RESPONSE TO COMPLAINT BY WEST VIRGINIA VALUES, LLC

This is the formal response by West Virginia Values, LLC to the attached Complaint against West Virginia Values, LLC, which was named in the Complaint together with Representative Alan Mollohan and the Alan Mollohan for Congress Committee. Exhibit A

West Virginia Values, LLC was notified of the Complaint by the attached letter from the Federal Election Commission dated November 6, 2006, which was received November 10, 2006. Exhibit B

The Complaint was filed by William J.M. Holley, dated October 26, 2006. Mr. Holley was a salaried employee of the Chris Wakim for Congress Committee, as evidenced by the attached recent report to the FEC by the Wakim Committee. Exhibit C Mr. Wakim was Representative Mollohan's unsuccessful opponent in the 2006 general election, as evidenced by the unofficial results published by the West Virginia Secretary of State. Exhibit D

West Virginia Values, LLC denies completely the Complainant's allegations that its advertisements are "coordinated communications" under the Federal Election Commission regulations for the reasons set forth within this Response.

The Complaint is baseless and West Virginia Values, LLC believes it was simply a political ploy, as Mr. Holley issued the attached press release on October 25, 2006, announcing that the Wakim Campaign would be filing a Complaint with the FEC. The press release was entitled "Mollohan Campaign Implicated in Illegal Coordination with 527 Group", and quoted Mr. Wakim as saying: "Alan Mollohan is a two bit crook and a political thug." The only person "implacting" Representative Mollohan in illegal coordination was Mr. Holley on behalf of the Wakim campaign. Exhibit E

One of the essential elements of the Complaint is the assertion that West Virginia Values' advertisements satisfied the conduct standards of a coordinated communication under 11 CFR 109.21(d) because of the personal relationship of one of the donors, Jeffrey Burum, to West Virginia

Values, LLC, and Representative Mollohan. See paragraph 6 of the Complaint, Exhibit A. Although the Complaint states simply that it is “probable” that this relationship established the coordination, it nonetheless concludes that “the conduct standard of 11 CFR 109.21 has been violated”, but offers no evidence whatsoever that such coordination actually occurred. See paragraphs 9 and 10 of the Complaint, Exhibit A.

There was no coordination between West Virginia Values, LLC, and the relationship between Representative Mollohan and Mr. Burum does not establish this coordination as evidenced by the following:

1. West Virginia Values, LLC did not coordinate either its fundraising or advertising efforts with Representative Mollohan or his campaign staff or committee in any way, as stated in the attached affidavits from its members, R. Lane Bailey, George Carenbauer and Joseph W. Powell. Exhibits F, G and H

2. West Virginia Values, LLC did not solicit the contribution directly or indirectly from Mr. Burum, and Mr. Burum took the initiative to contact West Virginia Values, LLC to offer a contribution. See Affidavit of R. Lane Bailey, Exhibit F

3. Mr. Burum’s contributions to West Virginia Values were unconditional. See Affidavit of R. Lane Bailey, Exhibit F

4. West Virginia Values, LLC was formed on April 14, 2005. It filed the appropriate organization document with the West Virginia Secretary of State (Exhibit I) and filed as a 527 political organization with the Internal Revenue Service (Exhibit J).

5. West Virginia Values, LLC was formed to “educate and motivate the public on issues and public officials relating to the values and well-being of the people of West Virginia” and was not formed to assist any candidate or candidate’s committee. See Part III, “Purpose” in Exhibit J

6. West Virginia Values’ formation in April 2005 was 9 months before Representative Mollohan and Chris Wakim filed for election to the 1st Congressional District of West Virginia in January 2006, and 5 months before Mr. Wakim even announced he intended to seek the Congressional seat in November 2005. Wheeling News-Register, November 13, 2005 Exhibit K

5. West Virginia Values, LLC was very open about its existence and the identity of its members, so there are many ways in which persons such as persons could have learned about and been interested in its efforts, as evidenced by:

* the establishment of a website at www.wvvalues.org, containing information about West Virginia Values, LLC, its members, and contact information, including email addresses and a phone number

* publicity, including with an interview with West Virginia Values Member George Carenbauer broadcast statewide on West Virginia Public Broadcasting on August 22, 2006, several weeks before Mr. Burum contacted West Virginia Values about making a contribution

* the fact that West Virginia Values, LLC was opposed to actions of the Economic Freedom Fund, a 527 political committee that was spending hundreds of thousands of dollars in advertising attacking Representative Mollohan, and Mr. Holley on behalf of the Wakim campaign had actually embraced the ad campaign by the Economic Freedom Fund. Charleston Gazette, September 22, 2005, Exhibit L

* the availability on the internet, since the organization of West Virginia Values in April 2005, of the names and home addresses of all three of its members, as listed on the filings with both the West Virginia Secretary of State and the Internal Revenue Service

Finally, the allegation in the Complaint that the West Virginia Values' advertisements were "express advocacy" is patently false. Both of its television ads consisted of West Virginia veterans expressing their dissatisfaction with Mr. Wakim's characterization of himself as a "Gulf War veteran" when he had in fact remained in the United States during the Gulf War. The ads did not exhort the voters to take action for or against Mr. Wakim or Representative Mollohan, and in fact did not even note that Mr. Wakim was a candidate for Congress. Both advertisements may be seen on West Virginia Values' website at wvvalues.org.

Because the allegations in the Complaint against West Virginia Values, LLC are baseless as demonstrated by this Response and Exhibits, we respectfully request that Federal Election Commission take no further action except to dismiss the Complaint.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

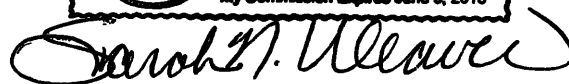

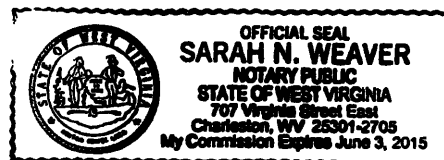

George Carenbauer

Re: Complaint against Alan Mollohan, candidate for U.S. House of Representatives in the First District of West Virginia, the Alan Mollohan for Congress Committee, Richard S. Pizatella, Treasurer, and West Virginia Values, LLC

Dear Sir:

This is a formal complaint to the Federal Election Commission (FEC) concerning the above-named entities. This complaint will demonstrate that West Virginia Values, LLC has made illegal coordinated communications to benefit the Alan Mollohan for Congress Committee, and has made illegal in-kind contributions to the same. The Alan Mollohan for Congress Committee is violating the law by participating in those illegal coordinated communications, as well as by accepting those excess in-kind donations and failing to properly report those donations.

West Virginia Values has run television advertisements in the First District of West Virginia in connection with the race for the US House of Representatives seat in that district. West Virginia Values considers these communications to be "independent expenditures" that are not coordinated with the Mollohan Campaign.

However, the West Virginia Values advertisements are clearly "coordinated communications" under the Federal Election Commission's regulations. Under 11 CFR 109.21, a communication is coordinated if it meets these three tests:

- 1) If the communication is paid for by a person other than the candidate, an authorized committee or a political party or agent of any of the foregoing;
- 2) If the communication satisfies at least one of the content standards in Paragraph (c) of the regulations;
- 3) If the communication satisfies at least one of the conduct standards in paragraph (d) of the regulations.

In this instance, the commercials are paid for by West Virginia Values, i.e., someone other than the Mollohan campaign or its agents, and West Virginia Values is not a political party committee. Therefore, the first element is satisfied.

The messages are electioneering communications and public communications under the applicable regulations and they expressly advocate the election or defeat of a clearly identified candidate for federal office. Thus, the content element of 11 CFR 109.21(c) is satisfied.

Finally, the conduct standards of 11 CFR 109.21(d) are met as well. Here, Jeffery Burum, the principal donor to West Virginia Values ($50,000 out of $60,000 in gross receipts), is the co-chairman of the National Housing Development Corporation, which has received $31 million from the federal government through Mollohan earmarks over the last 5 years, according to the Wall Street Journal.

Burum also sits on the Board of Directors of the Vandalia Heritage Foundation, a non-profit organization created and controlled by Alan Mollohan. The Vandalia Heritage Foundation has received $28 million through Mollohan earmarks over the last 5 years, according to the Wall Street Journal. Contact between Mollohan and the Vandalia Heritage Foundation is long standing, continuing, and well-documented.

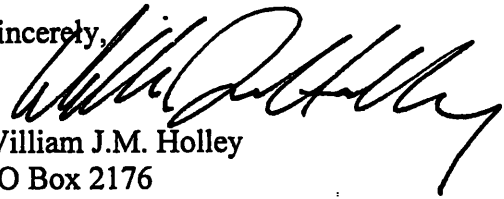

Additionally, Burum and his corporation have directly donated in excess of $20,000 to Mollohan's political committees or his family foundation since 2002, according to documents filed with the FEC and West Virginia Secretary of State.

It is probable, in light of the long relationship and vast sums of money that Mollohan has directed to Burum's organizations (and vice versa), that coordination between them has occurred. This coordination seems all the more likely since Burum has a longstanding history of donating to Mollohan's political campaigns, but in this cycle (Mollohan's only competitive election in decades), Burum donated to West Virginia Values instead.

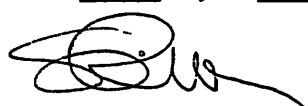

Therefore, the conduct standard of 11 CFR 109.21(d) has been violated. The expenditures by West Virginia Values in opposition to Chris Wakim cannot be independent expenditures and are therefore in-kind contributions to the Mollohan campaign well in excess of statutory maximums. According to FEC records, West Virginia Values has expended $55,000 in opposition to Chris Wakim, vastly exceeding the amount that West Virginia Values could legally donate to the Mollohan campaign. The Mollohan campaign has therefore accepted illegally excessive contributions, and has moreover failed to report those contributions, in further violation of law.

I request that the FEC take immediate action to halt these illegal activities, and I further request that the FEC initiate a full investigation into the activities of West Virginia Values and the Mollohan campaign.

Sincerely,

William J.M. Holley

Mollohan Campaign Implicated in Illegal Coordination With 527 Group

What's One More Federal Offense To Alan Mollohan?

Alan Mollohan has broken yet another federal law in an act of desperation to avoid the increasingly likely scenario of losing his job and ending up in federal prison.

Federal law prohibits any coordination whatsoever between political campaigns and 527 groups. However, the California land baron who funded the shadowy group, West Virginia Values, is a long time Mollohan crony who receives millions in earmarks and returns the favor by sending tens of thousands of dollars back to Mollohan and his organizations. Jeffery Burum, the California land developer who donated $50,000 to the 527 group, sits on the board of the Vandalia Heritage Foundation and is the co-chairman of the National Housing Development Corporation. These organizations are part of the network of non-profit organizations that have put the FBI on Mollohan's trail due to shady financial dealings involving over $200 million in Mollohan earmarks since 20 00, according to the New York Times. Burum also donated well over $20,000 to Mollohan's campaign and foundation since 2002.

Any contact between Mollohan and Burum about the 527's activities would add yet another offence to the long list of Mollohan misdeeds that the federal government is already investigating.

The Wakim Campaign is filing an official complaint with the Federal Election Commission due to illegal coordination between Alan Mollohan and West Virginia Values, LLC, the 527 group that attacked Chris Wakim.

Chris Wakim said, "Alan Mollohan is a two bit crook and a political thug. He and his friends will stop at nothing. This is just the latest indication of why it is so very probable that Alan Mollohan and his buddies are likely to find themselves in jail when all is said and done. You cannot stuff taxpayer dollars into your pockets in corrupt schemes and get away with it forever. While West Virginia families suffer the effects of a bad economy, Alan Mollohan and his pals callously abuse the system for their personal gain. Our friends and families simply will not tolerate it any longer. Alan Mollohan has to go."

Headline: GOP LEADER BLASTS 527S GROUPS HAVE NO CONTRIBUTION LIMIT, CONGRESSMAN SAYS

The chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee said Thursday he opposes organizations with no ties to candidates and no contribution limits being able to run advertisements against congressional candidates - Democrat or Republican.

"I don't like any 527s," Rep. Tom Reynolds, R-N.Y., said about the groups that take their names from a section of the federal tax code.

"I don't care whether they are campaigning for Republicans or Democrats," he said. "I didn't even know they were down there [in West Virginia]. I appreciate the information."

The Economic Freedom Fund, a 527 fund-raising organization that is currently running negative ads against Rep. Alan B. Mollohan, D-W.Va., has gotten support from Mollohan's opponent, state Delegate Chris Wakim, R-Ohio.

Will Holley, spokesman for Wakim, said Economic Freedom Fund ads help the public understand who Mollohan is.

Bill J. Perry, a Houston, Texas, housing developer, is the sole contributor to the Economic Freedom Fund. Perry, who also gave $4.5 million to the Swift Boat attack ad campaign against John Kerry in 2004, has donated $5 million to the Economic Freedom Fund since Aug. 18.

The group is paying for automatic telephone ads, mailings and television ads against Mollohan.

Reynolds, however, stopped short of saying he would ask such groups to stop their actions in West Virginia. During a telephone press conference Thursday, he explained how the GOP congressional group decided to target Mollohan, who has held the 1st Congressional District seat since 1981.

Reynolds said the NRCC added Mollohan to "our 'Sitting Duck Program' which identifies the most vulnerable Democrats" because the congressman "had not raised a lot of money when he started his race ... and the increasing Republican nature of the state made this seat an opportunity for us."

He declined to answer direct questions about the West Virginia race. Mollohan supporters have raised issues about payouts Wakim admitted making for illegal video lottery machines in his bars on Wheeling Island prior to January 2002. "I will leave that up to the voters," Reynolds said

Pressure is building on the Economic Freedom Fund and other 527s, many questioning whether their ads are truthful and whether they have been conducting illegal push polls.

On Monday, Indiana Attorney General Steve Carter sued the Economic Freedom Fund for allegedly making illegal, pre-recorded telephone calls in violation of an Indiana law. The group is also attacking Democrats running for Congress in Indiana, Georgia and Iowa.

Nick Casey, chairman of the West Virginia Democratic Party, said several people have asked state officials to investigate the legality of the ads circulated and aired in West Virginia.

Officials with the state Republican Party did not return telephone calls seeking comment about the ads.

Perry is listed as the sole contributor to the Economic Freedom Fund, a Sacramento, Calif.-based 527 group. Named after a section of federal tax law, 527s are not subject to conventional campaign finance restrictions.

James Boyce, executive director of the Patriot Project based in Boston, Mass., said his group is focused on making 527 groups more transparent to the public.

"The Economic Freedom Fund is the mother ship of these groups. They are spending money attacking candidates all around the country," Boyce said.

One telephone ad the group is using in Northern West Virginia says doctors are leaving the state because of the inaction of Mollohan in not reforming malpractice laws and to "limit lawsuit abuse."

The West Virginia Board of Medicine reports the number of actively licensed physicians in the state has increased from 3,317 to 3,650 since 1997.

Another telephone ad states Mollohan is under federal investigation for steering a quarter-billion dollars to his district. That call, and television ads bought by the fund, focus on a 500-page April report by the conservative political group National Legal and Policy Center.

Mollohan released detailed financial reports in June [redacted] said proved the group had "w[redacted] exaggerated the inadvertent errors on my [redacted] financial disclosure statements. They also show that NLPC is dead wrong in implying that I have improperly benefited from my office."

The NLPC has refused to release the report

The fund has also mailed four ads to state residents accusing Mollohan of such things as voting against "Amber Alert" bills to protect sexually abused children and failing to support pharmaceutical coverage for seniors.

Mollohan did vote against one "Amber Alert" bill because he thought it was too weak. He voted for another bill with more federal funds that has already created protection programs in 54 of West Virginia's 55 counties, said Gerry Griffith, a spokesman for Mollohan's campaign.

The fund's ads never point out those facts. The fund also routinely refuses to answer any telephone calls

~~But Holley called the ads "entirely legitimate."~~

"Alan Mollohan needs to explain to voters how he could vote against a bill designed to protect our children from kidnappers and child molesters," he said.

"I don't think [the Economic Freedom Fund] are bothered by the truth," said Doug Moore, who is running the re-election campaign of Rep. Jim Marshall, D-Ga. "Fact checking is not their strong point "

Moore said Marshall, Rep. Leonard Boswell, D-Iowa, and former Rep. Baron Hill, D-Ind., have all been targeted by the Perry-funded group. Many of the ads it has run against them have focused on issues like gay marriage, child molesters, pornography, abortion and immigration.

"Politics is not for the faint of heart. But there has to be a basis in fact for what you say," said Moore
