records in such a way that this type of information is easily retrievable. All U.S. Term Limits’ personnel have been asked to recollect any such events and we will provide all information requested to the best of our ability in the coming weeks, and continually as we become aware of it.”

2.E. Answer: “U.S. Term Limits has paid the full costs of any trips taken by U.S. Term Limits persons. As we provide additional information regarding 2A through 2D, we will specifically answer 2E for each instance."

3. Answer: "Yes U.S. Term Limits orally solicited donations. It is not possible to provide further information without violating the confidentiality of contributors which we will not do."

3.A. Answer: "Yes."

3.B. Answer: "Yes."

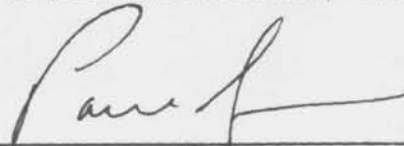

3.C. Answer: "I cannot be certain what you mean by 'ATR representatives.' There is a organization located in Washington by the name of Americans for Tax Reform (whose right to privacy you hopefully haven't violated with this communication.) For the record, no representative of Americans for Tax Reform solicited any individual or group on our behalf."

B. Document Requests

1. Answer: "To the best of my knowledge, Attachment 1A contains all such polls."

2. Answer: "We are working to gather and provide all generic material related to this request—generic herein meaning without releasing the name of anyone being solicited. As much as members of Congress would like to obtain a listing of donors to the term limits cause, I re-state that donors to U.S. Term Limits, as well as U.S. Term Limits, have a First Amendment right to contribute to our organization without being disclosed. As this material is located during the next several weeks, we will forward it to you."

PAUL JACOB, BEING DULY SWORN, STATES THAT THE FOREGOING RESPONSES TO THE FEC'S DISCOVERY REQUESTS ARE TRUE AND CORRECT TO THE BEST OF HIS INFORMATION, KNOWLEDGE AND BELIEF.

From: Kellyanne Fitzpatrick
Re: National Data on Term Limits
Date: September 9, 1994

Our latest national polling results confirms that term limits continues to be the reform issue of 1994. As seen in past suveys, Americans overwhelmingly support term limits for members of Congress (House and Senate); the latest numbers show that three-quarters of the population favor this method of "direct democracy," with only 16% opposing it. What's more, the intensity of support is staggering -- one-half (49%) of the electorate "strongly" endorses term limits, as compared to just 7% who "strongly oppose" them.

Term Limits for Members of Congress

TOTAL SUPPORT	75%
Strongly Support	49%
Somewhat Support	26%
TOTAL OPPOSE	16%
Strongly Oppose	7%
Somewhat Oppose	9%
DON'T KNOW	7%
REFUSED	3%

Moreover, Americans are very specific about giving muscle to the concept of Congressional term limits. Among the three-fourths of the respondents who support term limits, a whopping 82% opt for three terms rather than six. These voters are sending a clear message which deflates the premise of those who insist on "twelve (years) in the House/twelve in the Senate": twelve years is twice as long as our elected Members should have to get the job done.

Three Terms v. Six Terms

SIX TERMS	14%

An examination of the specific cross-tabs reveals differences in opinion among key demographic and attitudinal subgroups. For example, intense support for term limits still wanes a bit among senior voters and less educated, lower-income voters. Notwithstanding this, on both key issues -- whether to have term limits and if so, whether three is the magic number -- there isn't a strongly dissenting voice within any group. Even the party in "power" who has the most to lose if voters express their passion for term limits at the ballot box this fall, agrees (7 out of 10 Democrats support term limits).

FABRIZIO, MCLAUGHLIN & ASSOCIATES*U.S. TERM LIMITS - NATIONAL SURVEY*JUNE 1994

Introduction: Good evening. My name is _____ and I'm calling from Fabrizio, McLaughlin & Associates, a national public opinion firm. This evening we're conducting a short political survey nationally and we'd like to get your opinions.

1. Are you 18 years old or older?
 1. Yes (Continue) 100.0
 2. No/All other responses (Terminate)
2. If you were to label yourself, would you say you are a Liberal, Moderate, or a Conservative in your political beliefs?
 1. Liberal 22.4
 2. Moderate 33.8
 3. Conservative 38.0
 4. DK/Refused 5.8
7. Presently, Congress is considering a constitutional amendment to limit the number of terms Congressmen in the House of Representatives can serve. Some people want to limit congressional terms to 6 years which is 3 terms, while others want to limit congressional terms to 12 years, which is 6 terms, between these two options, which do you favor most?
 1. 6 years, which is 3 terms 69.3
 2. 12 years, which is 6 terms 21.7
 3. Not sure/Other (VOLUNTEERED) 7.5
 4. DK/Refused 1.5
8. If you knew that the person who was considering taking over a term limits advocacy organization had been in Congress for 38 years, would this make you view this term limits group favorably or unfavorably? If it would make no difference, just say so.
 1. Favorably 20.6
 2. Unfavorably 36.4
 3. No Difference 38.2
 4. DK/Refused 4.8

9. Now, if you knew that although the leader of a term limits group had been in Congress for 38 years, he became the head of this organization because he saw first hand the problems career politicians had created in Washington. And, he now supports fair, across the board term limits for all members of Congress because he believes it would bring new people into politics to help clean up Congress. Would you view the fact that this person was the head of this term limits group - positively, negatively, cynically or suprisingly?

1.	Positively	42.1	2.	Negatively	12.3

3.	Some College	27.7	4.	College graduate	25.3
5.	Post graduate	10.0	6.	Don't Know/Refused	1.0

2 Favor/Want Them Now 48.5
3 Favor/Wait And See 30.8
4 Uncertain 3.8

- I am opposed to term limits for Congress.
- I am in favor of term limits for Congress and want them now.
- I am in favor of term limits for Congress but want to wait and see if they are still needed.

I am going to read several statements about the Mississippi term limits referendum, some good and some bad. After hearing each one, please tell me if it makes you want to vote for the referendum on term limits, against the referendum on term limits, or makes no difference at all in your vote?

Since the Supreme Court ruled against the Constitutionality of term limits for Congress, there is no sense in voting for a term limits referendum in Mississippi because it will not effect Congress anyway.

20. 1 Vote For 39.5
2 Vote Against 19.7
3 Makes No Difference 40.8

Many Mississippians are against the term limits referendum because it applies to county and town officials. These people see a negative impact on local communities when qualified people are limited to two terms in office.

21. 1 Vote For 41.7
2 Vote Against 25.0
3 Makes No Difference 33.3

Next, some people oppose the Mississippi term limits referendum because it applies to appointed officials as well as elected officials. This means that individuals appointed to local boards and commissions would be limited by the Constitution on how long they can serve.

22. 1 Vote For 54.2
2 Vote Against 15.7
3 Makes No Difference 30.2

In order to get on the ballot this fall, the referendum on term limits required thousands of signatures on petitions. A great deal of controversy arose over the methods used for getting these signatures. Some people claim they were misled about signing the petition.

23. 1 Vote For 30.6
2 Vote Against 23.5
3 Makes No Difference 45.7

Some people say there is no need for term limits in Mississippi. We already have term limits because we can vote to re-elect or defeat any elected official.

24. 1 Vote For 49.3
2 Vote Against 20.2
3 Makes No Difference 30.5

Many people say that Mississippi has been and is now better off as a result of the experience and seniority of our legislators, especially those in Washington. Why would we destroy a system that has helped Mississippi for so many years?

25. 1 Vote For 42.7
2 Vote Against 24.3
3 Makes No Difference 33.0

After taking part in surveys like this, some people tell us they have changed their opinion on some issues. Regardless of how you answered before, what is your opinion now? If the November election were held today, would you vote yes or no to amend the Constitution to limit public officials to two successive terms, with certain judges and congressional representatives limited to three successive terms? (CONTINUE WITH...) Do you feel strongly about that?

26. 5 Strongly Yes 52.2
4 Yes 18.2
3 Neither/Nor 8.0
2 No 5.7
1 Strongly No 16.0

WHAT IS THE WORD OF OUR NEW CONGRESSMAN RON LEWIS WORTH?

APPARENTLY, NOT VERY MUCH.

JUST DAYS AGO AS A CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS---RON LEWIS---GAVE HIS WORD---HE EVEN SIGNED A FORMAL PLEDGE---TO SUPPORT A TRUE TERM LIMITS BILL IN CONGRESS--THREE TERMS IN THE HOUSE AND TWO TERMS IN THE U.S. SENATE.

NOW CONGRESSMAN RON LEWIS REFUSES TO SUPPORT A BILL THAT WOULD GIVE US A CITIZEN LEGISLATURE. INSTEAD HE HAS CO-SPONSORED THE CAREER POLITICIANS PHONY BILL WITH DOUBLE THE TERMS, THUS ENSURING CAREERISM IN CONGRESS CONTINUES.

THIS "DOUBLE TALK" IS OUTRAGEOUS.

HIS PLEDGE WAS CLEAR. NOW, AFTER JUST A FEW WEEKS IN WASHINGTON, D.C. HE HAS BROKEN HIS PROMISE TO THE VOTERS OF KENTUCKY'S SECOND DISTRICT.

YOU CAN LET CONGRESSMAN LEWIS KNOW HOW YOU FEEL ABOUT HIM BREAKING HIS PROMISE TO YOU---AND IN RECORD TIME EVEN BY WASHINGTON, DC. STANDARDS--CALLS HIS LOUISVILLE OFFICE AT XXX-XXXX, THAT'S XXX-XXXX, OR HIS WASHINGTON, D.C. OFFICE AT XXX-XXXX

TELL CONGRESSMAN LEWIS YOU EXPECT HIM TO DO WHAT HE PROMISED.

Dear Friend,

Who should your Congressman represent -- the over-stuffed power brokers in Washington, D.C.; or you?

Sounds like a silly question, I know.

But the sad and painful truth is that all too often, the people we put in Congress are little more than puppets for the entrenched special interests that have run America nearly into the ground.

The politicians have set themselves up as little Kings with powers and privileges that you and I can't begin to imagine.

There is an answer -- there is a way to take back our government from the special interests. The answer is term limits: real term limits of 6 years in the House of Representatives and 12 years in the Senate.

That's what U.S. Term Limits is all about -- working to enact a National term limits law so that, once again, our elected representatives serve us instead of a few well-oiled bag-men for the un-elected elite.

And, that's why U.S. Term Limits asked the candidates for Congress in the upcoming Special Election in western Oklahoma to take a stand on the vital issue of term limitations. A Voters' Contract was sent to all candidates asking them to state their support for meaningful term limits and to pledge to work for their enactment if sent to Congress.

I've enclosed a copy of the Voters' Contract for your review.

I'm very pleased to report that one candidate for Congress in Oklahoma's 6th District signed the Voters' Contract with a firm pledge of support. Republican Frank Lucas has clearly stated his intent to fight for the enactment of meaningful term limits legislation.

Unfortunately, the other candidate, Dan Webber, has refused to sign the Voters' Contract or to respond to U.S. Term Limits' appeals for support.

While I still hold out hope that Mr. Weber will reconsider his position, it isn't surprising that he refuses to support term limits. As a 6 year paid staffer in Washington, D.C., Mr. Weber is tied into the web of interests that has become our Congress. His past work for the Congressional "Leadership" is part of the reason why so many special interests groups are so active on his behalf.

But, as the old saying goes, "When they feel the heat, they see the light."

Despite his ties to the special interests and his refusal to support term limits, Mr. Weber can, I believe, be convinced to support term limits -- if enough concerned citizens like you act.

I'm sure Mr. Weber will "see the light" of reason in supporting term limits if you and enough other concerned citizens let him "feel the heat" of your support for taking back your government; your support for meaningful Congressional term limits.

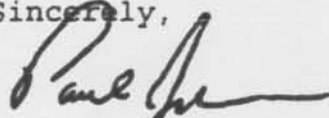

Please can I count on you to:

- 1.) Contact Mr. Dan Webber by calling him at 405-685-9983. Let him know that you support real term limits of 6 years for the House and 12 years for the Senate. Demand that he sign the U.S. Term Limits Voters' Contract immediately.
- 2.) Ask friends, family members and the people you work with to follow your example by contacting Mr. Weber too. The more people who know about Mr. Weber's refusal to support term limits and take action, the more likely we are to change his mind.
- 3.) Contact Frank Lucas and thank him for the stand he has taken in support of true term limits. Urge him to speak out publicly about his support for the U.S. Term Limits Voters' Contract.

And, please, return the enclosed Action Reply form. It is important that I know exactly how many people have gotten involved so I can determine what other actions must be taken to convince Mr. Weber to change his anti-term limits position.

Your help is crucial to the success of the term limits movement. Please, take action immediately to return our government to the people.

Sincerely,

Paul Jacob, Executive Director

Dear Mr. Jacob,

I agree that its time to take back our government from the special interests and Washington power-brokers! Real term limits of 6 years in the House of Representatives and 12 years in the Senate will break the stranglehold the lobbyist have on Congress.

SENSITIVE

I. BACKGROUND

MUR 3975 was generated by a complaint and amendments containing allegations against, inter alia, United States Term Limits ("USTL"), the Christian Coalition, Lucas for Congress and the Chenoweth for Congress Committee. On April 18, 1995, the Commission severed USTL from MUR 3975 and created MUR 4203 to address the allegations against USTL.¹ On the same date, the Commission found reason to believe that USTL violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a) by making prohibited corporate contributions, or in the alternative, Sections 433 and 434 by operating an un-registered and non-reporting political committee. The Commission's findings were based upon information which suggested that USTL, a nonprofit corporation, may have been coordinating its nationwide voters' contract program, along with its radio ads and news releases, with 1994 Congressional candidates. The Commission also found reason to believe that USTL violated 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a) by expressly advocating the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates through a radio advertisement and news advisory which lacked the required disclaimers.

¹ Americans for Tax Reform ("ATR") was also originally a respondent in MUR 3975, but on April 18, 1995, the Commission severed ATR from MUR 3975 and created MUR 4204. With respect to MUR 4204, a General Counsel's Report is circulating simultaneously with this Report.

With respect to the respondents which remained in MUR 3975, Christian Coalition, Lucas for Congress and the Chenoweth for Congress Committee and their treasurers, on April 18, 1995, the Commission voted to take no action against them at that time. Section II of this report addresses MUR 4203, and Section III addresses MUR 3975.

II. MUR 4203-USTL

A. USTL's Structure and Activities

The information obtained pursuant to the Commission's Subpoena and Order indicates that USTL is a nonprofit corporation without members which is registered in the District of Columbia. Attachment 1 at 13-37. USTL's Executive Director, Paul Jacob, avers that as of January 1, 1994, USTL has adopted a policy of not accepting contributions from corporations or labor unions. Id. at 2; Attachment 3 at 1. Jacob also avers that USTL did not accept any corporate or labor union contributions in 1994, and to the best of his knowledge, it did not receive any such contributions in 1993 either. Attachment 1 at 2; Attachment 3 at 1.

USTL's 1994 income was over 4 million dollars, and its 1993 income totaled almost 3 million. Attachment 1 at 38; Attachment 3 at 5. USTL's 1994 tax return states that its primary tax exempt purpose is "To educate the Public and To Provide Funding with Respect to the Legislation of Term Limits, on a National and State Level." Attachment 3 at 22. USTL's 1994 tax return also indicates that almost 2.5 million dollars of the 4 million received was spent on educating the public through newsletters and special issue mailings, providing funding for state initiative efforts and providing leadership to organize legislation relating to term limits. Id. at 6.

During 1994, USTL operated a nationwide "voters' contract" program. The program involved contacting candidates to have them sign USTL's voters' contract through which candidates would promise to support Congressional terms limits. Pursuant to its voters' contract program, USTL also released radio ads and media advisories shortly before various 1994 Congressional elections to announce whether certain candidates had signed its contract or had refused to sign. Such communications stated that they were paid for by USTL's Voter Education Fund, which is a "project" of USTL. Attachment 1 at 2.

USTL states that it sent voters' contracts to "all federal candidates." Id. at 3. USTL estimates that it spent "no more than $98,000" on its voters' contract program, which includes an estimated $5,000 to create and distribute the voters' contracts themselves, $2,500 to create and distribute news releases, $53,936 on radio ads and $28,317 on direct mail. Attachment 1 at 4-5; Attachment 2 at 2. It appears that all of USTL's radio ads and direct mail involving the voters' contracts, which comprises most of the $98,000 at issue, were for Congressional districts in Oklahoma and Kentucky. Those are districts in the states initially identified in the complaint in this matter.

B. USTL's Contacts with Candidates

As part of the investigation, this Office examined the extent of the contacts between USTL and federal candidates with respect to its voters' contract efforts. USTL states that, with respect to its voters' contracts, it communicated with federal candidates via telephone and mail. Attachment 1 at 6. It also states that it did not communicate with federal candidates regarding the content, timing or distribution of any radio advertisements, news releases or direct mail which contained the name or photograph of any 1994 federal candidate. Id. Nothing in USTL's responses or the documents it produced discloses any sharing of campaign related strategic information with candidates.

This Office also informally contacted numerous representatives of federal candidate campaigns. As this Office made these contacts informally, it focused on persons most likely to voluntarily provide relevant information: the campaigns of 1994 candidates whom USTL had criticized through its radio ads and/or news advisories. Those contacted included the campaigns of Dave Adkisson, Dave McCurdy, Joe Prather, Dave Perryman, Mike Synar, and Dan Webber. The candidates or campaign representatives contacted by this Office who recalled having contact with USTL indicated that USTL provided them with the pledge and followed up through phone calls and/or letters to them. Such candidates and/or campaign representatives indicated that during such contacts USTL did not suggest that if they did not sign the voters' contract USTL would run ads or release media advisories either in opposition to their candidacy or in support of their opponent

C. USTL's Communications with the Public

i. Radio ads

USTL created and aired various radio ads through which it announced that one clearly identified 1994 Congressional candidate had signed its voters' pledge, while simultaneously announcing that his opponent had refused to sign. Attachment 1 at 4; Attachment 2 at 1. The Commission has previously found that one of these ads, which aired shortly before the 1994 Democratic runoff election between Mike Synar and Virgil Cooper in Oklahoma's 2d district ("Synar-Cooper ad"), constitutes express advocacy. See Factual and Legal Analysis ("F&L") approved by the Commission on April 25, 1995; General Counsel's Report, dated April 6, 1995 ("GCR"), Attachment 5 at 2. The Synar-Cooper radio ad, which cost $16,855, identified each candidate and contrasted one with the other, specified when the election was to be held, and concluded that the "difference" between the candidates was "clear" with respect to term limits. Id. The Commission also found that USTL violated 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a) with respect to the Synar-Cooper radio ad because it did not state whether it was authorized by any candidate or authorized committee.

USTL and/or its vendor have produced scripts or tapes of the radio ads it aired in connection with Oklahoma's 4th district runoff between Tully McCoy and Dave Perryman and in Kentucky's 2d Congressional District election between Joe Prather and Ron Lewis. Attachment 4 at 1-2. There appear to have been two scripts/ads for the McCoy-Perryman race and one for the Prather-Lewis race. USTL spent $9,298 on the McCoy-Perryman radio ad and $10,678 on the Prather-Lewis ad. The scripts for all three ads are virtually the same as that of the Synar-Cooper ad used in Oklahoma's 2d district and as discussed just above, which the Commission has found constitutes express advocacy. Each script clearly identifies the candidates, indicates that there was an upcoming runoff election between them, provides when that election was to be held and states that with respect to the candidates: "The Difference on Term Limits is Clear." Attachment 4 at 1-2.² Like the Synar-Cooper radio ad already considered by the Commission, the scripts for USTL's McCoy-Perryman and Prather-Lewis radio ads, which are virtually the same, appear to expressly advocate the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates.

USTL also produced a copy of the script for the radio ad that the Commission previously found is federal election-influencing. See F&L approved by the Commission on April 25, 1995. That ad aired in close proximity to the 1994 special election between Dan Webber and Frank Lucas, candidates for Congress in Oklahoma's sixth district. In that radio ad, entitled "Some Things are Clear," both candidates were clearly identified and contrasted; Lucas was praised for siding with the "majority of us" and supporting term limits, while Webber was criticized for siding with "career politicians." The ad, which cost $7,228, concluded by stating "'Help convince both candidates to support term limits.'" Attachment 4 at 3. Although the Commission found that the Lucas-Webber radio ad was federal election-influencing, it was unable to reach a conclusion as to whether it constituted express advocacy.

² It is unclear whether both of the scripts for the McCoy-Perryman ads were aired. See Attachment 4 at 1-2. Since both scripts contain the language discussed above, for purposes of this analysis it is unnecessary to determine which of the scripts was used in the ad, or whether both were used. With respect to the Prather-Lewis ad, only a copy of the tape itself was produced. A copy of that tape is available in Room 655.

In short, the investigation has shown that USTL paid for and aired radio advertisements in connection with three elections which expressly advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates, and a radio advertisement in connection with one election that was federal election influencing. Those radio ads which expressly advocated indicated that they were paid for by USTL (or its project), but not whether they were authorized by any candidate or candidate's committee, as required by Section 441d(a).³

ii. News Releases

The Commission has previously found that one of USTL's news releases constituted express advocacy. That news release indicated, among other things, that there was to be an election in Oklahoma's sixth district, identified each of the candidates running, provided the date of the election and after stating that one supported term limits while the other opposed, asserted that "voters" have a "clear choice." See Attachment 4 at 9. In response to the Commission's subpoena, USTL produced 24 additional news releases. USTL states that it spent no more than $2,500 in total on the news releases. Attachment 2 at 2.

³ USTL and/or its vendor produced scripts for other ads it aired in 1994 and 1995, but these appear to be issue discussion and do not appear to either expressly advocate the election or defeat of a candidate or be federal election influencing. In addition, USTL created and aired an ad that it indicates was for Oklahoma "statewide." Attachment 2 at 2. Neither USTL or its vendor produced a copy of that ad and thus its content is unclear. That ad cost USTL $9,875.33.

Of the 24 news releases produced, four appear to expressly advocate the election and/or defeat of clearly identified candidates. Three of the four news releases are entitled "Voters have 'Clear Choice' Among ... District Congressional Candidates." Attachment 4 at 10-11 (sample). These news releases identify candidates who had signed USTL's pledge "to support the will of the people" and announce in their heading the office sought by each candidate. Id. The news releases also contrast such candidates with their opponents, who are labeled "career politicians." Id. The fourth news release which appears to expressly advocate is entitled "Lewis Named Term Limits Hero." Attachment 4 at 12. Within this news release Ron Lewis is "praised for support of crucial Congressional reform movement." Id. In addition, the press release states that just days before the November 8 election, USTL's Ron Nehring was in that district to "draw attention to the differing stands" taken between Lewis and his named opponent. Id.

Although it would appear that these four news releases may have been disseminated pursuant to general "public political advertising" none of these press releases indicated who paid for them or whether they were authorized by any candidate or authorized committee, as would be required by Section 441d(a).

Most of the remaining news releases produced are entitled "For Term Limits, Candidates Put Commitment in Writing." Attachment 4 at 14-15. Such news releases clearly identify numerous candidates who had signed USTL's voters' contract. These news releases include the Congressional district that each candidate sought to represent as well as their political party. However, these news releases did not identify the named candidates' opponents or suggest that there was a "clear choice" between the candidates. Thus, such news releases do not appear to expressly advocate the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates.

9 8 0 4 3 7 6 3 0 1

iii. Direct Mail

USTL created and distributed direct mail in connection with its voters' contract activities in Oklahoma. USTL states that it spent $28,316.83 on that direct mail. Attachment 1 at 5. The direct mail letter provided by USTL, which is undated, appears to have been issued in connection with the May 10, 1994 special election in Oklahoma's sixth district between Frank Lewis and Dan Webber, the same election discussed supra at page 6. See Attachment 4 at 16-19. In the letter, USTL states that it is "pleased to report that one candidate" in the Sixth district, "Republican Frank Lewis," had signed the contract, but that "unfortunately, the other candidate, Dan Webber, has refused." Id. at 16. In the letter, USTL's Mr. Jacob goes on to say that while he hopes that Webber will reconsider his position, he is not surprised that he has refused to sign given that Webber was a six year paid Congressional staffer and "tied to the web of interests" in Congress. Id. at 17.

USTL's mailing suggests that recipients call Mr. Webber to demand that he sign the contract immediately and encourages them to have others also call Webber. Webber's phone number was provided on the letter. The letter asks that recipients contact Lucas to thank him for supporting term limits. Enclosed with USTL's letter was an "Oklahoma Candidate Survey" Action Reply, which seeks feedback from recipients on which of the suggested actions have been taken and contains a solicitation for contributions in amounts ranging from $15-$100. The letter states that the contributions were to be used to "get the politicians to see the light." Id. at 17.

The language in this direct mail is similar to the language that appears in the radio ad that USTL created and aired in connection with the same election between Messrs. Lucas and Webber, which, as discussed supra at page 6, the Commission found was federal election influencing but did not expressly advocate Lucas' election or Webber's defeat. Attachment 4 at 4. Like its Lucas-Webber radio ad, USTL's mailing clearly identifies Webber and Lucas as federal candidates and provides the office for which they are competing. In addition, the script used in both the radio ad and the direct mail praises Lucas and sharply criticizes his opponent Webber. Also like the radio ad, the direct mail suggests that recipients help convince both candidates to support term limits. However, unlike the radio ad, the direct mail provides the phone number for Mr. Webber, the candidate whom USTL wishes to convince to support term limits. As such, although the overall message of the letter is most reasonably read as a plea of electoral support for Lucas and opposition to Webber, respondent's inclusion of the candidate's phone number would permit them to make a colorable argument that this was issue discussion.

D. ANALYSIS

First, there is some indication that USTL may qualify for the exemption carved out of Section 441b(a)'s prohibition on corporate expenditures by the Supreme Court in Federal Election Commission v. Massachusetts Citizens for Life ("MCFL"), 479 U.S. 238, 264 (1986); see also Austin v. Michigan Chamber of Commerce, 494 U.S. 652 (1990). To qualify for this Section 441b exemption, an incorporated entity must have certain features: (1) it must be formed for the express purpose of promoting political ideas and cannot engage in business activities; (2) it must have no shareholders or persons affiliated so as to have a claim on assets or earnings; (3) it must not be established by a business corporation or labor union, and must have a policy of not accepting donations from such organizations.

From our review of USTL's corporate documents, it appears to have been formed to promote political ideas and cannot engage in business activities, it does not have stockholders or persons affiliated so as to have a claim on its assets or earnings and it was not formed by a business corporation or labor union. See Attachment 1 at 14-37. As noted, Mr. Jacob avers that he does not believe that USTL has accepted corporate contributions since 1993. He also avers that USTL has an unwritten policy of not accepting contributions from corporations or labor unions. Thus, although further investigation would be required to determine whether prohibited funds were accepted by USTL during the applicable time period and that USTL meets the other elements of MCFL, at this point it appears that USTL may have qualified for the exemption at the time that it made these expenditures.⁴

Second, the evidence presently at hand demonstrates that USTL had contacts with federal candidates regarding its voters' contracts, but does not establish one way or the other whether USTL coordinated with 1994 Congressional candidates through such efforts. Nothing in the documents produced shows that USTL and any of the candidate committees shared campaign strategy or information related to the content or timing of USTL's public communications. As noted, the candidates contacted by this Office stated that USTL did not suggest that it would release radio ads and/or news releases if they refused to sign its voters' contract.⁵ Nor did the candidates contacted by this Office have any information indicating that their opponents had ⁴ Given our conclusion that USTL may qualify for the MCFL exemption and our final recommendation in this matter, our analysis here does not address the significance of the decision in Federal Election Commission v. Survival Education Fund, Inc. ("SEF"), 65 F.3d 285, 291-293 (2d Cir. 1995) (nonprofit corporation lacking policy against corporate contributions and receiving less than 1% of its revenues from corporations but meeting remaining two parts of MCFL test qualifies for MCFL exemption). Nor do we address the significance of the recent district court decision in Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life, Inc. v. Federal Election Commission, Mem. Opinion Civ. Action No. 3-95-1147 (D. Mi. April 19, 1996), appeal filed, No. 96-2612 (8th Cir. June 17, 1996) in which a district court invalidated the Commission's 1995 MCFL regulation within that jurisdiction. See 11 C.F.R. § 114.10 (1996).

⁵ As noted, this Office informally contacted candidates who did not sign USTL's contracts. If this Office were to investigate this matter further, it would recommend using formal process to compel responses from those candidates who signed the contracts and appear to have benefited from USTL's radio ads and media advisories.

coordinated with USTL with respect to its radio ads and/or news advisories. Nevertheless, to make any conclusions on this issue, more extensive discovery would be necessary.⁶

Third, nothing in the documents produced shows whether USTL is a "political committee." On the one hand, USTL's efforts appear focused on the enactment of term limits on the state and federal level. USTL has attempted to enact term limits through petitions, state referenda, state and national legislation and a Constitutional Amendment. An example of USTL's efforts is its involvement in litigation defending various Constitutional challenges to term limits. See USTL v. Thornton, 115 S. Ct. 1842 (1995). USTL's documents suggest that it expends most of its time and resources on activities such as "educating" the public through mailings and general advertising. There is no evidence which suggests that USTL shared strategy with candidate campaigns or has accepted funds or any other form of support from specific candidates or party committees. See e.g., MUR 3669 (Christian Coalition). On the other hand, USTL's voters' contract program appears designed to maximize chances that candidates who support term limits will be elected. In short, far more extensive discovery would be necessary to make any conclusions on the question of whether USTL is operating a "political committee."

⁶ Since the time when the activities at issue occurred, the Commission promulgated regulations relating to contacts between candidates and corporations in the context of voter guides and voting records. See 11 C.F.R. § 114.4(c)(4) and (5) (1996); but see Clifton v. FEC, Civ. Action No. 96-66-P-H (D. Me. May 20, 1996), appeal filed No. 96-1812 (1st Cir. 1996) (district court invalidated the Commission's voter guide and voting record regulations). Although contacts with candidates regarding the signing of voters' contracts are not addressed in the Commission's new regulations, such contacts are analogous to those which occur with candidates in the context of voter guides and voting records. However, for the reasons stated above, this Office draws no conclusions regarding whether USTL contacts with candidates constituted coordination with such candidates through its expenditures, i.e., news releases and radio ads.

Fourth, it appears that through at least three radio ads USTL expressly advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates.⁷ In addition, four news releases that USTL has provided in response to the Commission's discovery requests also expressly advocate the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates. The three radio ads in which USTL expressly advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates appear to cost approximately $36,921. (Synar-Cooper radio - $16,855, Perryman-McCoy - $9,298, Prather-Lewis - $10,768). Each of the radio ads references "Tuesday's" election, which indicates that such ads were to be aired within the days just prior to such elections. Attachment 1 at 4-5; Attachment 2 at 2. In addition, documents provided by USTL's vendor also indicate that the ads were aired in the days just prior to the elections at issue. Attachment 4 at 5-8.

The statute requires that when any person makes an independent expenditure aggregating $1,000 or more after the 20th day but more than 24 hours prior to any election, such person shall report such expenditure within 24 hours of when it is made. 2 U.S.C. § 434(c)(2). Although the three radio ads expressly advocated the election and defeat of clearly identified candidates and were released within days prior to different elections, there is no evidence that USTL filed the required Section 434(c) statements. Accordingly, this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that USTL violated 2 U.S.C. § 434(c). In addition, as USTL's radio ads constitute "general public advertising," they should have contained disclaimers clearly stating whether or not they were authorized by any candidates or authorized committees. See 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a). USTL's radio ads stated who paid for them, but they did not indicate whether or not they were authorized by any candidate or candidate's committee. Thus, it appears that USTL also violated 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a).⁶

In summary, the evidence presently available indicates that USTL may qualify for the MCFL exemption. The evidence at hand does not establish whether USTL coordinated its radio ads and news releases with candidates and thereby making prohibited or excessive and unreported contributions. In addition, at this point it is unclear whether USTL is a "political committee." To further investigate these complex issues would require far more extensive formal discovery, including issuing subpoenas for depositions to numerous personnel of USTL as well as the candidates and candidate committees who benefited from USTL's radio ads and news releases. To conduct a thorough investigation might also require that we obtain telephone records for calls between USTL and such candidate committees, which may be the only way to determine the extent and duration of the contacts. In light of the lack of information presently at hand to support the allegations and in keeping with the Commission priorities and limited resources, this Office recommends that the Commission find reason to believe that USTL violated 2 U.S.C. § 434(c) and 441d(a) but exercise its prosecutorial discretion and take no further action and close the file in this matter. Heckler v. Chaney, 470 U.S. 821 (1985). An admonishment will be sent.

⁶ None of the four news releases at issue, which may have also constituted general public advertising, contained any disclaimer at all. Thus, they also appear to have been in violation of Section 441d(a). However, given that none of the news releases cost $1,000 or more per election, USTL was not required by Section 434(c) to disclose such payments.

III. MUR 3975

The complaint in MUR 3975 alleged that the Christian Coalition engaged in "tactics designed to influence federal elections without complying with the source restrictions, contribution limits and disclosure requirements" of the statute. See Amendment to complaint, dated June 10, 1994. An article attached to that amendment to the complaint indicated that the Christian Coalition had distributed a "90,000-copy epistle" describing the positions of 1994 Kentucky 2d district Congressional candidates Joe Prather and Ron Lewis. Id. at Attachment 2, page 9. It was also alleged that the Christian Coalition called about 3,000 of its members in Kentucky and urged them to vote. Id. at 11.

The allegations and types of activities noted in this complaint are precisely the type which are addressed in detail and on a much larger scale in MUR 3669, a matter that has involved an extensive investigation that has absorbed substantial Commission resources and is now in litigation. See FEEC v. Christian Coalition, No. 96-CV-01781 (D.D.C. July 30, 1996). Given the foregoing, and in light of priorities and resources, this Office recommends that the Commission exercise its prosecutorial discretion and take no further action against the Christian Coalition and close the file in this matter as it pertains to them. Heckler v. Chaney, 470 U.S. 821 (1985).

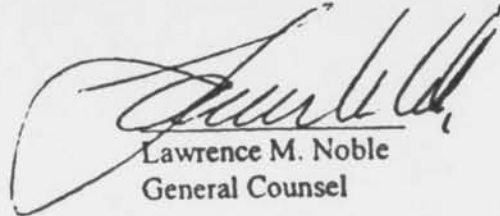

Finally, given our recommendations concerning the Christian Coalition, this Office recommends that the Commission also exercise its prosecutorial discretion with respect to the other respondents in this matter, Lucas for Congress, Chenoweth for Congress and the treasurers of those committees, and close the entire file in MUR 3975.

IV. RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Find reason to believe that United States Term Limits violated 2 U.S.C. §§ 434(c) and 441d(a), but take no further action.

2. Take no action against the Christian Coalition, Lucas for Congress, C.A. Wheeler, as treasurer, Chenoweth for Congress and Wayne Crow, as treasurer.
3. Close the files in MUR 3975 and MUR 4203.
4. Approve the appropriate letters.

Dear Mr. Bauer:

This is in reference to the complaint and amendments which you filed on behalf of the Democratic Campaign Congressional Committee on May 19, June 10 and August 19, 1994. Based upon information provided in the complaint and responses, on April 18, 1995, the Commission found reason to believe that United States Term Limits ("USTL") and Americans for Tax Reform ("ATR") violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a), or, in the alternative 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a) and (b). The Commission also found reason to believe that USTL violated 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a). By same date, the Commission severed the allegations against USTL from MUR 3975 and opened MUR 4203 with respect to it, and severed the allegations against ATR from MUR 3975 and opened MUR 4204 with respect to it.

In MUR 4203, after conducting an investigation into the allegations against USTL, on October 1, 1996, the Commission found reason to believe that USTL violated 2 U.S.C. § 434(c) and 441d(a), but voted to take no further action and closed the file.

In MUR 3975, on October 1, 1996, the Commission voted to take no action with respect to the Christian Coalition, Lucas for Congress, C.A. Wheeler, as treasurer, Chenoweth for Congress, and Wayne Crow, as treasurer. Thus, on that date the Commission closed the file in MUR 3975.

In MUR 4204, the Commission investigated the activities of ATR, but there was an insufficient number of votes to proceed with that investigation or make additional findings. Accordingly, on October 1, 1996 the Commission voted to close the file in MUR 4204. A Statement of Reasons providing a basis for the Commission's decision in MUR 4204 will follow.

The Federal Election Campaign Act allows a complainant to seek judicial review of the Commission's dismissal of this action. See 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(8). If you have any questions, please contact Xavier K. McDonnell, the attorney assigned to this matter, at (202) 219-3400.

RE: MUR 4203 (formerly 4002)
U.S. Term Limits
Paul Jacob
Ron Nehring

Dear Mr. White:

This is in reference to the complaint which you filed on June 30, 1994 against United States Term Limits ("USTL"), Paul Jacob and Ron Nehring. Based upon information provided in the complaint and responses, on April 18, 1995, the Commission found reason to believe that USTL violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a), or, in the alternative 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a) and (b). The Commission also found reason to believe that USTL violated 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a). On the same date, the Commission merged MUR 4002 into MUR 4203, another matter alleging violations by USTL for the same types of activities.

After conducting an investigation, on October 1, 1996, the Commission also found reason to believe that USTL violated 2 U.S.C. §§ 434(c) and 441d(a), but took no further action and closed the file. The Federal Election Campaign Act allows a complainant to seek judicial review of the Commission's dismissal of this action. See 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(8). RE: MUR 4203
Paul Jacob
Peter Roff

Dear Messrs. Dye and Northam:

You have previously been notified that on April 25, 1995, the Federal Election Commission found reason to believe that U. S. Term Limits violated 2 U.S.C. § 441b(a), or in the alternative, 2 U.S.C. §§ 433(a) and 434(a), provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("the Act."). After reviewing information provided by your client in the course of the investigation, on October 1, 1996, the Commission found reason to believe that your client violated 2 U.S.C. §§ 434(c) and 441d(a). However, after considering the circumstances of this matter, the Commission also determined to take no further action and closed its file. The General Counsel's Report, which formed a basis for the Commission's findings, is attached for your information. Note also that although Paul Jacob and Peter Roff were initially notified of the complaint, no findings were ever made with respect to them.

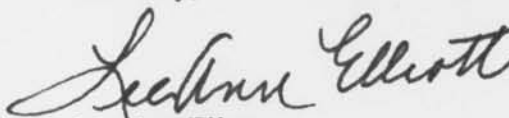

The Commission reminds your client that independent expenditure must be reported in accordance with 2 U.S.C. § 434(c) and that communications which expressly advocate the election or defeat of clearly identified candidates must contain a statement in accordance with 2 U.S.C. § 441d(a). Your client should take steps to ensure that in the future Section 434(c) reports are filed and Section 441d(a) statements are included when required.

The confidentiality provisions at 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(12) no longer apply and this matter is now public. In addition, although the complete file must be placed on the public record within 30 days, this could occur at any time following certification of the Commission's vote. If you wish to submit any factual or legal materials to appear on the public record, please do so as soon as possible. While the file may be placed on the public record before receiving your additional materials, any permissible submissions will be added to the public record upon receipt.
